Cut In Income Levy, Spending Urged By Taft

Republican Program Proposed By Ohioan

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) tonight proposed a Republican legislative program designed to "discourage" strikes, cut the federal budget to $33,500,000,000 and slice 20 per cent off personal income taxes.

In an address before the Economic Club, the chairman of the Senate GOP Steering Committee called also for extension of federal aid to the states for housing, welfare, education and medical care. He promised GOP efforts to expand Social Security coverage.

Taft criticized President Truman's economic report to Congress as "inconsistent," asserting that "peeking around all the corners of the report we see the whiskers of the New Deal."

In this report, Mr. Truman recommended that industry sponsor lower prices while labor settled its bid for higher wages on the basis of what individual management is able to pay.

The Ohio Senator, explaining he was voicing only his personal views, said the report "recognizes that the best method of bringing real purchasing power to consumers is through the reduction of prices rather than the increase in wages."

Economic Structure Threatened

But he added that "it hedges on the question like a political report instead of a courageous economic statement."

"The spending theories of Harry Hopkins gradually take command and determine the ultimate recommendation," Taft said. "Then it (the report) seems to adopt the theory that mass purchasing power is the solution of all problems and presents a justification for every New Deal measure. In short, we are again going to spend ourselves into prosperity."

Taft said the Republicans feel that "our present personal income taxes threaten the soundness of our economic structure." As a result, he added, he favors an overall 20 per cent reduction.

To make this possible, he declared, Republicans generally feel that from three to four billion dollars can be squeezed out of the $37,000,000,000 budget the President is expected to submit to Congress tomorrow.

Taft outlined as an immediate labor program the bill which he introduced with Sen. Ball (R-Minn).

In brief, it would set up a mediation board which could delay strikes for 60 days, "equalize" collective bargaining rights of employers and unions, require financial reports by unions, ban jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts and deny unionization to foremen.

Against Compulsory Arbitration

Such a program, he said, would be designed to "discourage the strikes which have so seriously interfered with the welfare and progress of the public."

For further study, he continued, the Republicans will give attention to banning the closed shop, limiting industry-wide bargaining, curbing violence in labor disputes, modifying the Wagner Act and providing compulsory arbitration.

The Ohio Senator said he was against compulsory arbitration, although he conceded it might work in cases involving interpretations of disputes.

New Case Bill Is Offered; CIO Gives Warning

Provision On Court Injunctions Included

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Rep. Francis Case (R-SD), introducing the 1947 version of his Case bill, proposed today that the government have permanent authority to block coal strikes and other disrupting walkouts through court injunctions.

Case's new bill was perhaps twice as broad in scope as the measure which passed Congress last year and died in the White House.

He added a string of Wagner Act amendments and other proposals. One of these amendments would make workers, as well as employers, subject to charges of "unfair labor practices."

The new provision on court injunctions, Case said in a statement, "legalizes the course of action followed in the John L. Lewis case without requiring government seizure."

To halt a strike last year in the federal-held soft coal mines, the government got a restraining order in a federal court. When Lewis ignored the order, the judge fined him and the United Mine Workers for contempt of court.

Would Be Last Resort

Under the new Case bill, such procedure could be used only as a last resort, and after the President had declared an emergency. It could be used only when a dispute in an "essential monopolized service or industry" endangers "public welfare, health or safety."

Case told a reporter this would include the coal industry "if the strike was nationwide." When asked if it included the steel industry, he said "that would depend on the circumstances of the emergency." He said the word "monopolized" would refer to union monopoly as well as employer monopoly.

Case said his bill would not give any private employers the right to get a labor injunction. The United States Attorney General would have to do it.

Case wrapped into one package about 40 or 50 of the proposed labor law changes which Republicans and some Democrats have been talking about.

At the same time, the opposition blossomed into action:

CIO Hits Labor Proposals

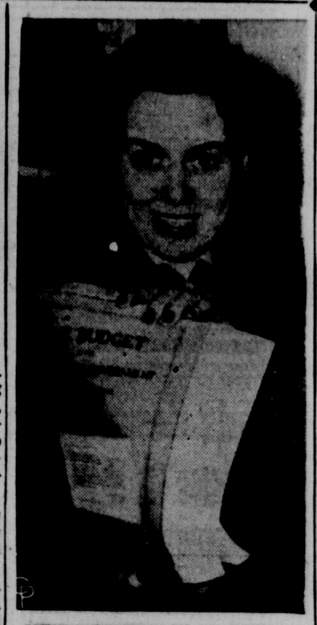
1. CIO President Philip Murray, in a letter to every member of Congress, said that pending labor proposals seek to destroy organized labor and menace "our whole framework of American civil liberties."

2. The AFL said in a statement that it and the railroad brotherhoods were joining "in a united campaign to combat and defeat dangerous restrictive legislation."

3. Sen. James Murray (D-Mont) described a meeting which seven Democrat Senators held with Philip Murray last night. Sen. Murray said "every senator present was convinced that drastic punitive legislation is not the approach to good labor-management relations."

The new Case bill in the House, being a big catch-all measure, was contrary to the strategy of Senate Republicans.

They have decided to proceed first of all with a slightly-revised version of the 1946 Case bill under the name of the Ball-Taft-Smith bill. Then the Senate Republicans will give longer study to other proposals like changing the Wagner Act and outlawing the closed shop.



NEW BUDGET—A member of the White House secretarial staff, Jeanne Leggette, is shown holding a printed copy of the budget for the period ending June 30, 1948, which President Truman will present to Congress today. The new budget is reported to be $37,000,000,000.

GOP Campaigns To Slash Both Fail To Abate

Treasury Secretary, Legislators Confer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder met with a group of Congress members today, including Republicans, but there was no sign of slackening in the announced GOP drive to slash the Truman budget.

Those who conferred with the Treasury head did not divulge much of the conversations to reporters. But after they returned to the Capitol, talk of budget cutting continued.

As for taxes, a number of Republicans continued to drive for a 20 per cent individual income tax cut, while others reiterated their previous stand that the whole fiscal situation must be canvassed before a definite decision is reached.

The meeting was timed on the eve of President Truman's dispatch of his budget message to Congress. The message is reported to call for $37,000,000,000 of government spending in the year beginning July 1. This is about $5,000,000,000 under the present year's prospective outlay out many Republicans contend there should be a bigger cut.

"Get Acquainted Affair"

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee, and Chairman Millikin (R-Colo), of the Senate Finance Committee — two of those meeting with Snyder — described their lunch with him as a purely social "get acquainted affair," but this apparently was the lull before the storm on the budget issue.

Chairman Taber (NY), of the Appropriations Committee, reiterated to reporters that he expects to cut $8,000,000,000 off the President's budget figure if it calls for $37,000,000,000 in new appropriations.

"We can cut the budget to $29,141,000,000, and I've got the figures to prove it," Taber said.

Taber wants 1,000,000 federal workers taken from the payroll.

Knutson stood firm on his House Bill No. 1 proposing a 20 per cent slash in personal income taxes this year, but one highly-placed Republican senator told the reporters privately the idea of an immediate 20 per cent $3,350,000,000 tax slash does not appeal to him.

"How can you say you are going to cut taxes by any figures, until you know what the income and outgo of the government is going to be?" he asked.

Byrd Asks Payroll Cut

Millikin, who will be the Republicans' chief tax manager in the Senate, said "I think we can have a tax cut, but I don't say what kind — how much here and how much there."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), declaring the budget can't be balanced with 2,330,000 on the federal payroll, called upon Congress "to correct this evil." He reported salaries of the executive branch run to $6,250,000,000 annually.

Byrd, chairman of the Special Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Cost, told the Senate in a statement that the Veterans' Administration took on 8,364 employes during November, making its total 221,760. At the same time the War Assets Administration added 1,599 for a total of 58,922. They constituted the two biggest increases.

Federal employment dropped 111,006 during November to a total of 2,330,467. The War Department lopped off 46,651, the Postoffice 37,345, and the Labor Department, by returning the employment service to the states, 22,720.

War Contracts Will Be Probed By Senate Group

Inquiry Into Housing Shortage Is Planned

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—The Senate War Investigating Committee intends to find out who made how much in profits from the billions of dollars in war contracts, Sen. Brewster (R-Me) said today.

Brewster, new committee chairman, told reporters the group also plans a "complete inquiry" into the housing shortage with special emphasis on veterans' housing.

The committee's authority soon will expire and it must obtain a fresh grant of power from the Senate if it is to continue operations.

That new grant became virtually assured today when the Rules Committee voted to recommend it. The Senate, which may act tomorrow, seldom turns down its Rules Committee's recommendations.

The Rules Committee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R-Ill), also decided the Senate should continue to have a special committee to investigate problems of small business.

However, it voted to create a new committee in this field rather than continue one from the last congress.

The practical effect of this maneuver was to put Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) in line to be chairman because he introduced a resolution for a new committee. If the old committee had been continued, Sen. Wilson (R-Iowa) would have been in line for the chairmanship as the Republican member who had served on it longest.

Democrats on the Rules Committee voted against both actions. They protested that Democratic senators had not had opportunity to adopt a policy stand.

After the rules meeting, Brooks told reporters that neither Brewster nor Wherry had asked any funds to carry on their special committees.

Brewster said one war investigating group had sufficient money to go ahead with present work for about two months. The Senate has been providing it with about $200,000 a year since it was first established under President Truman when he was a senator.

Senate Rules Group Will Handle Election Contests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Senate Republicans today took from a Democratic-dominated committee of the old Congress the handling of three contests over Senate elections.

Chairman Brooks (R-Ill) announced the new Rules Committee voted unanimously "to assume responsibility for election contests filed in this Congress."

He said there were three, all filed by Republican Senate candidates who lost to Democrats: D. John Markey in Maryland against Sen. O'Conor; Tom Sweeney in West Virginia against Sen. Kilgore, and Lester S. Parson in Virginia against Sen. Byrd.

U.S. Is Stalling On Arms Reduction, Gromyko Says

Johnson Insists Atom Control Come First

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—In the face of Russian charges that the United States was stalling on the whole question of arms reduction, the American delegation to the United Nations stood firm tonight on a demand that control of atomic energy must come first.

"Effective international control of atomic energy is the key to the whole program and must come first," Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, told the Security Council emphatically at the outset of full-scale debate on the basic arms proposal laid down in December by the General Assembly.

Johnson took the floor after Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, recently named a deputy foreign minister, bluntly accused the United States of seeking to delay measures for general regulation and cutting of arms and armed forces. Gromyko said the American delegation had adopted a take-it-or-leave-it attitude.

Gromyko Gives U. S. "Position"

The Soviet delegate declared that the United States position boiled down to this:

"Either you agree to the American proposals on control of atomic energy and then we agree to the proposals on working out practical measures on the general reduction of armaments and armed forces, or —if everything does not go smoothly with the American proposals on control of atomic energy, then we refuse in general to occupy ourselves with the working out of measures for general reduction of armaments and armed forces."

Gromyko's speech was considered especially significant in that Russia, along with Poland, abstained in the final 10 to 0 vote for the

Locomotive Blows Up, Killing Three And Derailing Train

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 9. (AP)—Three trainmen were killed and four cars of the 11-car westbound Empire Builder's Pullman section were derailed tonight when the locomotive blew up near Crary, N. D., 398 miles west of St. Paul, Great Northern Railway officials said.

The victims were: Engineer Reginald Bennet and Fireman Wilbert Hoff, both of Grand Forks, N. D., and E. A. Zinter, a district roadmaster for the railway who had boarded the locomotive at Grand Forks to return to his Larimore, N. D. headquarters.

L. E. Cordingley, the conductor, who made the first report of the mishap over a farmhouse telephone, said several members of the dining car crew had been hurt and one woman passenger injured, none of them seriously.

176 Legislators Ask For Pensions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Forty-three former and 133 present members of the House have applied for pensions under the reorganization act, the biggest of which may range up to $9,375 a year.

Among the applicants is former Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky), who is 71. He may pay $2,716 and get $3,376 annually for life, or pay $8,463 and receive $3,958 a year.

While the names of the House applicants were made available today, Senate officials withheld decision on making public the names of senators and former senators who have applied.

With the deadline for final filing by incumbents almost six months away, scores more are expected to take advantage of the new law.

Present members can draw no money as long as they are in Congress, but their contributions start immediately at the rate of six per cent of their pay. Incumbents have until July 2 to apply.

Gen. Marshall To Spend Several Days In Hawaii

HONOLULU, Jan. 9 (AP) — Gen. Marshall, en route home to take up his new appointment as Secretary of State, arrived in Honolulu late last night and planned to spend several days resting before continuing his journey.

Flying from China in his special C-54, the General arrived at Hickam Field at 11 p. m. yesterday (4:30 a. m., today, Eastern Standard Time.)

Smiling and appearing fit despite the tiring flight, the General posed for pictures with his wife, who met him here, but declined any comment on his new job.

Truman, Marshall Facing Headache Over Tariff Plan

Republicans Oppose Reduction In Tariffs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Republican opposition wrote a big question mark today after President Truman's plan for reducing tariffs by agreement with other nations to promote trade.

It seemed certain to give Gen. George C. Marshall his major homefront headache as Secretary of State.

On the outcome of the dispute may hinge the ability of the American delegation to the international trade organization at Geneva in April to realize its plans for tariff cuts and elimination of trade preferences.

In his economic report to Congress, Mr. Truman noted that "sales of goods and services abroad, amounting to about 15 billion dollars in 1946, played an important role in the maintaining of domestic production, employment, and purchasing power and may be expected to do so this year."

By cutting our own import duties, the President added, this nation can obtain similar concessions from other countries along with "limitation of a mass of restrictions, in particular, rigid import quotas preventing our access to foreign markets."

Senate Republican leader White (Me) agreed that "reduction of trade barriers may stimulate international trade, but I do not know at whose cost." He added that the people of his state "have a general feeling of apprehension about the reciprocal trade program" and "don't like it."

Five other Republican Senators —Brewster (Me) Butler (Neb), Capehart (Ind), Hickenlooper (Iowa) and Wiley (Wis)—also expressed general opposition to the trade pact program in separate interviews or statements.

Wage-Hour Chief Requests Changes In Fair Labor Act

Walling Would Solve Portal Pay Situation

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — L. Metcalfe Walling, wage-hour administrator, renewed requests today in his 1946 report to Congress for two changes in the Fair Labor Standards Act which he said would have averted situations resulting in portal-to-portal pay suits.

The first proposal was that the administrator be granted "power, subject to court review, to issue authoritative definitions of general terms used in the statute, so that employes complying with his definitions would be protected from liability for the period such rulings are in effect."

"Reasonable Statute of Limitations"

The second recommendation was for a "reasonable statute of limitations in the Fair Labor Standard Act, to apply to employe suits for back wages and damages."

The total amount sought in portal-to-portal suits throughout the nation now has reached nearly $4,000,000,000.

Discussing his first proposal, Walling said, "at the present time the administrator can give only advisory opinions which are at best his informed guess and prediction of what the courts will decide.

"Any court in the land, state or federal, has jurisdiction to entertain suits under the act and inevitably will interpret it in deciding these cases."

After asking for the power to issue specific definitions of the act's general terms, Walling said he then could "protect employers from any civil or criminal liability where they are complying with the administrator's regulations."

Urged Changes In 1944 And 1945

Walling pointed out he had made similar recommendations in his 1944 and 1945 reports. The report for last year was made public here at the wage and hour and public contracts division of the United States Department of Labor.

The report suggested that, with the war ended, it now was time "to review this basic economic charter for low-paid workers" and "to suggest other means of increasing the benefits of the act for covered wage earners and of extending coverage to additional workers."

Walling recommended that Congress establish a new minimum wage of 65 cents to replace the present 60 cents, declaring that cost-of-living increases had reduced the purchasing power of 40 cents to 27 cents or "in terms of its yearly equivalent, to the shockingly low figure of $540."

Motorist Is Tied To Tree And Used As Human Target By Two Former Marines

Hitch-Hikers, Held On Murder Charges, Say Victim Asked Them Not To Harm Him

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 9 (AP)—Two hitch-hiking ex-Marines were held on murder charges here tonight after they calmly told officers they took a motorist who had given them a lift, tied him to a tree and shot him to death, using him as a human target

The prisoners, booked as James D. Sandusky, 19, Nashville, and John T. Kelly, 20, Marion, Ill., led state police to the body of J. Edward Sprouse, 36, Clarksville, Tenn., accountant, Tuesday night. The youths had been captured in Alabama near the Tennessee line a short time earlier after once escaping police during a running gun battle.

State Safety Commissioner Lynn Bomar said the youths, dishonorably discharged Marines who first met in a Marine brig in Boston, told of thumbing a ride with Sprouse near Nashville Monday morning. After riding five or six miles, Sandusky placed a pistol at the driver's head and ordered him to turn off on a side road, where Sandusky took the wheel, Bomar said the youths related.

"We were going to drop him off at some phosphate pits," Bomar quoted Sandusky, "but I must have got mixed up in my directions. We stopped the car on a county road near Centerville and tied Sprouse to a tree, using his coat belt, leather belt and red necktie."

Bomar said the youths then returned to the car engaged in an argument about how much time they would have to get away before Sprouse freed himself.

"We both got out of the car after I had said, 'Let's get rid of him then.'" Bomar quoted Sandusky.

"We walked toward him and he asked us not to harm him. I cocked the gun and shot him seven times. I did all the shooting. Kelly just stood there."

At this point, Bomar said, Sandusky paused to boast that he qualified as a rifle and pistol marksman while in the Marine Corps.

"I was about 10 feet from Sprouse," Bomar said Sandusky continued "When I fired the first shot. Before I pulled the trigger, he looked at me and said, 'Please don't harm me,' but I shot him anyway. He slumped but didn't cry out: I hit him close to the heart. I shot seven times."

Bomar said a $30 gasoline-station holdup in Pulaski, Tenn., led to the capture of the two youths and the discovery of the body of Sprouse. The body had been untied from the tree and dragged deeper into the woods, the youths saying they had moved it because it was too close to the road.

U. S. Determined To Start Collecting From Japan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—State and War Department officials said tonight the United States is determined to start collection of reparations from Japan immediately, even without full agreement on terms with Russia and other wartime allies.

James K. Penfield, deputy director of the State Department's Office of Far Eastern Affairs, said an urgent directive to Gen. MacArthur is under consideration to start removals soon of Japanese industrial plants and equipment.

Assistant Secretary Howard C. Petersen, of the War Department, advised that Gen. MacArthur and the Japanese should be told as soon as possible what levels of industry Japan will be permitted to keep "so that the Japanese can work out their economic recovery on a realistic basis and cease to be a charge on the American budget."

French Protest Over Oil Pact Is Rejected By U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The United States has rejected a French complaint over a recent agreement in the Middle East that involved two major American oil companies.

This was disclosed today by a State Department spokesman. He told reporters the United States regarded the matter as a private affair between companies and not an inter-governmental problem.

French Ambassador Henri Bonnet saw Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton Monday to tell him of France's concern over the deal.

The basis of France's representations was that Standard Oil of New Jersey and Socony Vacuum Oil should not have been allowed to buy a reported 40 per cent of the rights to oil in Saudi Arabia.

Joint Really Jumping

High-Stepping Ladies Of Grandma's Night Out Club Hold First '47 Party

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Those hardy perennials, the high-stepping old ladies of the original Grandma's Night Out Club, have thrown their first party of the new year—and boy, the joint was really jumping.

About 30 grandmas, ranging in age from the mid-60s to 90, participated in a round of youthful hijinx at last night's party, held at the Central Branch YMCA in the pleasantly daft borough of Brooklyn.

"Woo-woo-woo-woo," chanted the white-haired merrymakers as 70-year-old Mrs. Josephine Berman hopped and skipped in a ceremonial Indian dance while dressed in Indian princess regalia.

"I can do the jitterburg, rhumba, samba and you name it," said "Josie" Berman. She's a great grandmother who says she started dancing five years ago, a year after her husband died.

Mrs. Josephine Layton, 72, who plays music on a collection of black ebony bones, was a feature of the old timers "floor show." There were some youthful ringers from a theatrical school in the show but most of the performers were authentic grandmas.

The ladies then danced with each other and with a couple of grandpas who crashed the gate.

"I wouldn't call us rug cutters," said one old lady modestly. "We don't do much more than scratch them."

The club members meet for a blowout each month under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Kaiser, 76, the chief grandma. They've been doing it for more than 10 years.

"We used to have more than 150 members," said Mrs. Kaiser, "but sickness, infirmities, death and just plain laziness have cut the list of active ones down to about 30."

Blow At Indigestion

Pepper Urges Regular Lunch Hour For Senators To Avert Ill Tempers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Senators get hungry, just like people.

But unlike people, they don't have a regular lunch hour.

The appalling conditions under which senators work have been brought up by one of them, Claude Pepper (D-Fla).

He told the Senate yesterday — and elaborated to a reporter today—his ideas on the care and feeding of senators.

You see, the Senate opens for business, or a reasonable facsimile, at noon.

Then it usually stays in continuous session until it decides to knock off work for the day. This means a session may last a few minutes, or hours.

So the custom is for senators to sneak out one by one, or maybe even four by four, to get something to eat.

Sen. Pepper doesn't like it.

He says this leads to three evils:

1. Along about 1:30 p. m., spectators may find only three or four senators on the floor. This may lead to ill-tempered constituents.

2. Senators often are eating when they should be listening to an important discussion. This may lead to ill-tempered legislation.

3. Senators often are called away from their meals, "perhaps two or three times," to answer quorum calls or to vote. This may lead to ill-tempered senators.

Pepper's idea: Let the Senate meet at 10 or 10:30 a. m., and then lunch at around 1 p. m.

Pepper said he knew custom calls for a noon meeting of the Senate, and that the Senate is custom's slave, but—

"It's so sensible I'm surprised we haven't done it already."

And he hurried off to eat.

BUDGET, TAXES SHARE LIMELIGHT

Republican Program Proposed By Ohioan

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) tonight proposed a Republican legislative program designed to "discourage" strikes, cut the federal budget to $33,500,000,000 and slice 20 per cent off personal income taxes.

In an address before the Economic Club, the chairman of the Senate GOP Steering Committee called also for extension of federal aid to the states for housing, welfare, education and medical care. He promised GOP efforts to expand Social Security coverage.

Taft criticised President Truman's economic report to Congress as "inconsistent," asserting that "peeking around all the corners of the report we see the whiskers of the New Deal."

In this report, Mr. Truman recommended that industry sponsor lower prices while labor settled its bid for higher wages on the basis of what individual management is able to pay.

The Ohio Senator, explaining he was voicing only his personal views, said the report "recognizes that the best method of bringing real purchasing power to consumers is through the reduction of prices rather than the increase in wages."

Economic Structure Threatened

But he added that "it hedges on the question like a political report instead of a courageous economic statement."

"The spending theories of Harry Hopkins gradually take command and determine the ultimate recommendation," Taft said. "Then it (the report) seems to adopt the theory that mass purchasing power is the solution of all problems and presents a justification for every New Deal measure. In short, we are again going to spend ourselves into prosperity."

Taft said the Republicans feel that "our present personal income taxes threaten the soundness of our economic structure." As a result, he added, he favors an overall 20 per cent reduction.

To make this possible, he declared, Republicans generally feel that from three to four billion dollars can be squeezed out of the $37,000,000,000 budget the President is expected to submit to Congress tomorrow.

Taft outlined as an immediate labor program the bill which he introduced with Sen. Ball (R-Minn).

In brief, it would set up a mediation board which could delay strikes for 60 days, "equalize" collective bargaining rights of employers and unions, require financial reports by unions, ban jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts and deny unionization to foremen.

Against Compulsory Arbitration

Such a program, he said, would be designed to "discourage the strikes which have so seriously interfered with the welfare and progress of the public."

For further study, he continued, the Republicans will give attention to banning the closed shop, limiting industry-wide bargaining, curbing violence in labor disputes, modifying the Wagner Act and providing compulsory arbitration.

The Ohio Senator said he was against compulsory arbitration, although he conceded it might work in cases involving interpretations of disputes.

New Case Bill Is Offered; CIO Gives Warning

Provision On Court Injunctions Included

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Rep. Francis Case (R-SD), introducing the 1947 version of his Case bill, proposed today that the government have permanent authority to block coal strikes and other disrupting walkouts through court injunctions.

Case's new bill was perhaps twice as broad in scope as the measure which passed Congress last year and died in the White House.

He added a string of Wagner Act amendments and other proposals. One of these amendments would make workers, as well as employers, subject to charges of "unfair labor practices."

The new provision on court injunctions, Case said in a statement, "legalizes the course of action followed in the John L. Lewis case without requiring government seizure."

To halt a strike last year in the federal-held soft coal mines, the government got a restraining order in a federal court. When Lewis ignored the order, the judge fined him and the United Mine Workers for contempt of court.

Would Be Last Resort

Under the new Case bill, such procedure could be used only as a last resort, and after the President had declared an emergency. It could be used only when a dispute in an "essential monopolized service or industry" endangers "public welfare, health or safety."

Case told a reporter this would include the coal industry "if the strike was nationwide." When asked if it included the steel industry, he said "that would depend on the circumstances of the emergency." He said the word "monopolized" would refer to union monopoly as well as employer monopoly.

Case said his bill would not give any private employers the right to get a labor injunction. The United States Attorney General would have to do it.

Case wrapped into one package about 40 or 50 of the proposed labor law changes which Republicans and some Democrats have been talking about.

At the same time, the opposition blossomed into action:

CIO Hits Labor Proposals

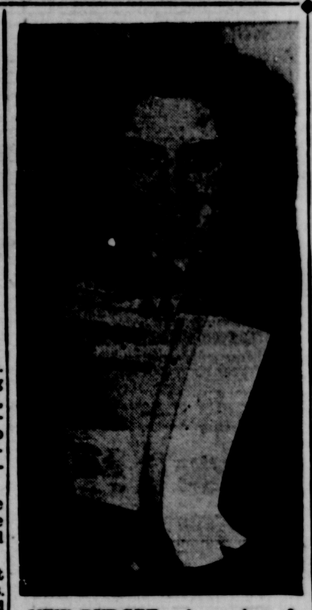
1. CIO President Philip Murray, in a letter to every member of Congress, said that pending labor proposals seek to destroy organized labor and menace "our whole framework of American civil liberties."

2. The AFL said in a statement that it and the railroad brotherhoods were joining "in a united campaign to combat and defeat dangerous restrictive legislation."

3. Sen. James Murray (D-Mont) described a meeting which seven Democrat Senators held with Philip Murray last night. Sen. Murray said "every senator present was convinced that drastic punitive legislation is not the approach to good labor-management relations."

The new Case bill in the House, being a big catch-all measure, was contrary to the strategy of Senate Republicans.

They have decided to proceed first of all with a slightly-revised version of the 1946 Case bill under the name of the Ball-Taft-Smith bill. Then the Senate Republicans will give longer study to other proposals like changing the Wagner Act and outlawing the closed shop.



NEW BUDGET—A member of the White House secretarial staff, Jeanne Leggette, is shown holding a printed copy of the budget for the period ending June 30, 1948, which President Truman will present to Congress today. The new budget is reported to be $37,000,000,000.

GOP Campaigns To Slash Both Fail To Abate

Treasury Secretary, Legislators Confer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder met with a group of Congress members today, including Republicans, but there was no sign of slackening in the announced GOP drive to slash the Truman budget.

Those who conferred with the Treasury head did not divulge much of the conversations to reporters. But after they returned to the Capitol, talk of budget cutting continued.

As for taxes, a number of Republicans continued to drive for a 20 per cent individual income tax cut, while others reiterated their previous stand that the whole fiscal situation must be canvassed before a definite decision is reached.

The meeting was timed on the eve of President Truman's dispatch of his budget message to Congress. The message is reported to call for $37,000,000,000 of government spending in the year beginning July 1. This is about $5,000,000,000 under the present year's prospective outlay out many Republicans contend there should be a bigger cut.

"Get Acquainted Affair"

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee, and Chairman Millikin (R-Colo), of the Senate Finance Committee — two of those meeting with Snyder — described their lunch with him as a purely social "get acquainted affair," but this apparently was the lull before the storm on the budget issue.

Chairman Taber (NY), of the Appropriations Committee, reiterated to reporters that he expects to cut $8,000,000,000 off the President's budget figure if it calls for $37,000,000,000 in new appropriations.

"We can cut the budget to $29,141,000,000, and I've got the figures to prove it," Taber said.

Taber wants 1,000,000 federal workers taken from the payroll.

Knutson stood firm on his House Bill No. 1 proposing a 20 per cent slash in personal income taxes this year, but one highly-placed Republican senator told the reporters privately the idea of an immediate 20 per cent $3,350,000,000 tax slash does not appeal to him.

"How can you say you are going to cut taxes by any figures, until you know what the income and outgo of the government is going to be?" he asked.

Byrd Asks Payroll Cut

Millikin, who will be the Republicans' chief tax manager in the Senate, said "I think we can have a tax cut, but I don't say what kind — how much here and how much there."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), declaring the budget can't be balanced with 2,330,000 on the federal payroll, call upon Congress "to correct this evil." He reported salaries of the executive branch run to $6,250,000,000 annually.

Byrd, chairman of the Special Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Cost, told the Senate in a statement that the Veterans' Administration took on 8,364 employes during November, making its total 221,760. At the same time the War Assets Administration added 1,599 for a total of 58,922. They constituted the two biggest increases.

Federal employment dropped 111,006 during November to a total of 2,330,467. The War Department lopped off 46,651, the Postoffice 37,345, and the Labor Department, by returning the employment service to the states, 22,720.

War Contracts Will Be Probed By Senate Group

Inquiry Into Housing Shortage Is Planned

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—The Senate War Investigating Committee intends to find out who made how much in profits from the billions of dollars in war contracts, Sen. Brewster (R-Me) said today.

Brewster, new committee chairman, told reporters the group also plans a "complete inquiry" into the housing shortage with special emphasis on veterans' housing.

The committee's authority soon will expire and it must obtain a fresh grant of power from the Senate if it is to continue operations.

That new grant became virtually assured today when the Rules Committee voted to recommend it. The Senate, which may act tomorrow, seldom turns down its Rules Committee's recommendations.

The Rules Committee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R-Ill), also decided the Senate should continue to have a special committee to investigate problems of small business.

However, it voted to create a new committee in this field rather than continue one from the last congress.

The practical effect of this maneuver was to put Sen. Wherry (R-Neb) in line to be chairman because he introduced a resolution for a new committee. If the old committee had been continued, Sen. Wilson (R-Iowa) would have been in line for the chairmanship as the Republican member who had served on it longest.

Democrats on the Rules Committee voted against both actions. They protested that Democratic senators had not had opportunity to adopt a policy stand.

After the rules meeting, Brooks told reporters that neither Brewster nor Wherry had asked any funds to carry on their special committees.

Brewster said one war investigating group had sufficient money to go ahead with present work for about two months. The Senate has been providing it with about $300,000 a year since it was first established under President Truman when he was a senator.

U.S. Is Stalling On Arms Reduction, Gromyko Says

Johnson Insists Atom Control Come First

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP)—In the face of Russian charges that the United States was stalling on the whole question of arms reduction, the American delegation to the United Nations stood firm tonight on a demand that control of atomic energy must come first.

"Effective international control of atomic energy is the key to the whole program and must come first," Herschel V. Johnson, United States delegate, told the Security Council emphatically at the outset of full-scale debate on the basic arms proposal laid down in December by the General Assembly.

Johnson took the floor after Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, recently named a deputy foreign minister, bluntly accused the United States of seeking to delay measures for general regulation and cutting of arms and armed forces. Gromyko said the American delegation had adopted a take-it-or-leave-it attitude.

Gromyko Gives U. S. "Position"

The Soviet delegate declared that the United States position boiled down to this:

"Either you agree to the American proposals on control of atomic energy and then we agree to the proposals on working out practical measures on the general reduction of armaments and armed forces, or—if everything does not go smoothly with the American proposals on control of atomic energy, then we refuse in general to occupy ourselves with the working out of measures for general reduction of armaments and armed forces."

Gromyko's speech was considered especially significant in that Russia, along with Poland, abstained in the final 10 to 0 vote for the

Truman, Marshall Facing Headache Over Tariff Plan

Republicans Oppose Reduction In Tariffs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Republican opposition wrote a big question mark today after President Truman's plan for reducing tariffs by agreement with other nations to promote trade.

It seemed certain to give Gen. George C. Marshall his major homefront headache as Secretary of State.

On the outcome of the dispute may hinge the ability of the American delegation to the international trade organization at Geneva in April to realise its plans for tariff cuts and elimination of trade preferences.

In his economic report to Congress, Mr. Truman noted that "sales of goods and services abroad, amounting to about 15 billion dollars in 1946, played an important role in the maintaining of domestic production, employment, and purchasing power and may be expected to do so this year."

By cutting our own import duties, the President added, this nation can obtain similar concessions from other countries along with "limitation of a mass of restrictions, in particular, rigid import quotas preventing our access to foreign markets."

Senate Republican leader White (Me) agreed that "reduction of trade barriers may stimulate international trade, but I do not know at whose cost." He added that the people of his state "have a general feeling of apprehension about the reciprocal trade program" and "don't like it."

Five other Republican Senators—Brewster (Me) Butler (Neb), Capehart (Ind), Hickenlooper (Iowa) and Wiley (Wis)—also expressed general opposition to the trade pact program in separate interviews or statements.

Wage-Hour Chief Requests Changes In Fair Labor Act

Walling Would Solve Portal Pay Situation

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — L. Metcalfe Walling, wage-hour administrator, renewed requests today in his 1946 report to Congress for two changes in the Fair Labor Standards Act which he said would have averted situations resulting in portal-to-portal pay suits.

The first proposal was that the administrator be granted "power, subject to court review, to issue authoritative definitions of general terms used in the statute, so that employes complying with his definitions would be protected from liability for the period such rulings are in effect."

"Reasonable Statute of Limitations"

The second recommendation was for a "reasonable statute of limitations in the Fair Labor Standard Act, to apply to employe suits for back wages and damages."

The total amount sought in portal-to-portal suits throughout the nation now has reached nearly $4,000,000,000.

Discussing his first proposal, Walling said, "at the present time the administrator can give only advisory opinions which are at best his informed guess and prediction of what the courts will decide.

"Any court in the land, state or federal, has jurisdiction to entertain suits under the act and inevitably will interpret it in deciding these cases."

After asking for the power to issue specific definitions of the act's general terms, Walling said he then could "protect employers from any civil or criminal liability where they are complying with the administrator's regulations."

Urged Changes In 1944 And 1945

Walling pointed out he had made similar recommendations in his 1944 and 1945 reports. The report for last year was made public here at the wage and hour and public contracts division of the United States Department of Labor.

The report suggested that, with the war ended, it now was time "to review this basic economic charter for low-paid workers" and "to suggest other means of increasing the benefits of the act for covered wage earners and of extending coverage to additional workers."

Walling recommended that Congress establish a new minimum wage of 65 cents to replace the present 60 cents, declaring that cost-of-living increases had reduced the purchasing power of 40 cents to 27 cents or "in terms of its yearly equivalent, to the shockingly low figure of $540."

Holloway Will Assume Naval Academy Command

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., will assume command of the Naval Academy from Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch Wednesday afternoon in a 15-minute ceremony in Dahlgren Hall.

Adm. Fitch, who became superintendent of the Naval Academy on August 16, 1945, will next month take over active duty as special assistant to Undersecretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan.

Senate Rules Group Will Handle Election Contests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Senate Republicans today took from a Democratic-dominated committee of the old Congress the handling of three contests over Senate elections.

Chairman Brooks (R-Ill) announced the new Rules Committee voted unanimously "to assume responsibility for election contests filed in this Congress."

He said there were three, all filed by Republican Senate candidates who lost to Democrats: D. John Markey in Maryland against Sen. O'Conor; Tom Sweeney in West Virginia against Sen. Kilgore, and Lester S. Parson in Virginia against Sen. Byrd.

176 Legislators Ask For Pensions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Forty-three former and 133 present members of the House have applied for pensions under the reorganization act, the biggest of which may range up to $9,375 a year.

Among the applicants is former Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky), who is 71. He may pay $2,716 and get $3,376 annually for life, or pay $8,463 and receive $3,956 a year.

While the names of the House applicants were made available today, Senate officials withheld decision on making public the names of senators and former senators who have applied.

With the deadline for final filing by incumbents almost six months away, scores more are expected to take advantage of the new law.

Present members can draw no money as long as they are in Congress, but their contributions start immediately at the rate of six per cent of their pay. Incumbents have until July 2 to apply.

Gen. Marshall To Spend Several Days In Hawaii

HONOLULU, Jan. 9 (AP) — Gen. Marshall, en route home to take up his new appointment as Secretary of State, arrived in Honolulu late last night and planned to spend several days resting before continuing his journey.

Flying from China in his special C-54, the General arrived at Hickam Field at 11 p. m. yesterday (4:30 a. m., today, Eastern Standard Time.)

Smiling and appearing fit despite the tiring flight, the General posed for pictures with his wife, who met him here, but declined any comment on his new job.

Motorist Is Tied To Tree And Used As Human Target By Two Former Marines

Hitch-Hikers, Held On Murder Charges, Say Victim Asked Them Not To Harm Him

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 9 (AP)—Two hitch-hiking ex-Marines were held on murder charges here tonight after they calmly told officers they took a motorist who had given them a lift, tied him to a tree and shot him to death, using him as a human target

The prisoners, booked as James D. Sandusky, 19, Nashville, and John T. Kelly, 20, Marion, Ill., led state police to the body of J. Edward Sprouse, 36, Clarksville, Tenn., accountant, Tuesday night. The youths had been captured in Alabama near the Tennessee line a short time earlier after once escaping police during a running gun battle.

State Safety Commissioner Lynn Bomar said the youths, dishonorably discharged Marines who first met in a Marine brig in Boston, told of thumbing a ride with Sprouse near Nashville Monday morning. After riding five or six miles, Sandusky placed a pistol at the driver's head and ordered him to turn off on a side road, where Sandusky took the wheel, Bomar said the youths related.

"We were going to drop him off at some phosphate pits," Bomar quoted Sandusky, "but I must have got mixed up in my directions. We stopped the car on a county road near Centerville and tied Sprouse to a tree, using his coat belt, leather belt and red necktie."

Bomar said the youths then returned to the car engaged in an argument about how much time they would have to get away before Sprouse freed himself.

"We both got out of the car after I had said, 'Let's get rid of him then.'" Bomar quoted Sandusky.

"We walked toward him and he asked us not to harm him. I cocked the gun and shot him seven times. I did all the shooting. Kelly just stood there."

At this point, Bomar said, Sandusky paused to boast that he qualified as a rifle and pistol marksman while in the Marine Corps.

"I was about 10 feet from Sprouse," Bomar said Sandusky continued "When I fired the first shot. Before I pulled the trigger, he looked at me and said, 'Please don't harm me,' but I shot him anyway. He slumped but didn't cry out: I hit him close to the heart. I shot seven times."

Bomar said a $30 gasoline-station holdup in Pulaski, Tenn., led to the capture of the two youths and the discovery of the body of Sprouse. The body had been untied from the tree and dragged deeper into the woods, the youths saying they had moved it because it was too close to the road.

U. S. Determined To Start Collecting From Japan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—State and War Department officials said tonight the United States is determined to start collection of reparations from Japan immediately, even without full agreement on terms with Russia and other wartime allies.

James K. Penfield, deputy director of the State Department's Office of Far Eastern Affairs, said an urgent directive to Gen. MacArthur is under consideration to start removals soon of Japanese industrial plants and equipment.

Assistant Secretary Howard C. Petersen, of the War Department, advised that Gen. MacArthur and the Japanese should be told as soon as possible what levels of industry Japan will be permitted to keep "so that the Japanese can work out their economic recovery on a realistic basis and cease to be a charge on the American budget."

French Protest Over Oil Pact Is Rejected By U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The United States has rejected a French complaint over a recent agreement in the Middle East that involved two major American oil companies.

This was disclosed today by a State Department spokesman. He told reporters the United States regarded the matter as a private affair between companies and not an inter-govermental problem.

French Ambassador Henri Bonnet saw Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton Monday to tell him of France's concern over the deal.

The basis of France's representations was that Standard Oil of New Jersey and Socony Vacuum Oil should not have been allowed to buy a reported 40 per cent of the rights to oil in Saudi Arabia.

Joint Really Jumping

High-Stepping Ladies Of Grandma's Night Out Club Hold First '47 Party

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Those hardy perennials, the high-stepping old ladies of the original Grandma's Night Out Club, have thrown their first party of the new year—and boy, the joint was really jumping.

About 30 grandmas, ranging in age from the mid-60s to 90, participated in a round of youthful hijinx at last night's party, held at the Central Branch YMCA in the pleasantly daft borough of Brooklyn.

"Woo-woo-woo-woo," chanted the white-haired merrymakers as 70-year-old Mrs. Josephine Berman hopped and skipped in a ceremonial Indian dance while dressed in Indian princess regalia.

"I can do the jitterburg, rhumba, samba and you name it," said "Josie" Berman. She's a great grandmother who says she started dancing five years ago, a year after her husband died.

Mrs. Josephine Layton, 72, who plays music on a collection of black ebony bones, was a feature of the old timers "floor show." There were some youthful ringers from a theatrical school in the show but most of the performers were authentic grandmas.

The ladies then danced with each other and with a couple of grandpas who crashed the gate.

"I wouldn't call us rug cutters," said one old lady modestly. "We don't do much more than scratch them."

The club members meet for a blowout each month under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Kaiser, 76, the chief grandma. They've been doing it for more than 10 years.

"We used to have more than 150 members," said Mrs. Kaiser, "but sickness, infirmities, death and just plain laziness have cut the list of active ones down to about 30."

Blow At Indigestion

Pepper Urges Regular Lunch Hour For Senators To Avert Ill Tempers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Senators get hungry, just like people.

But unlike people, they don't have a regular lunch hour.

The appalling conditions under which senators work have been brought up by one of them, Claude Pepper (D-Fla).

He told the Senate yesterday — and elaborated to a reporter today—his ideas on the care and feeding of senators.

You see, the Senate opens for business, or a reasonable facsimile, at noon.

Then it usually stays in continuous session until it decides to knock off work for the day. This means a session may last a few minutes, or hours.

So the custom is for senators to sneak out one by one, or maybe even four by four, to get something to eat.

Sen. Pepper doesn't like it.

He says this leads to three evils:

1. Along about 1:30 p. m., spectators may find only three or four senators on the floor. This may lead to ill-tempered constituents.

2. Senators often are eating when they should be listening to an important discussion. This may lead to ill-tempered legislation.

3. Senators often are called away from their meals, "perhaps two or three times," to answer quorum calls or to vote. This may lead to ill-tempered senators.

Pepper's idea: Let the Senate meet at 10 or 10:30 a. m., and then lunch at around 1 p. m.

Pepper said he knew custom calls for a noon meeting of the Senate, and that the Senate is custom's slave, but—

"It's so sensible I'm surprised we haven't done it already."

And he hurried off to eat.

British Cabinet To Give German Treaty Priority

Special Palestine Meeting Cancelled

LONDON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight the British Cabinet had decided to give the problem of the German peace treaty priority over Palestine, amid rumors that the Holy Land situation would be eased by a 60-day suspension of violence there.

A scheduled special Cabinet meeting, which was to have taken up the Palestine matter, among others, was cancelled without explanation, but the informants said decisions taken after the two weeks' Cabinet review of foreign policy concluded yesterday would "gradually become apparent."

These sources said the Cabinet looked upon the German peace treaty as the toughest of Britain's international problems, in view of the forthcoming March meeting in Moscow of the Foreign Ministers Council.

Palestine Conference Scheduled

Preparations went ahead, however, for resumption of the Palestine conference, expected to convene January 21. There was no indication here that Jewish representatives would be present. But in Geneva, Louis Segal, member of the World Zionist Organization, said the Zionist Congress might meet immediately if some promising proposal were made by Britain.

Such a proposal, he said, might suggest creation of a substantial Jewish state.

His statement was a new indication that the Zionists do not regard participation in the conference as altogether impossible, although the British attitude up to now has been that no concrete promises could be made to any of the parties in the negotiations until the talks were resumed. Both the Jews and Palestine's Arabs avoided the previous conference sessions.

Stands Pat On Sudan

Today's Cabinet session had been expected to cover a wide range of subjects relating to foreign policy in general, including the problems of disarmament, the Anglo-Egyptian treaty and British demands upon Albania.

With regard to the negotiations for revision of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty, government sources said the Cabinet had agreed to stand pat in a stand that the Sudan must be left free to decide its own future. The demand for its incorporation into Egypt has been a principal obstacle in the way of agreement. Informal talks are continuing in Cairo.

Rape Case Removed From Hagerstown

A criminal case, involving a charge of rape and assault, has been removed from Washington County Circuit Court to Allegany County Circuit Court.

The defendant, Ronald J. West, a Hagerstown merchant is under a Washington county grand jury indictment on a charge of beating and assaulting Doris C. Everhart also of Hagerstown on August 3, 1946.

West appealed to the court to have the case removed claiming he could not receive a fair and unbiased trial in Hagerstown. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish signed the order for removal to this county and the papers were received here yesterday. No date has yet been set for the trial.

Negotiations Resume

Roads Commission Submits Budget

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9. (AP)—The State Roads Commission submitted a budget proposal today calling for expenditures of $15,678,122.95 for the 1948 fiscal year and $16,050,248.95 in fiscal 1949.

The proposed budget, submitted to the State Department of Budget and Procurement, was based on estimated receipts of the commission for the two years from gasoline taxes, motor vehicle revenues and other sources.

It calls for an annual payroll of $6,000,000—almost twice that of 1946—and includes projected expenditures of $1,890,000 in 1948 and $1,305,923 in 1949 for contract work on "bridges, grade eliminations, roads, new construction, betterments and additions."

The construction figure for 1948 is the amount needed to match federal funds to be available then, so that the total of contract work which could be undertaken during the 12 months would be $3,780,000.

Chiang Makes Guarded Overture To Communists

NANKING, Jan. 9 (AP) — A guarded Chinese government overture to the Communists was made tonight, significantly following Gen. Marshall's outspoken criticism of both factions in protracted civil strife.

Peng Hsueh-Pei, Minister of Information, issued a statement saying:

"Now that the constitution-making has been successfully concluded, national reconstruction may start in earnest according to the program decided upon at the National Assembly, and the government may fulfill the long-cherished desire of returning sovereign rights to the people.

"Therefore, the government is willing to discuss with the Communists a complete plan for cessation of hostilities and government reorganization, so that peace and unity can be achieved at an early date."

basic Baruch control plan in the Atomic Energy Commission.

"It would be difficult to achieve arms control without first having atomic control," Johnson declared. "In our view the field of atomic energy is the test case.

U. S. Insists On Atom Priority

"We believe the council should assure substantial progress in the atomic field before taking up control and regulation of conventional arms, which is of subsidary importance."

Johnson denied any attempt to delay and said his country was ready to agree to an arms regulation program provided the atomic issue was given priority.

The council thus bogged down in debate, merely endorsing the Assembly's recommendations, after Chairman Norman J. O. Makin, of Australia, had opened the meeting with an appeal for harmony and speed.

The council will go back into session tomorrow to vote on the question of Trieste, the territory which the Council of Foreign Ministers has asked the council to administer under the Italian peace treaty. Only Australia directly opposed the agreement when debate began Tuesday.

War-Blinded Vet Appeals For Job, "Even Dishwashing"

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 9. (AP)—A war-blinded veteran, who once ran a business of his own, appealed today for "any job, even dishwashing," after a futile seven-month hunt.

Calvin Venable, 25-year-old veteran who was captured on Corregidor and went blind on a Japanese prison ship from years of malnutrition, began his 10th day of advertising after vain attempts to find work.

"It isn't the money," he said, as he sat beside his bride of seven months whom he met in the Old Farm Convalescent Home, Avon, Conn., where she was a junior hostess. "June and I get disability pay. But a man needs to work. All the blind boys are the same. Laying around isn't enough for them. They get to brooding."

Venable ran a filling station of his own in Kremlin, Colo., before he enlisted at the age of 18.

London Food Crisis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Office of Temporary Control announced today that eight of 64 sugar offices will be closed between February 1 and 15.

Republicans May "Boycott" Dinner

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — City Councilman Edward Rager, chairman of the Lincoln Day dinner committee of the National Republican Club, said today that some Republicans have threatened to "boycott" the dinner because former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, is one of three principal speakers.

Rager said in an interview that he had been told "by some people, but with one or two exceptions not members of the club, that they will boycott the dinner because we have invited Mr. Stassen."

He said, however, that he could not say whether the persons threatening a boycott were supporters of any particular presidential candidate, avowed or otherwise.

The committee originally sent invitations to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York; Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Stassen. Stassen, the only national Republican figure who so far has thrown his hat in the ring for 1948, was the only one to accept.

City Manager System Shelved By Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—Mayor Richard H. Sweeney said today that he and the City Council have unanimously decided to shelve indefinitely the city manager system proposed by Dr. J. M. Ray, of the University of Maryland's Government School, in a charter revision study made at their request.

The council took no formal action at its meeting on the charter revision, but voted to have the charter comittee draw up a formal, tentative charter for further consideration three weeks from today.

Huge Bond Issue For Bay Bridge Proposed By Beck

Legislation Has No Administration Tag

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP) — A $22,000,000 bond issue for a Chesapeake Bay bridge was proposed in the Legislature today, but the administration of Gov. Lane is virtually certain to have other ideas on financing the long-debated traffic link.

Sen. Beck (D-Caroline) submitted the measure for a bridge which would be a memorial to veterans of both wars.

The bill had no administration tag and was purely the Senator's idea of what should be done.

Lane Endorsed Bridge

Gov. Lane is pledged to construction of the big causeway and said so emphatically in his inaugural address yesterday.

However, his own ideas on the structure have not been announced. Lane's office let it be known that a project of that gigantic nature needed most through study as to engineering, financing and total cost.

For that reason, the date when the administration measure will be ready is undetermined.

Introduction of bills and other minor routine took up the brief sessions of both houses on a dull day, contrasting the gayety and ceremony incident to Lane's inauguration Wednesday.

Statehouse halls were virtually deserted during the morning. The Governor, after the traditional exchange of visits between himself and Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, came to his office and went to work. He said, however, he had nothing to report.

Old-Time Bills Offered

Among other bills to reach the floor on the first day in which members have introduced their own bills were two old-timers.

One would repeal the Jim Crow law calling for segregation of negroes on common carriers, and the other would repeal the law requiring declaration of intention to become a Maryland citizen before becoming a voter.

Repealers of this type have gone into the Legislature each session for years but have always failed of enactment.

The bills were sent in by Sen. Ellison (D-Balto 4th), in fulfillment of campaign promises.

Steel Production High

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—The steel industry, handicapped by three major strikes in 1946, managed to turn out 66,363,848 net tons of steel representing an average rate of 72.2 per cent of capacity, and the highest peacetime output for any year prior to 1940, the American Iron and Steel Institte announced today.

Peru Cabinet Resigns

Mayor Of St. Lo Will Help Decorate Colors Of 29th

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—The keys to the city were all shined up today for Mayor Georges Pierre LaValley, of St. Lo, France, the battered little Normandy town where many a Marylander of the 29th Division helped secure the Allied invasion beachhead.

LaValley, provided he is not held up further by delayed trans-atlantic flight schedules, is due here Friday to help decorate the division's colors with the Croix de Guerre.

The last word is that he's expected to land at New York Friday morning.

After tomorrow's ceremonies, he will headquarter in Baltimore for at least a week, visiting several Maryland and Virginia communities to appear before units of the Blue and Gray Division.

Concurrently, the Baltimore Chapter of the Aid of France Organization is campaigning for $100,000 to build an American wing on St. Lo's hospital. It will be dedicated to the 29th Division men who are buried near the town.

For the decoration ceremony, the 29th plans its first mass formation since the division was deactivated after returning from Europe. Maryland, Virginia, and some Pennsylvania men made up the bulk of its fighting units. Under the postwar setup, it is a Virginia-Maryland National Guard outfit.

Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, Norfolk, Va., division commander, is to participate in Friday night's ceremonies at Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory, flanked by members of his staff from the two states. Henri Bonnet, French ambassador in Washington, is to present the decoration.

Mayor LaValley also will officiate January 17 and 18 at a street fair in the armory, one of the main features of the fund campaign.

Boss Unionization Upheld, Denounced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board told the Supreme Court today that the board's ruling that employers must bargain with foremen's unions had virtually eliminated strikes among plant bosses in the past year.

Arguing against unionization of foremen was Louis F. Dahling, attorney for the Packard Motor Car Company. He contended it is improper because, he said, foremen carry out management policy, make recommendation on the firing and wage rates of workers under them and sometimes instruct them in their work.

NLRB Counsel Gerhard P. Van Arkel, under questioning of Justice Rutledge, said that the board's position on the bargaining rights of foremen would apply also to corporation vice presidents.

Meanwhile, the NLRB announced it will hold up action on all foremen's cases until the Supreme Court has ruled on whether a firm has to bargain with a union of its foremen.

British Cabinet To Give German Treaty Priority

Special Palestine Meeting Cancelled

LONDON, Jan. 9. (AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight the British Cabinet had decided to give the problem of the German peace treaty priority over Palestine, amid rumors that the Holy Land situation would be eased by a 60-day suspension of violence there.

A scheduled special Cabinet meeting, which was to have taken up the Palestine matter, among others, was cancelled without explanation, but the informants said decisions taken after the two weeks' Cabinet review of foreign policy concluded yesterday would "gradually become apparent."

These sources said the Cabinet looked upon the German peace treaty as the toughest of Britain's international problems, in view of the forthcoming March meeting in Moscow of the Foreign Ministers Council.

Palestine Conference Scheduled

Preparations went ahead, however, for resumption of the Palestine conference, expected to convene January 21. There was no indication here that Jewish representatives would be present. But in Geneva, Louis Segal, member of the World Zionist Organization, said the Zionist Congress might meet immediately if some promising proposal were made by Britain.

Such a proposal, he said, might suggest creation of a substantial Jewish state.

His statement was a new indication that the Zionists do not regard participation in the conference as altogether impossible, although the British attitude up to now has been that no concrete promises could be made to any of the parties in the negotiations until the talks were resumed. Both the Jews and Palestine's Arabs avoided the previous conference sessions.

Stands Pat On Sudan

Today's Cabinet session had been expected to cover a wide range of subjects relating to foreign policy in general, including the problems of disarmament, the Anglo-Egyptian treaty and British demands upon Albania.

With regard to the negotiations for revision of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty, government sources said the Cabinet had agreed to stand pat in a stand that the Sudan must be left free to decide its own future. The demand for its incorporation into Egypt has been a principal obstacle in the way of agreement. Informal talks are continuing in Cairo.

Rape Case Removed From Hagerstown

A criminal case, involving a charge of rape and assault, has been removed from Washington County Circuit Court to Allegany County Circuit Court.

The defendant, Ronald J. West, a Hagerstown merchant is under a Washington county grand jury indictment on a charge of beating and assaulting Doris C. Everhart also of Hagerstown on August 3, 1946.

West appealed to the court to have the case removed claiming he could not receive a fair and unbiased trial in Hagerstown. Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish signed the order for removal to this county and the papers were received here yesterday. No date has yet been set for the trial.

Negotiations Resume

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—With a strike threat temporarily in abeyance representatives of the American Viscose Corporation and the Textile Workers of America (CIO), representing 21,000 employes in the company's seven plants, will continue tomorrow their efforts to settle a labor dispute.

Ordered Into Exile

MADRID, Jan. 9 (AP)—Gen. Antonio Aranda Mata, Spanish monarchist leader who repeatedly had sought to unseat Generalissimo Francisco Franco, has been ordered into exile for two months by the Franco government, his associates said today.

Roads Commission Submits Budget

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9. (AP)—The State Roads Commission submitted a budget proposal today calling for expenditures of $15,676,122.95 for the 1948 fiscal year and $16,050,348.96 in fiscal 1949.

The proposed budget, submitted to the State Department of Budget and Procurement, was based on estimated receipts of the commission for the two years from gasoline taxes, motor vehicle revenues and other sources.

It calls for an annual payroll of $6,000,000—almost twice that of 1946—and includes projected expenditures of $1,890,000 in 1948 and $1,305,923 in 1949 for contract work on "bridges, grade eliminations, roads, new construction, betterments and additions."

The construction figure for 1948 is the amount needed to match federal funds to be available then, so that the total of contract work which could be undertaken during the 12 months would be $3,780,000.

Chiang Makes Guarded Overture To Communists

NANKING, Jan. 9 (AP) — A guarded Chinese government overture to the Communists was made tonight, significantly following Gen. Marshall's outspoken criticism of both factions in protracted civil strife.

Peng Hsueh-Pei, Minister of Information, issued a statement saying:

"Now that the constitution-making has been successfully concluded, national reconstruction may start in earnest according to the program decided upon at the National Assembly, and the government may fulfill the long-cherished desire of returning sovereign rights to the people.

"Therefore, the government is willing to discuss with the Communists a complete plan for cessation of hostilities and government reorganization, so that peace and unity can be achieved at an early date."

"It would be difficult to achieve arms control without first having atomic control," Johnson declared. "In our view the field of atomic energy is the test case.

U. S. Insists On Atom Priority

"We believe the council should assure substantial progress in the atomic field before taking up control and regulation of conventional arms, which is of subsidary importance."

Johnson denied any attempt to delay and said his country was ready to agree to an arms regulation program provided the atomic issue was given priority.

The council thus bogged down in debate, merely endorsing the Assembly's recommendations, after Chairman Norman J. O. Makin, of Australia, had opened the meeting with an appeal for harmony and speed.

The council will go back into session tomorrow to vote on the question of Trieste, the territory which the Council of Foreign Ministers has asked the council to administer under the Italian peace treaty. Only Australia directly opposed the agreement when debate began Tuesday.

War-Blinded Vet Appeals For Job, "Even Dishwashing"

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 9. (AP)—A war-blinded veteran, who once ran a business of his own, appealed today for "any job, even dishwashing," after a futile seven-month hunt.

Calvin Venable, 25-year-old veteran who was captured on Corregidor and went blind on a Japanese prison ship from years of malnutrition, began his 10th day of advertising after vain attempts to find work.

"It isn't the money," he said, as he sat beside his bride of seven months whom he met in the Old Farm Convalescent Home, Avon, Conn., where she was a junior hostess. "June and I get disability pay. But a man needs to work. All the blind boys are the same. Laying around isn't enough for them. They get to brooding."

Venable ran a filling station of his own in Kremlin, Colo., before he enlisted at the age of 18.

London Food Crisis

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP)—An authoritative source said today that the government was ready to use troops, if necessary, to assure distribution of London's food supplies, now tied up in markets by a strike of more than 12,000 truck drivers and other transport workers.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Office of Temporary Control announced today that eight of 64 sugar offices will be closed between February 1 and 15.

Republicans May "Boycott" Dinner

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — City Councilman Edward Rager, chairman of the Lincoln Day dinner committee of the National Republican Club, said today that some Republicans have threatened to "boycott" the dinner because former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, is one of three principal speakers.

Rager said in an interview that he had been told "by some people, but with one or two exceptions not members of the club, that they will boycott the dinner because we have invited Mr. Stassen."

He said, however, that he could not say whether the persons threatening a boycott were supporters of any particular presidential candidate, avowed or otherwise.

The committee originally sent invitations to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York; Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Stassen. Stassen, the only national Republican figure who so far has thrown his hat in the ring for 1948, was the only one to accept.

City Manager System Shelved By Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Jan. 9 (AP) —Mayor Richard H. Sweeney said today that he and the City Council have unanimously decided to shelve indefinitely the city manager system proposed by Dr. J. M. Ray, of the University of Maryland's Government School, in a charter revision study made at their request.

The council took no formal action at its meeting on the charter revision, but voted to have the charter committee draw up a formal, tentative charter for further consideration three weeks from today.

Huge Bond Issue For Bay Bridge Proposed By Beck

Legislation Has No Administration Tag

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP) — A $22,000,000 bond issue for a Chesapeake Bay bridge was proposed in the Legislature today, but the administration of Gov. Lane is virtually certain to have other ideas on financing the long-debated traffic link.

Sen. Beck (D-Caroline) submitted the measure for a bridge which would be a memorial to veterans of both wars.

The bill had no administration tag and was purely the Senator's idea of what should be done.

Lane Endorsed Bridge

Gov. Lane is pledged to construction of the big causeway and said so emphatically in his inaugural address yesterday.

However, his own ideas on the structure have not been announced. Lane's office let it be known that a project of that gigantic nature needed most through study as to engineering, financing and total cost.

For that reason, the date when the administration measure will be ready is undetermined.

Introduction of bills and other minor routine took up the brief sessions of both houses on a dull day, contrasting the gayety and ceremony incident to Lane's inauguration Wednesday.

Statehouse halls were virtually deserted during the morning. The Governor, after the traditional exchange of visits between himself and Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, came to his office and went to work. He said, however, he had nothing to report.

Old-Time Bills Offered

Among other bills to reach the floor on the first day in which members have introduced their own bills were two old-timers.

One would repeal the Jim Crow law calling for segregation of negroes on common carriers, and the other would repeal the law requiring declaration of intention to become a Maryland citizen before becoming a voter.

Repealers of this type have gone into the Legislature each session for years but have always failed of enactment.

The bills were sent in by Sen. Ellison (D-Balto 4th), in fulfillment of campaign promises.

Steel Production High

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—The steel industry, handicapped by three major strikes in 1946, managed to turn out 66,363,848 net tons of steel representing an average rate of 72.2 per cent of capacity, and the highest peacetime output for any year prior to 1940, the American Iron and Steel Institte announced today.

Peru Cabinet Resigns

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 9 (AP)—The entire Peruvian Cabinet resigned today in a governmental crisis precipitated by the unsolved slaying of a newspaper editor who was an outspoken critic of the administration of President Jose Luis Bustamente Rivero.

Mayor Of St. Lo Will Help Decorate Colors Of 29th

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP)—The keys to the city were all shined up today for Mayor Georges Pierre LaValley, of St. Lo, France, the battered little Normandy town where many a Marylander of the 29th Division helped secure the Allied invasion beachhead.

LaValley, provided he is not held up further by delayed trans-atlantic flight schedules, is due here Friday to help decorate the division's colors with the Croix de Guerre.

The last word is that he's expected to land at New York Friday morning.

After tomorrow's ceremonies, he will headquarter in Baltimore for at least a week, visiting several Maryland and Virginia communities to appear before units of the Blue and Gray Division.

Concurrently, the Baltimore Chapter of the Aid of France Organization is campaigning for $100,000 to build an American wing on St. Lo's hospital. It will be dedicated to the 29th Division men who are buried near the town.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Readers Go To Town On "Problem Bride," Who Crawled Out On Limb

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

"Problem Bride," you certainly crawled right out on a limb when you wrote me that letter attacking your mother-in-law! If some of the young wives who read your letter in this column, and sat right down to tell you what they thought of it, could have a short session with you in person, I don't believe there'd be much left of you to recognize after they got through with you.

Maybe you'd like to hear some of their comments. Here's something from "A Lady" who wrote her letter in pencil because you made her so mad she couldn't wait to hunt up a pen with which to answer you:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I just finished reading 'Problem Bride's' letter in the paper, and I was so mad when I finished, my heart was beating a mile a minute.

"I have been married 13 years today, and while the going has been rough at times, I am happy. When I was first married, and until after the birth of my first child, we lived with my in-laws. There was trouble, and harsh words had their way, but never in all that time did I ever feel toward my mother-in-law as this girl does. Now that our family are by themselves, there is no friction between us. She is wonderful.

"This 'Problem Bride' is either a very young child or she is a hardened, callous old rip. There couldn't be a spark of respect in her body. If I knew 'Joe,' her husband, I'd surely write him what I think of the wife he has. Somehow I think 'Joe' understands, though.

"'Problem Bride,' you should try taking lessons from your ladylike and cultured mother-in-law. You may not believe it, but you are going to be 48 yourself one of these days. Then you can compare your life with that of your lovely mother-in-law. I'm afraid you will come up trailing in every respect. Somewhere along the line you will see where you have done your mother-in-law a great injustice because I believe she is one in a million.

"MRS. A. W. S."

And "A Happy 23-year-old" has this to say:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"After reading that awful letter of a 'Problem Bride' I just have to sit down and write you a letter. I just can't understand a girl writing as she does about her mother-in-law."

Then this young daughter-in-law goes on to tell of the lovely relationship that exists between herself and her own mother-in-law, who lives next door to her. Each of the two does everything she can to make the other happy, from helping out on each other's housework, to taking each other little surprises, such as cake, fresh from the oven, and the like.

The secret of this comradeship, aside from the mother-in-law's own affectionate and understanding nature, appears in this sentence from the letter: "I have always tried to treat my mother-in-law as I would like to have my own son's wife treat me, when he grows up and marries."

And there this "Happy 23-year-old" has hit upon the key that would unlock many a door which has been barred against a mother-in-law by some misguided young wife. Then she goes on to offer some sound truths:

"The only way we ever find happiness," she points out, "is by making others happy. If this girl would only put her own wishes and desires aside, and try to make her mother-in-law happy, I know that she would be a happy person herself. Her life is so wrapped up in herself that I doubt if she has any room for anyone else.

"This girl can never separate a boy from his mother. When she has a child, she will realize that fact. I feel sorry for her. She has missed so much of the beauty of life. I hope she realizes this before it is too late."

Are you smart enough to do this, "Problem Bride?" Or are you so dumb you'll go right on making yourself and everybody around you unhappy until you finally wreck your own life?

"MRS. A. W. S."

And "A Happy 23-year-old" has this to say:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"After reading that awful letter of a 'Problem Bride' I just have to sit down and write you a letter. I just can't understand a girl writing as she does about her mother-in-law."

Then this young daughter-in-law goes on to tell of the lovely relationship that exists between herself and her own mother-in-law, who lives next door to her. Each of the two does everything she can to make the other happy, from helping out on each other's housework, to taking each other little surprises, such as cake, fresh from the oven, and the like.

The secret of this comradeship, aside from the mother-in-law's own affectionate and understanding nature, appears in this sentence from the letter: "I have always tried to treat my mother-in-law as I would like to have my own son's wife treat me, when he grows up and marries."

And there this "Happy 23-year-old" has hit upon the key that would unlock many a door which has been barred against a mother-in-law by some misguided young wife. Then she goes on to offer some sound truths:

"The only way we ever find happiness," she points out, "is by making others happy. If this girl would only put her own wishes and desires aside, and try to make her mother-in-law happy, I know that she would be a happy person herself. Her life is so wrapped up in herself that I doubt if she has any room for anyone else.

"This girl can never separate a boy from his mother. When she has a child, she will realize that fact. I feel sorry for her. She has missed so much of the beauty of life. I hope she realizes this before it is too late."

Are you smart enough to do this, "Problem Bride?" Or are you so dumb you'll go right on making yourself and everybody around you unhappy until you finally wreck your own life?

Lane Inaugural Address Down-to-Earth In Character

While the inaugural address by Governor Lane lacked color, it was a down-to-earth statement, and showed evidence that the new Maryland chief executive had charted the course he will follow during the next four years, after careful study.

After referring to the platform on which he ran, and outlining the planks: to discharge the State's obligations to the veterans, provide greater financial support for education, increase hospital facilities for the needy, expand efforts in the field of mental hygiene, improve the welfare system, develop agriculture, conserve natural resources, improve highways, give Baltimore more home rule, effect a more equitable representation in the General Assembly, and build a bay bridge, Governor Lane dealt at length with the financial problems he must face.

Of course, he makes it known that he will not treat the platform as a mere campaign instrument that is to be forgotten now, but he leaves to the future methods to be employed to finance the proposed undertakings, except to indicate he would favor toll roads to meet the cost of highway improvements and bridge construction. Such a plan would throw additional taxation on motorists and public transportation concerns, but in the latter case the additional cost would, in all probability, be passed on to those using public buses, and those depending on trucks for service. So in the end the public in general would pay its share.

He warned that the period of State surpluses, which accumulated during the war, is about over, pointing out that anticipated surpluses for the next biennium will be absorbed in the new budget, which contains requests of $18,000,000 a year more than those granted under the existing budget. He then turned to the Sherbow Commission proposal for the distribution of State revenue to counties, incorporated towns and Baltimore City. Under that plan, from $12,000,000 to $13,000,000 would be disposed of which, as the Maryland Public Expenditure Council points out, will cost the taxpayers of Maryland that amount in additional taxes. The analysis is followed by the observation that the approximate $13,000,000 extra which the recommendations would cost the taxpayers is a sum equal to twice the amount of income tax actually collected in 1946, and is nearly five times the amount raised from the State property levy in the same year.

The Council suggests the taxpayers carefully consider four basic questions: Will this new "easy money" merely result in additional spending and encourage extravagance by the political sub-divisions of the State? Should revenue for local governments be levied and collected by the State, or should each unit determine its own expenditures according to its own concept of need and economical administration and then raises its own revenue? Isn't this the best way for citizens to control the purse strings and thus control their local government? And, are the proposed benefits to the individual localities worth the tremendous increase in State taxation they will necessitate?

We agree the Council has a point in all those observations, and Governor Lane is no doubt weighing the problem carefully before, (if he does) endorse the Sherbow proposals in toto, and not merely, as is the case up to now, in principle only.

Whether Nicaragua's action in balancing her budget signifies her abandonment of the good neighbor policy has not been revealed.

The Resignation Of Our Secretary Of State Byrnes

Whether ill health or political expediency brought about the resignation of James F. Byrnes as secretary of state may never be known, but Washington is doing a lot of speculating. As a writer in the New York Herald Tribune pointed out: "the sudden and totally unexpected resignation is bound to cause bewilderment and some dismay." This writer comments "no doubt it is true that a severe strain has been put upon his health," then adds, "the public will scarcely forget that severe strains of a rather different kind were put upon him by the President's ineptitude in the Wallace affair at the end of the summer, and will be inclined to wonder whether ineptitude has not again been at work somewhere in the conduct of American foreign policy."

But whatever the reason, the resignation of Mr. Byrnes is a distinct loss to the nation. However, he has left a legacy of infinite value to his successor and the country in the firm bipartisan foreign policy which became a reality under his administration.

His successor, General of the Army George C. Marshall, will bring to the office the prestige of a distinguished record as Chief of Staff of our Army throughout the greatest of wars. During that crucial period he demonstrated great organizing and administrative abilities and established himself as a diplomat as well as a great soldier.

While General Marshall has been somewhat isolated from the main current of world events by his long assignment in China, his attendance at major conferences of the Big Three as a member of the late President Roosevelt's party, during the world conflict, gives him a background on issues he must face in future conferences that will serve him well, and which will permit him to deal with those problems with thorough knowledge and understanding.

On the record General Marshall has made in rising to other responsibilities that have been assigned to him, the public will have confidence that America's interests are to remain in safe hands, although, we repeat, it is to be regretted that Secretary Byrnes must retire at this particular time when men of his experience are needed.

Another mystery is why it is referred to as a public debt when private citizens will be called upon to pay it.

They Can Smoke Marks

The black market sale of cigarettes by our military personnel has become such a serious threat to German economy and German currency that the occupation authorities are thinking of prohibiting the importation of American cigarettes into that country.

Instead of banning imports, why not send to Germany only those acrid saw mill sweepings, encased in paper cylinders, which passed for cigarettes here during the war-shortage. It would certainly make American cigarettes one of the least desirable commodities on the continent of Europe.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

PREDIGESTED PROTEINS

THE average person receives a sufficient quantity of proteins with his meals. The food element is acted upon by ferments in the digestive tract. As a result, it is broken down into simpler constitutents, chiefly amino acids. These products are carried to the liver via the blood stream, eventually reaching all the cells of the body.

Proteins have many functions in addition to their nutritive value, measurable in calories. Such tasks include maintaining the blood volume and tissue integrity, aiding in the formation of antibodies to fight disease and encourage healing of wounds, as well as providing a lift during convalescence from disease, injury, or surgery.

During the past few years, various predigested proteins and hydrolyzed (split) amino acids have been prepared by pharmaceutical houses. Concentrates of this type are of untold benefit in many medical conditions and have reduced considerably the period of convalescence. Formerly, we were forced to rely upon the amount that could be eaten, which provided only a fraction of the requirements for these individuals. Furthermore, many patients have poor appetites or are unable to utilize what is consumed because of digestive disturbances.

Now these preparations are available in solutions for injection into a vein. Moreover, we have concentrated powders that can be swallowed, and since they are predigested, or nearly so, absorption calls for little or no work on the part of the intestine.

Many peptic ulcer victims have lived for years on restricted diets, either self-imposed or prescribed. Consequently, underweight and lack of stamina are exhibited. In some instances, the symptoms are due to depleted proteins, particularly since certain foods high in this element tend to aggravate discomfort. By adding amino acids to the usual regimen (alkalies, bland diet, belladonna, etc.) the feeling of well being returns, poundage is gained, and pain often disappears. The explanation may be that the body is being furnished not only with more nutriment but with building material for repair of the lesion.

The same is true of ulcer patients who require surgery for permanent relief or the control of complications and those undergoing gall bladder, appendix, or hernia operations. These procedures lead to a great loss in proteins and, unless extra quantities are given, convalescence is prolonged because of the associated weakness and fatigue. In other words, the individual can now go thru the ordeal without feeling as tho he had been pulled thru a wringer.

The substances likewise are helpful in burns, chiefly to replace the proteins excreted thru the weeping surface of the charred area, but also in healing. Their utility in starvation, chronic invalidism, pregnancy, and liver disease are well known. Many oldsters need supplements since their powers of absorption are faulty or they do not consume enough because of poor dentition. The compounds improve the nutritional state of sufferers from chronic infections, such as pulmonary tuberculosis.

NOSEBLEED

R. P. writes: How does rheumatic fever cause nosebleed?

REPLY

This symptom frequently accompanies rheumatic fever. There are many characteristics of this disease which we do not understand. Possibly, in this instance, the rise in temperature causes dilatation of the capillaries.

COULD BE

C. F. writes: Could gallstones cause the heart to beat rapidly?

REPLY

In the majority of instances, the answer would be no. In a few, infection of and stones in the gall bladder have led to cardiac irregularities. Anxiety over the knowledge that the condition exists may also play a part in causing a rapid pulse.

SKIN AFFECTION

J. C. N. writes: What is dermatitis herpetiformis?

REPLY

A rare skin disorder in which crops of water blisters develop over various sections of the body. They come and go, itch markedly, and are prone to leave pigmented spots. A toxin is the usual cause but the condition is often observed in individuals of nervous temperament.

CARBON MONOXIDE

M. D. writes: What are the effects on the lungs of smoke from an exhaust pipe of an automobile, if breathed in for about five seconds?

REPLY

Probably none. Besides, the blood is affected more than the lungs. The carbon monoxide of the fumes replaces the oxygen in the red blood corpuscles. The result depends upon the concentration. A small percentage produces headaches and a large amount, coma. Sometimes other products in the fumes lead to cough. If this is severe, slight irritation of the membranes of the lungs may follow.

BABY SHOES

Mrs. D. writes: Will you please tell me when to start putting shoes on my baby? I have heard contradictory opinions.

REPLY

Shoes are necessary when the child begins to walk. Prior to that time, bootees of a soft type can be used, but they should fit loosely and not retard development of the foot.

TROUBLE WITH SPLEEN

V. L. writes: What symptoms are present if there is something wrong with the spleen?

REPLY

Involvement of this organ is usually secondary to other disorders. Enlargement is the most common result, but the patient may be unaware of the phenomenon. Sometimes it becomes sizable enough to cause pressure symptoms.

THE

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

General Marshall And Truman Are Close, Personal Friends; Truman Always Resented Byrnes; Marshall Asked To Become Secretary Of State Last February.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—There will be one imporant difference between President Truman's relations with his new Secretary of State George Marshall and those with his retiring Secretary, Jimmie Byrnes.

With Byrnes, Truman was always a little uncomfortable. He respected Jimmie, had confidence in him, but resented the fact that Brynes operated as a one-man team. The President had almost nothing to say about foreign policy. Byrnes had been a senior Senator and later Supreme Court Justice when Truman was a very insignificent junior Senator. Also, Jimmie had the habit of playing diplomacy by ear. A master musician, he didn't worry about accompaniments, seldom sent the White House reports from Paris or London, didn't always tell the President about hs future plans.

At one time, Truman objected to this so vigorously that he almost fired his Secretary of State. The incident occurred just after Brynes returned from Moscow one year ago and announced even before he cabled a full report to the President, that he would give a radio report to the American people.

Truman was furious. Summoning Byrnes to come aboard the Presidential yacht immediately, the President was all set for a showdown The showdown never developed. Though Byrnes received some caustic criticism from Admiral Leahy for yielding to the Russians, Truman finally fell for Jimmie's plausible explanation and agreed to let him go ahead.

Planned To Fire Byrnes

Nevertheless, it was immediately after this flare-up over the Moscow agreement that Truman sent a cable to General Marshall asking him to be Secretary of State. This was in February. Significantly, Truman sent the cable through the War Department's secret code, not the State Department's, and Byrnes never knew about the message until some weeks later when a friend in the War Department showed him the messages. That may have been the reason for Byrnes's first letter of resignation dated April 16.

General Marshall, at the time he was approached last February, was lukewarm. He had no desire to become Secretary of State. Simultaneously, a premature press leak caused Truman to pull in his horns—temporarily. And during the year that followed he and Jimmie have been getting along better.

Basically, however, Truman never changed his ideas about Marshall, and those who have seen the two together can easily understand why he picked him as Secretary of State.

Entirely aside from Marshall's broad experience and ability (which will be discussed later), he has a personal magnetism which won Truman even in the days when the President was conducting a hard-boiled Senate probe of War Department inefficiency. Unlike some others, Marshall was always frank about admitting mistakes, never tried to cover up, was gracious and even-tempered in his Senate testimony.

Later, when Truman became President, Marshall showed the respectful deference which military rank always shows to superior authority. Instead of ignoring Truman, as did some Cabinet members, Marshall went out of his way to sell him on all military plans. Truman, who had served as a field artilltry captain in the first world war, has always been partial to the army, and being on the inside of military strategy made a great hit.

In addition he felt sorry for Marshall when the latter was cited by an army board as partly responsible for Pearl Harbor. He also felt that Marshall got a raw deal when Churchill blocked his appointment as commander of the 2nd front.

Net result of all this was that long before he went to China, Marshall and Truman not only were warm friends, but enjoyed a most warm and intimate relationship. Probably the most glowing speech Truman ever made was at the Reserve Officers' dinner a little over a year ago when he announced the military conscription policy Marshall had sold him and, simultaneously, set his friend up on the same military pedestal with Hannibal, Napoleon, and Genghis Khan.

"Early in the war," Truman also revealed—in very serious vein — "I went to General Marshall and offered my services. But General Marshall wisely turned me down."

Marshall And Latins

While Secretary of State Marshall will enjoy the most cordial relations with the President of the United States, his relations with three major parts of the world will be more varied. They are: Great Britain, Russia, and Latin America.

In regard to the latter, Marshall made a special air trip to Brazil simultaneously with his appointment as Chief of Staff, which helped in cementing U. S.-Brazilian military relations. At the start of the war, however, the General came near undoing this goodwill by proposing that we take over strategic Brazilian bases whether Brazilians liked it or not. Had we been hasty, we would have alienated all Latin America. Fortunately, however, Marshall was blocked by Sumner Welles, and a few days later Brazil voluntarily offered us the bases.

It was with the British that General Marshall had most friction—though most neutral observers felt that he was right. Many of his arguments were over the 2nd front which the American and Russian cammands wanted, but which the British opposed.

One difference was over the invasion through "the soft underbelly of the Axis," which Marshall did not consider "soft" at all. And while he yielded to Churchill when it came to the invasion of Italy he flatly refused to jump from Italy to Greece and Jugoslavia.

Churchill, of course, foresaw the danger of Russia's getting into the Balkans and staying there. Marshall was interested not in the future political map of Europe—as he now will be as Secretary of State. He was interested in winning victories. And in one memorable conference he reminded Churchill that there were submarines in the Aegean and Adriatic, snow on the Balkan mountains, and he was not going to risk the lives of American troops in such a gamble.

British Disliked Marshall

It was these arguments, of course, which led to Churchill's refusal to accept Marshall as Allied Commander of the 2nd front. The most vitriolic debate came at the Quebec Conference when Marshall was pushing for the reopening of the Burma Road.

At Quebec it was finally decided that Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the King, would command the Indian Theatre and the Burma Road. Following this, Marshall called the Chinese Military Attache to Quebec, informed him of the momentous decision, and asked him to take a special plane to Chungking to inform Chiang Kai-shek. He did not want him to entrust the news to cable.

After taking these precautions, Marshall was amazed to note that news of Mountbatten's appointment had been given to the press by the British Minister of Information.

At the next meeting of the Chiefs

Portal To Portal Suits Threaten Solvency Of Firms

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"The injustice of it to me is shocking." As this is a quote from the dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Stone and Justice Roberts of the United States Supreme Court, an ordinary citizen like you or I also feel free to condemn the majority of that court in upholding stale claims for "portal to portal" or walking time pay.

One would have to search the books a long time to find a Supreme Court case which let loose a more damaging flood of law suits. The old Supreme Court which Mr. Roosevelt so bitterly attacked as a "super-legislature" was a pale ghost of this irresponsible majority "passing upon the wisdom of legislation on the basis of their own personal, political, and economic philosophy."

That the present majority of the court now acts as a "super-legislature" is shown by the dissenting opinions of members of that same court.

Can Hurt Credit, Expansion

American business faces suits totalling $1,500,000,000 and others which may run up to five or six billions. Even allowing for the usual exaggeration in law suits, nothing could be better designed to hurt the credit, and curtail the expansion of American business and jobs.

One company has already paid $4,000,000 in settlement of its case and it is probable that, like a row of dominoes, suits will be filed against thousands of companies before this evil thing has run its course.

In writing the Wage and Hour Act, Congress did not define the word "work-week". That was left as it was then commonly understood, based upon the cusoms and practices in the different industries.

Portal to portal time had scarcely been heard of when the Act was passed in 1938, much less discussed or adopted by Congress. For generations, the work day was understood as from "whistle to whistle" in the factories, or "face to face" as in the mines. In short, the time in which the employee does productive work for his employer.

Not only was it a matter of custom, but in many cases it was a matter of contract. For example, the United Mine Workers agreed in writing that "seven hours of labor shall constitute a day's work and this means seven hours work at the usual working places for all classes of labor, exclusive of the lunch period, whether they be paid on the day or tonnage or other piece work basis."

Contract Meant Little

Did this contract mean anything to the New Deal majority on the court? Not a thing. The United Mine Workers had in fact protested against portal to portal as a basis of computing time. The U. M. W. wrote the Wage and Hour Administrator in 1940 (after the law had gone into effect!) "The uniform high rates of pay that have always been included in the wage agreement of the mining industry contemplate the employee's working day beginning when he arrives at his usual working place. Hence, travel time was never considered as a part of the agreement or obligation of the employer to pay for in this industry, nor as hours worked by the employees, and this has been the case since the eight-hour day was established in the industry — April 1, 1898."

Later, in order to skate around the wage ceilings imposed by law in time of war, the miners reversed their position and asked for "portal to portal" in order to get more pay. The Supreme Court obliged them.

Usurping the legislative powers of Congress, it rewrites statutes, tears up contracts and long established customs and awards travel time in factories. The suits threaten the solvency of business on which all jobs depend. The Court presents a challenge to Congress that Congress must meet.

Changes In State Department Are Probable, But Russian Policy Stands

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—Although there is every reason to say that, in a broad sense, the policy of the United States in relation to other countries is unchanged by reason of the appointment of General Marshall to be secretary of state, actually there will be some changes.

The personality of a secretary of state is inextricably interwoven with the making of a policy. Concessions, compromises, affirmative or negative steps in the day-by-day formulation of policy soon take on the flavor of the personality at the top.

It can be said that, generally speaking, the United States policy toward Russia, for instance, will be the same. It will be a development of the Byrnes policy and certainly no swing toward the Wallace viewpoint.

In relation to China, the policy of the United States will be distinctively a Marshall policy because the new secretary is more familiar with it than anyone in Washington.

In relation to Latin America, it will be a policy that seeks to strengthen friendship and strives especially to find a basis for understanding with Argentina. The theory that the policy toward Argentina is a special one is inaccurate. The policy of the United States toward Argentina is a hemisphere affair. Many nations in Latin America have looked askance at the tendency in Washington to make policies by straightening out personal frictions.

Conflict Within

Ambassador Messersmith is back from Argentina for a visit, and Spruille Braden, the assistant secretary of state, has been referred to as opposing the ambassador's views. But broad policy cannot be made by internal debates with respent to the handling of one country. The external facts have a bearing, too. The Latin American nations are a unit, for instance, in expecting Argentina to live up to her pledges and international obligations and they do not believe Argentina will default. But the Latin American world would feel that the United States is being more meticulous with respect to Argentina than other countries if the feud with the Buenos Aires administration is kept going even after the agreements made heretofore are followed out. General Marshall is said to have been the real author of the mutual defense plan of standardized arms which Argentina is anxious to adopt.

The real policy of the Department of State will be made by the advisers and assistants chosen by the new secretary. Who will be undersecretary of state? Who will occupy the key posts in the department in the various bureaus?

General Marshall is a great organizer. As a military leader, he has a record of selecting good men and giving them plenty of responsibility and freedom of action. But the General also knows how to remove men quickly when they fail to measure up.

In a way, the new secretary will be giving a demonstration of military efficiency but without the militarized point of view which is so often the occasion of concern when military men are suggested for civilian posts. There will continue, of course, to be such a suspicion but Generall Marshall is skillful in handling himself and he, perhaps more than most military men, is sensitive to the currents of public opinion and the pitfalls that face anyone in public life who doesn't accommodate himself to the ways of representative government and democracy.

Experienced With Congress

General Marshall has had a good deal of experience with Congress and, while the new task will challenge him, it is one that one can assume he undertakes with considerable self-confidence. Incidentally apart from the admiration, amounting almost to worship, which President Truman has for General Marshall, it is worth noting that when Mr. Truman began thinking of a successor to Secretary Byrnes, his mind turned immediately to the General because the latter already had much background in foreign affairs.

The General was present, for instance, at the Roosevelt conferences at Casablanca, Teheran, Cairo, Quebec and Yalta. He has in his mind the intimate details of the very difficult and complex diplomacy that went on behind the scenes during the war. To a remarkable degree, the General shared the confidence of the late President Roosevelt. Few men attended all those conferences. Admiral King is the only other man of top rank who was present. Even Mr. Byrnes did not attend them all.

So the background knowledge which General Marshall has on the complicated questions of our relationship with Russia and Britain will come in handy. This does not mean that the new secretary will know it all from the start. He will rely on the trained men of the foreign service, many of whom know him already.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

How'd you like to make a hundred thousand dollars quick? All you have to do is write a good movie scenario around the life of Lola Montez.

Before you rush to the typewriter, I think I ought to tell you practically every major studio has burned up a couple of hundred thousand simoleons trying to get a good shooting script. In life, Lola made stooges of a dozen princes and kings. In death, she's made monkeys of a hundred scenario writers.

Let me give you a sketchy outline of her career. Tack it on your wall and send out for a month's provisions. If you can shape it up for Technicolor, they'll build you a chincilla-lined swimming pool before you can say Pandro S. Berman.

Billy Rose

Lola Montez was born in Ireland in 1818. Her square monicker was Marie Gilbert. When she was two, her father took her to India. I guess the curry powder got in her blood. When she was 17, her mother arranged for her to marry a rich old party. She decided to do her own arranging, and eloped with a subaltern named James. A year later she turned up in England with a good-looking fellow named Lennox.

In Londan, she bought a mantilla and a pair of castanets in a pawnshop and changed her name to Lola Montez. She sweet-talked the manager of His Majesty's Theatre into giving her a job. Halfway through her dance on opening night a young nobleman she had cold-shouldered got up and hollered, "Swindle! She's from Ireland!" The British audience hooted the hock-shop senorita out of the theatre.

She went to Brussels and sang in the streets for pennies. A young student sold his books to pay her fare to Warsaw. She wangled an engagement at the Opera House. Prince Paskievich, conqueror of Poland, saw her dance and offered her a palace. She told this 60-year-old dwarf to go take a flying jump in the Baltic. The next night the Prince sent a claque to hiss her off the stage. Lola stopped the music, stepped down to the footlights, and told the audience the story. The Poles pitched the conqueror's hecklers into the alley, and carried her on their shoulders though the steets, singing songs of independence. Paskievich ordered her arrest. She barricaded her door and theatened to shoot the first soldier who entered. They were about to burn down her house when the French Consul came along, claimed her as a French subject, and whisked her out of Warsaw.

We next meet up with her in St. Petersburg. The fellow who kept her in caviar that season was only the Czar of all the Russias.

In Dresden, Franz Lizst walked out on his wife and children for Lola. In Paris, she bewitched Alexandre Dumas, the great French novelist.

Then, for the first time, Lola fell in love—with a radical journalist named Dujaurier. Her story might have ended here, but the young radical talked out of turn, and was killed in a duel with fixed guns.

Henry, Prince of Reuss, offered to make her a Princess, but she patted him on the cheek and kept moving.

Lola was 27 when she turned up in Munich. They told her she wasn't good enough to dance at King Ludwig's favorite theatre. She scratched her way past the palace guards to the King's room, and without music went into her dance. Ludwig of Bavaria wilted. She took over his heart, and, with it, his kingdom.

Under her influence, Ludwig liberalized schools, cancelled censorship and kicked out the reactionary cabinet. When his sister, the Empress of Austria, tried to bribe Lola to leave him, she showed Ludwig the letter and tossed it in the fire. He made her a Baroness.

An organized mob appeared under her window, jeered and threw stones. She stepped out on the balcony and poured champagne on their heads. Finally, the generals told Ludwig to choose between Lola and his kingdom. The old King ordered her arrest. When the mob come to get her, she put on her jewels and walked proudly through her enemies to a waiting barouche. No one could bring himself to molest her. When she had driven off, the hooligans made a shambles of her boudoir. Ludwig, watching, was knocked over and trampled.

In Switzerland, she married an Army officer, and was arrested for bigamy. She jumped bail and came to America. She kept dancing and marrying right across the continent. During the Gold Rush, she was the Texas Guinan of the Barbary Coast. On a side-trip to Australia, she horse-whipped an editor and clawed a prima donna who snubbed her. In 1861, she returned to New York, got religion and, died. She did all this living in 43 years.

I can't begin to put down in a brief column all the shenanigans of this wild heart. The complete story would make "The Razor's Edge" look like a pencil sharpener.

So far, no one has been able to write it so an audience would believe it. Maybe you can.

If you do, there's a little verse of Edna St. Vincent Millay's I wish you'd use for an introduction:

"My candle burns at both ends;
It will not last the night;
But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends—
It gives a lovely light!"

Lane Inaugural Address Down-to-Earth In Character

While the inaugural address by Governor Lane lacked color, it was a down-to-earth statement, and showed evidence that the new Maryland chief executive had charted the course he will follow during the next four years, after careful study.

After referring to the platform on which he ran, and outlining the planks: to discharge the State's obligations to the veterans, provide greater financial support for education, increase hospital facilities for the needy, expand efforts in the field of mental hygiene, improve the welfare system, develop agriculture, conserve natural resources, improve highways, give Baltimore more home rule, effect a more equitable representation in the General Assembly, and build a bay bridge, Governor Lane dealt at length with the financial problems he must face.

Of course, he makes it known that he will not treat the platform as a mere campaign instrument that is to be forgotten now, but he leaves to the future methods to be employed to finance the proposed undertakings, except to indicate he would favor toll roads to meet the cost of highway improvements and bridge construction. Such a plan would throw additional taxation on motorists and public transportation concerns, but in the latter case the additional cost would, in all probability, be passed on to those using public buses, and those depending on trucks for service. So in the end the public in general would pay its share.

He warned that the period of State surpluses, which accumulated during the war, is about over, pointing out that anticipated surpluses for the next biennium will be absorbed in the new budget, which contains requests of $18,000,000 a year more than those granted under the existing budget. He then turned to the Sherbow Commission proposal for the distribution of State revenue to counties, incorporated towns and Baltimore City. Under that plan, from $12,000,000 to $13,000,000 would be disposed of which, as the Maryland Public Expenditure Council points out, will cost the taxpayers of Maryland that amount in additional taxes. The analysis is followed by the observation that the approximate $13,000,000 extra which the recommendations would cost the taxpayers is a sum equal to twice the amount of income tax actually collected in 1946, and is nearly five times the amount raised from the State property levy in the same year.

The Council suggests the taxpayers carefully consider four basic questions: Will this new "easy money" merely result in additional spending and encourage extravagance by the political sub-divisions of the State? Should revenue for local governments be levied and collected by the State, or should each unit determine its own expenditures according to its own concept of need and economical administration and then raises its own revenue? Isn't this the best way for citizens to control the purse strings and thus control their local government? And, are the proposed benefits to the individual localities worth the tremendous increase in State taxation they will necessitate?

We agree the Council has a point in all those observations, and Governor Lane is no doubt weighing the problem carefully before, (if he does) endorse the Sherbow proposals in toto, and not merely, as is the case up to now, in principle only.

Whether Nicaragua's action in balancing her budget signifies her abandonment of the good neighbor policy has not been revealed.

The Resignation Of Our Secretary Of State Byrnes

Whether ill health or political expediency brought about the resignation of James F. Byrnes as secretary of state may never be known, but Washington is doing a lot of speculating. As a writer in the New York Herald Tribune pointed out: "the sudden and totally unexpected resignation is bound to cause bewilderment and some dismay." This writer comments "no doubt it is true that a severe strain has been put upon his health," then adds, "the public will scarcely forget that severe strains of a rather different kind were put upon him by the President's ineptitude in the Wallace affair at the end of the summer, and will be inclined to wonder whether ineptitude has not again been at work somewhere in the conduct of American foreign policy."

But whatever the reason, the resignation of Mr. Byrnes is a distinct loss to the nation. However, he has left a legacy of infinite value to his successor and the country in the firm bipartisan foreign policy which became a reality under his administration.

His successor, General of the Army George C. Marshall, will bring to the office the prestige of a distinguished record as Chief of Staff of our Army throughout the greatest of wars. During that crucial period he demonstrated great organizing and administrative abilities and established himself as a diplomat as well as a great soldier.

While General Marshall has been somewhat isolated from the main current of world events by his long assignment in China, his attendance at major conferences of the Big Three as a member of the late President Roosevelt's party, during the world conflict, gives him a background on issues he must face in future conferences that will serve him well, and which will permit him to deal with those problems with thorough knowledge and understanding.

On the record General Marshall has made in rising to other responsibilities that have been assigned to him, the public will have confidence that America's interests are to remain in safe hands, although, we repeat, it is to be regretted that Secretary Byrnes must retire at this particular time when men of his experience are needed.

Another mystery is why it is referred to as a public debt when private citizens will be called upon to pay it.

They Can Smoke Marks

The black market sale of cigarettes by our military personnel has become such a serious threat to German economy and German currency that the occupation authorities are thinking of prohibiting the importation of American cigarettes into that country.

Instead of banning imports, why not send to Germany only those acrid saw mill sweepings, encased in paper cylinders, which passed for cigarettes here during the war-shortage. It would certainly make American cigarettes one of the least desirable commodities on the continent of Europe.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

PREDIGESTED PROTEINS

THE average person receives a sufficient quantity of proteins with his meals. The food element is acted upon by ferments in the digestive tract. As a result, it is broken down into simpler constitutents, chiefly amino acids. These products are carried to the liver via the blood stream, eventually reaching all the cells of the body.

Proteins have many functions in addition to their nutritive value, measurable in calories. Such tasks include maintaining the blood volume and tissue integrity, aiding in the formation of antibodies to fight disease and encourage healing of wounds, as well as providing a lift during convalescence from disease, injury, or surgery.

During the past few years, various predigested proteins and hydrolyzed (split) amino acids have been prepared by pharmaceutical houses. Concentrates of this type are of untold benefit in many medical conditions and have reduced considerably the period of convalescence. Formerly, we were forced to rely upon the amount that could be eaten, which provided only a fraction of the requirements for these individuals. Furthermore, many patients have poor appetites or are unable to utilize what is consumed because of digestive disturbances.

Now these preparations are available in solutions for injection into a vein. Moreover, we have concentrated powders that can be swallowed, and since they are predigested, or nearly so, absorption calls for little or no work on the part of the intestine.

Many peptic ulcer victims have lived for years on restricted diets, either self-imposed or prescribed. Consequently, underweight and lack of stamina are exhibited. In some instances, the symptoms are due to depleted proteins, particularly since certain foods high in this element tend to aggravate discomfort. By adding amino acids to the usual regimen (alkalies, bland diet, belladonna, etc.) the feeling of well being returns, poundage is gained, and pain often disappears. The explanation may be that the body is being furnished not only with more nutriment but with building material for repair of the lesion.

The same is true of ulcer patients who require surgery for permanent relief or the control of complications and those undergoing gall bladder, appendix, or hernia operations. These procedures lead to a great loss in proteins and, unless extra quantities are given, convalescence is prolonged because of the associated weakness and fatigue. In other words, the individual can now go thru the ordeal without feeling as tho he had been pulled thru a wringer.

The substances likewise are helpful in burns, chiefly to replace the proteins excreted thru the weeping surface of the charred area, but also in healing. Their utility in starvation, chronic invalidism, pregnancy, and liver disease are well known. Many oldsters need supplements since their powers of absorption are faulty or they do not consume enough because of poor dentition. The compounds improve the nutritional state of sufferers from chronic infections, such as pulmonary tuberculosis.

NOSEBLEED

R. P. writes: How does rheumatic fever cause nosebleed?

REPLY

This symptom frequently accompanies rheumatic fever. There are many characteristics of this disease which we do not understand. Possibly, in this instance, the rise in temperature causes dilatation of the capillaries.

COULD BE

C. F. writes: Could gallstones cause the heart to beat rapidly?

REPLY

In the majority of instances, the answer would be no. In a few, infection of and stones in the gall bladder have led to cardiac irregularities. Anxiety over the knowledge that the condition exists may also play a part in causing a rapid pulse.

SKIN AFFECTION

J. C. N. writes: What is dermatitis herpetiformis?

REPLY

A rare skin disorder in which crops of water blisters develop over various sections of the body. They come and go, itch markedly, and are prone to leave pigmented spots. A toxin is the usual cause but the condition is often observed in individuals of nervous temperament.

CARBON MONOXIDE

M. D. writes: What are the effects on the lungs of smoke from an exhaust pipe of an automobile, if breathed in for about five seconds?

REPLY

Probably none. Besides, the blood is affected more than the lungs. The carbon monoxide of the fumes replaces the oxygen in the red blood corpuscles. The result depends upon the concentration. A small percentage produces headaches and a large amount, coma. Sometimes other products in the fumes lead to cough. If this is severe, slight irritation of the membranes of the lungs may follow.

BABY SHOES

Mrs. D. writes: Will you please tell me when to start putting shoes on my baby? I have heard contradictory opinions.

REPLY

Shoes are necessary when the child begins to walk. Prior to that time, bootees of a soft type can be used, but they should fit loosely and not retard development of the foot.

TROUBLE WITH SPLEEN

V. L. writes: What symptoms are present if there is something wrong with the spleen?

REPLY

Involvement of this organ is usually secondary to other disorders. Enlargement is the most common result, but the patient may be unaware of the phenomenon. Sometimes it becomes sizable enough to cause pressure symptoms.

WHO KNOWS? HE MAY AMOUNT TO SOMETHING

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—There will be one imporant difference between President Truman's relations with his new Secretary of State George Marshall and those with his retiring Secretary, Jimmie Byrnes.

With Byrnes, Truman was always a little uncomfortable. He respected Jimmie, had confidence in him, but resented the fact that Byrnes operated as a one-man team. The President had almost nothing to say about foreign policy. Byrnes had been a senior Senator and later Supreme Court Justice when Truman was a very insignificent junior Senator. Also, Jimmie had the habit of playing diplomacy by ear. A master musician, he didn't worry about accompaniments, seldom sent the White House reports from Paris or London, didn't always tell the President about his future plans.

At one time, Truman objected to this so vigorously that he almost fired his Secretary of State. The incident occurred just after Byrnes returned from Moscow one year ago and announced even before he cabled a full report to the President, that he would give a radio report to the American people.

Truman was furious. Summoning Byrnes to come aboard the Presidential yacht immediately, the President was all set for a showdown. The showdown never developed. Though Byrnes received some caustic criticism from Admiral Leahy for yielding to the Russians, Truman finally fell for Jimmie's plausible explanation and agreed to let him go ahead.

Planned To Fire Byrnes

Nevertheless, it was immediately after this flare-up over the Moscow agreement that Truman sent a cable to General Marshall asking him to be Secretary of State. This was in February. Significantly, Truman sent the cable through the War Department's secret code, not the State Department's, and Byrnes never knew about the message until some weeks later when a friend in the War Department showed him the messages. That may have been the reason for Byrnes's first letter of resignation dated April 16.

General Marshall, at the time he was approached last February, was lukewarm. He had no desire to become Secretary of State. Simultaneously, a premature press leak caused Truman to pull in his horns—temporarily. And during the year that followed he and Jimmie have been getting along better.

Basically, however, Truman never changed his ideas about Marshall, and those who have seen the two together can easily understand why he picked him as Secretary of State.

Entirely aside from Marshall's broad experience and ability (which will be discussed later), he has a personal magnetism which won Truman even in the days when the President was conducting a hard-boiled Senate probe of War Department inefficiency. Unlike some others, Marshall was always frank about admitting mistakes, never tried to cover up, was gracious and even-tempered in his Senate testimony.

Later, when Truman became President, Marshall showed the respectful deference which military rank always shows to superior authority. Instead of ignoring Truman, as did some Cabinet members, Marshall went out of his way to sell him on all military plans. Truman, who had served as a field artillry captain in the first world war, has always been partial to the army, and being on the inside of military strategy made a great hit.

In addition he felt sorry for Marshall when the latter was cited by an army board as partly responsible for Pearl Harbor. He also felt that Marshall got a raw deal when Churchill blocked his appointment as commander of the 2nd front.

Net result of all this was that long before he went to China, Marshall and Truman not only were warm friends, but enjoyed a most warm and intimate relationship. Probably the most glowing speech Truman ever made was at the Reserve Officers' dinner a little over a year ago when he announced the military conscription policy Marshall had sold him and, simultaneously, set his friend up on the same military pedestal with Hannibal, Napoleon, and Genghis Khan.

"Early in the war," Truman also revealed—in very serious vein — "I went to General Marshall and offered my services. But General Marshall wisely turned me down."

Marshall And Latins

While Secretary of State Marshall will enjoy the most cordial relations with the President of the United States, his relations with three major parts of the world will be more varied. They are: Great Britain, Russia, and Latin America.

In regard to the latter, Marshall made a special air trip to Brazil simultaneously with his appointment as Chief of Staff, which helped in cementing U. S.-Brazilian military relations. At the start of the war, however, the General came near undoing this goodwill by proposing that we take over strategic Brazilian bases whether Brazilians liked it or not. Had we been hasty, we would have alienated all Latin America. Fortunately, however, Marshall was blocked by Sumner Welles, and a few days later Brazil voluntarily offered us the bases.

It was with the British that General Marshall had most friction—though most neutral observers felt that he was right. Many of his arguments were over the 2nd front which the American and Russian cammands wanted, but which the British opposed.

One difference was over the invasion through "the soft underbelly of the Axis," which Marshall did not consider "soft" at all. And while he yielded to Churchill when it came to the invasion of Italy he flatly refused to jump from Italy to Greece and Jugoslavia.

Churchill, of course, foresaw the danger of Russia's getting into the Balkans and staying there. Marshall was interested not in the future political map of Europe—as he now will be as Secretary of State. He was interested in winning victories. And in one memorable conference he reminded Churchill that there were submarines in the Aegan and Adriatic, snow on the Balkan mountains, and he was not going to risk the lives of American troops in such a gamble.

British Disliked Marshall

It was these arguments, of course, which led to Churchill's refusal to accept Marshall as Allied Commander of the 2nd front. The most vitriolic debate came at the Quebec Conference when Marshall was pushing for the reopening of the Burma Road.

At Quebec it was finally decided that Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of the King, would command the Indian Theatre and the Burma Road. Following this, Marshall called the Chinese Military Attache to Quebec, informed him of the momentous decision, and asked him to take a special plane to Chungking to inform Chiang Kai-shek. He did not want him to entrust the news to cable.

After taking these precautions, Marshall was amazed to note that news of Mountbatten's appointment had been given to the press by the British Minister of Information.

At the next meeting of the Chiefs

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"The injustice of it to me is shocking." As this is a quote from the dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Stone and Justice Roberts of the United States Supreme Court, an ordinary citizen like you or I also feel free to condemn the majority of that court in upholding stale claims for "portal to portal" or walking time pay.

One would have to search the books a long time to find a Supreme Court case which let loose a more damaging flood of law suits. The old Supreme Court which Mr. Roosevelt so bitterly attacked as a "super-legislature" was a pale ghost of this irresponsible majority "passing upon the wisdom of legislation on the basis of their own personal, political, and economic philosophy."

Can Hurt Credit, Expansion

American business faces suits totalling $1,500,000,000 and others which may run up to five or six billions. Even allowing for the usual exaggeration in law suits, nothing could be better designed to hurt the credit, and curtail the expansion of American business and jobs.

One company has already paid $4,000,000 in settlement of its case and it is probable that, like a row of dominoes, suits will be filed against thousands of companies before this evil thing has run its course.

In writing the Wage and Hour Act, Congress did not define the word "work-week". That was left as it was then commonly understood, based upon the cusoms and practices in the different industries.

Portal to portal time had scarcely been heard of when the Act was passed in 1938, much less discussed or adopted by Congress. For generations, the work day was understood as from "whistle to whistle" in the factories, or "face to face" as in the mines. In short, the time in which the employee does productive work for his employer.

Not only was it a matter of custom, but in many cases it was a matter of contract. For example, the United Mine Workers agreed in writing that "seven hours of labor shall constitute a day's work and this means seven hours work at the usual working places for all classes of labor, exclusive of the lunch period, whether they be paid on the day or tonnage or other piece work basis."

Contract Meant Little

Did this contract mean anything to the New Deal majority on the court? Not a thing. The United Mine Workers had in fact protested against portal to portal as a basis of computing time. The U. M. W. wrote the Wage and Hour Administrator in 1940 (after the law had gone into effect!) "The uniform high rates of pay that have always been included in the wage agreement of the mining industry contemplate the employee's working day beginning when he arrives at his usual working place. Hence, travel time was never considered as a part of the agreement or obligation of the employer to pay for in this industry, nor as hours worked by the employees, and this has been the case since the eight-hour day was established in the industry — April 1, 1898."

Later, in order to skate around the wage ceilings imposed by law in time of war, the miners reversed their position and asked for "portal to portal" in order to get more pay. The Supreme Court obliged them.

Usurping the legislative powers of Congress, it rewrites statutes, tears up contracts and long established customs and awards travel time in factories. The suits threaten the solvency of business on which all jobs depend. The Court presents a challenge to Congress that Congress must meet.

Changes In State Department Are Probable, But Russian Policy Stands

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—Although there is every reason to say that, in a broad sense, the policy of the United States in relation to other countries is unchanged by reason of the appointment of General Marshall to be secretary of state, actually there will be some changes.

The personality of a secretary of state is inextricably interwoven with the making of a policy. Concessions, compromises, affirmative or negative steps in the day-by-day formulation of policy soon take on the flavor of the personality at the top.

It can be said that, generally speaking, the United States policy toward Russia, for instance, will be the same. It will be a development of the Byrnes policy and certainly no swing toward the Wallace viewpoint.

In relation to China, the policy of the United States will be distinctively a Marshall policy because the new secretary is more familiar with it than anyone in Washington.

In relation to Latin America, it will be a policy that seeks to strengthen friendship and strives especially to find a basis for understanding with Argentina. The theory that the policy toward Argentina is a special one is inaccurate. The policy of the United States toward Argentina is a hemisphere affair. Many nations in Latin America have looked askance at the tendency in Washington to make policies by straightening out personal frictions.

Conflict Within

Ambassador Messersmith is back from Argentina for a visit, and Spruille Braden, the assistant secretary of state, has been referred to as opposing the ambassador's views. But broad policy cannot be made by internal debates with respect to the handling of one country. The external facts have a bearing, too. The Latin American nations are a unit, for instance, in expecting Argentina to live up to her pledges and international obligations and they do not believe Argentina will default. But the Latin American world would feel that the United States is being more meticulous with respect to Argentina than other countries if the feud with the Buenos Aires administration is kept going even after the agreements made heretofore are followed out. General Marshall is said to have been the real author of the mutual defense plan of standardised arms which Argentina is anxious to adopt.

The real policy of the Department of State will be made by the advisers and assistants chosen by the new secretary. Who will be under-secretary of state? Who will occupy the key posts in the department in the various bureaus?

General Marshall is a great organizer. As a military leader, he has a record of selecting good men and giving them plenty of responsibility and freedom of action. But the General also knows how to remove men quickly when they fail to measure up.

In a way, the new secretary will be giving a demonstration of military efficiency but without the militarized point of view which is so often the occasion of concern when military men are suggested for civilian posts. There will continue, of course, to be such a suspicion but Generall Marshall is skillful in handling himself and he, perhaps more than most military men, is sensitive to the currents of public opinion and the pitfalls that face anyone in public life who doesn't accommodate himself to the ways of representative government and democracy.

Experienced With Congress

General Marshall has had a good deal of experience with Congress, and, while the new task will challenge him, it is one that one can assume he undertakes with considerable self-confidence. Incidentally, apart from the admiration, amounting almost to worship, which President Truman has for General Marshall, it is worth noting that when Mr. Truman began thinking of a successor to Secretary Byrnes, his mind turned immediately to the General because the latter already had much background in foreign affairs.

The General was present, for instance, at the Roosevelt conferences at Casablanca, Teheran, Cairo, Quebec and Yalta. He has in his mind the intimate details of the very difficult and complex diplomacy that went on behind the scenes during the war. To a remarkable degree, the General shared the confidence of the late President Roosevelt. Few men attended all those conferences. Admiral King is the only other man of top rank who was present. Even Mr. Byrnes did not attend them all.

So the background knowledge which General Marshall has on the complicated questions of our relationship with Russia and Britain will come in handy. This does not mean that the new secretary will know it all from the start. He will rely on the trained men of the foreign service, many of whom know him already.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

How'd you like to make a hundred thousand dollars quick? All you have to do is write a good movie scenario around the life of Lola Montez.

Before you rush to the typewriter, I think I ought to tell you practically every major studio has burned up a couple of hundred thousand simoleons trying to get a good shooting script. In life, Lola made stooges of a dozen princes and kings. In death, she's made monkeys of a hundred scenario writers.

Let me give you a sketchy outline of her career. Tack it on your wall and send out for a month's provisions. If you can shape it up for Technicolor, they'll build you a chincilla-lined swimming pool before you can say Pandro S. Berman.

Billy Rose

Lola Montez was born in Ireland in 1818. Her square monicker was Marie Gilbert. When she was two, her father took her to India. I guess the curry powder got in her blood. When she was 17, her mother arranged for her to marry a rich old party. She decided to do her own arranging, and eloped with a subaltern named James. A year later she turned up in England with a good-looking fellow named Lennox.

In London, she bought a mantilla and a pair of castanets in a pawnshop and changed her name to Lola Montez. She sweet-talked the manager of His Majesty's Theatre into giving her a job. Halfway through her dance on opening night a young nobleman she had cold-shouldered got up and hollered, "Swindle! She's from Ireland!" The British audience hooted the hockshop senorita out of the theatre.

She went to Brussels and sang in the streets for pennies. A young student sold his books to pay her fare to Warsaw. She wangled an engagement at the Opera House. Prince Paskievich, conqueror of Poland, saw her dance and offered her a palace. She told this 60-year-old dwarf to go take a flying jump in the Baltic. The next night the Prince sent a claque to hiss her off the stage. Lola stopped the music, stepped down to the footlights, and told the audience the story. The Poles pitched the conqueror's hecklers into the alley, and carried her on their shoulders though the steets, singing songs of independence. Paskievich ordered her arrest. She barricaded her door and theatened to shoot the first soldier who entered. They were about to burn down her house when the French Consul came along, claimed her as a French subject, and whisked her out of Warsaw.

We next meet up with her in St. Petersburg. The fellow who kept her in caviar that season was only the Czar of all the Russias.

In Dresden, Franz Lizst walked out on his wife and children for Lola. In Paris, she bewitched Alexandre Dumas, the great French novelist.

Then, for the first time, Lola fell in love—with a radical journalist named Dujaurier. Her story might have ended here, but the young radical talked out of turn, and was killed in a duel with fix guns.

Henry, Prince of Reuss, offered to make her a Princess, but she patted him on the cheek and kept moving.

Lola was 27 when she turned up in Munich. They told her she wasn't good enough to dance at King Ludwig's favorite theatre. She scratched her way past the palace guards to the King's room, and without music went into her dance. Ludwig of Bavaria wilted. She took over his heart, and, with it, his kingdom.

Under her influence, Ludwig liberalized schools, cancelled censorship and kicked out the reactionary cabinet. When his sister, the Empress of Austria, tried to bribe Lola to leave him, she showed Ludwig the letter and tossed it in the fire. He made her a Baroness.

An organized mob appeared under her window, jeered and threw stones. She stepped out on the balcony and poured champagne on their heads. Finally, the generals told Ludwig to choose between Lola and his kingdom. The old King ordered her arrest. When the mob come to get her, she put on her jewels and walked proudly through her enemies to a waiting barouche. No one could bring himself to molest her. When she had driven off, the hooligans made a shambles of her boudoir. Ludwig, watching, was knocked over and trampled.

In Switzerland, she married an Army officer, and was arrested for bigamy. She jumped bail and came to America. She kept dancing and marrying right across the continent. During the Gold Rush, she was the Texas Guinan of the Barbary Coast. On a side-trip to Australia, she horse-whipped an editor and clawed a prima donna who snubbed her. In 1861, she returned to New York, got religion and, died. She did all this living in 43 years.

I can't begin to put down in a brief column all the shenanigans of this wild heart. The complete story would make "The Razor's Edge" look like a pencil sharpener.

So far, no one has been able to write it so an audience would believe it. Maybe you can.

If you do, there's a little verse of Edna St. Vincent Millay's I wish you'd use for an introduction:

"My candle burns at both ends;
It will not last the night;
But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends—

The Inheritance of Happiness

We were all meant for happiness, and scattered lavishly about us are both the means and the evidence that this is true.

William James has written that life is always worth the living, if one has what he calls "responsive sensibilities." And he refers to Peter in Tolstoi's "War and Peace," who was supposed to be the richest man in Russia, but who later was taken prisoner, and then, for the first time realized the happiness to be gained from such simple things as eating, sleeping, drinking and talking. That experience changed his whole outlook on life.

When we have experienced actual hunger, not knowing when, where, or how, it is to be appeased, then we come to appreciate its fulfillment. And its memory is stamped into our consciousness.

Those who have inherited wealth and comforts rarely know, or learn, its rare inception, bequeathed to those who earned it through strife, and even hunger and privation. Simple beauty and appreciation are lost to those who have never had them stamped indelibly upon their soul consciousness. Once deprived of our gains, we learn to put an honest appraisal upon them.

In Nature, the common things are bequeathed to all, but it is only to the few, it seems, that their appreciation becomes significant and full of meaning. Thoreau saw their significance, and, therefore, lived the significant life, and spread that significance into every word and act of his life, emphasizing it as one of the truly great ones of all time.

W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, used to go into the forest and wander for hours at a time, with no definite purpose in his mind, and to the same haunts he would return, again and again, for no other purpose, perhaps, than to scent the divine inheritance of the simple and natural, and somehow to keep it real. He apparently wished most of all to learn the harmonious life, as represented in Nature.

We cannot help but feel humble and insignificant in the midst of so great an inheritance bequeathed to us all in Nature. There is meaning to it all, if we can grasp it. The song of the bird, upon its perch in the tree, the night sky, with its brilliant specks of stars and worlds, the vapory beauty of passing clouds, and earth's fragrance everywhere—these are what comprise our inheritance to happiness.

PREDICTIONS FOR 1947

This being the time of the year for predictions, I herewith present my predictions for the year 1947.

This year will see the automobile companies turning out a model which will look as if it were going sideways.

With the V2 rocket reaching heights during 1946 previously undreamed of by man, there's probably no limit as to how high it can go. In fact, this year I predict that the V2 rocket will fly over Gary Cooper.

I predict that Crosby's Pirates will come out of the cellar in 1947 — they'll have to—John L. Lewis has refused to renew their union card.

House detectives will make big money in 1947—I hear they're going to demand portal-to-portal pay.

I predict a big improvement in my golf game—I have a new eraser on my score card.

I forecast a much quieter and more peaceful United Nations session in 1947—Gromyko is going to wear sneakers.

Furthermore, I predict that Drew Pearson will predict that H. V. Kaltenborn will predict that Gabriel Heatter is going to predict that my predictions are all wrong.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE HE-SHE NAMES

I am about to inaugurate a one female campaign. And if I die in the attempt or get kicked out by my boss, which is quite likely, perhaps I shall share the glorious fate of Horatius at the Bridge. And maybe get a lea or two of immortal fame. For the pest I am attacking must have dented many a long suffering soul.

I refer to the frequent and increasing habit of shes using he names. Or of gals who sign themselves ambiguously as C. H. Brown or A. W. Jones so that you have no way of guessing whether they wear pants or lace panties. Which is a grievous trial when you get a couple of hundred letters every morning.

I am well aware that this campaign will affront many winsome young damsels, some of them my friends and kinfolk. But that's just their bad luck. If they can't be content merely with being attractive women and wearing feminine names to suit the same, they deserve a dent in their setup. And they're going to get it.

From time immemorial women have been known by certain names and men have been known by certain others which plainly distinguish between the sexes. But how are you going to know what the sex is when you get a whimper on pale pink stationery that's signed Fred? Personally I think there oughtta be a law. Or some national columnist should expose the racket in loud, shrill yelps. Which I am doing.

No woman needs to ape a man to put herself on the map. Any woman packs plenty of wallop without carrying a tobacco pouch. This custom of young females using male names is all of a piece with female barflies and the equally disgusting current habit of having a football hero photographed with fluttering females.

As a female, I am not against my sex. But for cripes sake why can't they be themselves and exercise their own very potent technique without borrowing tricks from the males, who aren't so hot anyway! I don't know when this cockeyed notion that male names enhance their charms crept into the female mind but I can tell the sisters that numerous thousands of men think it's the bunk. They would rather have a girl called Rose or Agnes, Lily or Irene than hundreds of sissies who masquerade behind a masculine nomenclature.

Of course this notion of adopting male titles is based on fear. Any girl who uses a male name is afraid she hasn't wallop enough to get by under the title of Mary or Sarah. So they go He.

But it's the bunk . . . it's the bunk. Grandma knew better. She knew her sex power and capitalized on it. She wore pantalettes not because she wanted to cover her legs but as one of the slickest come-ons that ever was invented. You girls who have to ape male college freshmen are dumb. The boys may think you a good sport at first, but they'll end by marrying some clinging, blue eyed, helpless little female from behind the delicatessen counter.

THESE HE-SHE NAMES

I am about to inaugurate a one female campaign. And if I die in the attempt or get kicked out by my boss, which is quite likely, perhaps I shall share the glorious fate of Horatius at the Bridge. And maybe get a tea or two of immortal fame. For the pest I am attacking must have dented many a long suffering soul.

I refer to the frequent and increasing habit of shes using he names. Or of gals who sign themselves ambiguously as C. H. Brown or A. W. Jones so that you, have no way of guessing whether they wear pants or lace panties. Which is a grievous trial when you get a couple of hundred letters every morning.

I am well aware that this campaign will affront many winsome young damsels, some of them my friends and kinfolk. But that's just their bad luck. If they can't be content merely with being attractive women and wearing feminine names to suit the same, they deserve a dent in their setup. And they're going to get it.

From time immemorial women have been known by certain names and men have been known by certain others which plainly distinguish between the sexes. But how are you going to know what the sex is when you get a whimper on pale pink stationery that's signed Fred? Personally I think there oughtta be a law. Or some national columnist should expose the racket in loud, shrill yelps. Which I am doing.

No woman needs to ape a man to put herself on the map. Any woman packs plenty of wallop without carrying a tobacco pouch. This custom of young females using male nagnes is all of a piece with female barflies and the equally disgusting current habit of having a football hero photographed with fluttering females.

As a female, I am not against my sex. But for cripes sake why can't they be themselves and exercise their own very potent technique without borrowing tricks from the males, who aren't so hot anyway! I don't know when this cockeyed notion that male names enhance their charms crept into the female mind but I can tell the sisters that numerous thousands of men think it's the bunk. Public Does Not Understand Wagner Act, Gallup Poll Survey Reveals

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., January 9—One of the least understood major laws of the land is the Wagner Labor Act. Only about one-fifth of the adult population has any idea what this basic piece of legislation, which defines collective bargaining rights and processes of labor unions, is all about.

The law has been on the statute books since 1935 and has been a major instrument in fostering and developing the growth of unions during the past decade.

There has been much talk in the new Congress about revising the Wagner Act. In order to find out what the general voting population thinks of the controversy, the Institute conducted a survey from coast to coast on several aspects of the Wagner Act, which is also known as the National Labor Relations Act.

First it put this question to the voters:

"What is your understanding of what the Wagner Labor Act provides—or is supposed to do?"

It may come as a surprise to Congressmen, business leaders and labor leaders how few people, comparatively speaking, are familiar with even the main essentials of the act over which there is so much dispute.

Nineteen per cent of all voters interviewed were able to indicate that they have at least a general idea of what the act is, while 12 per cent gave a totally incorrect answer, and 69 per cent said they simply do not know what the Wagner Act is.

Among the few who are familiar with the act, there is overwhelming sentiment in favor of amending it.

Approximately two out of three expressing an opinion on the point said they thought the act should be either changed or repealed, while only one third voted to leave it on the statute books unchanged.

Those who want it revised say that it is too one-sided now in favor of labor, that it ought to be amended to treat management and labor on a more equal basis.

Among its many provisions the act at present allows workers to call for an election to determine union representation, but does not allow management to precipitate such an election. There are also restrictions against management attempting to "sell" its point of view to workers before such an election.

The poll asked:

"Do you think the Wagner Labor Act should be left as it is, changed, or done away with?"

The vote of those who indicated a general familiarity with the act:

Changed 53
Done away with 11

Those who voted for changes were asked what changes should be made. The principal ones given by the voters were:

Management and labor should be on a more equal basis; the act should be strengthened to protect employers more; it should have more restrictions on strikes; and it should limit the power of labor leaders.

* * *

Studies of opinion in former years show that the Wagner Act has never had the acceptance of the general public.

From the time if the act's adoption, polls have never found a majority with opinions thinking it should be left on the statute books unchanged. Sentiment has always been prepanderantly in favor of revising or replacing the law.

Today's study would seem to indicate that if labor union leaders wish to protect the act from changes, they should take time out to educate public opinion on the act so that more people will know what unions are talking about when they refer to it as "labor's Magna Carta."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

HARRY: "I don't know what they'll weigh up, Judge, but my cattle and poultry sure have been gettin' fatter since I started to use distillers' dried grains in their ration."

OLD JUDGE: "You're about the tenth one who has told me that, Harry. How do you account for it?"

HARRY: "The by-product recovered from grains used by distillers is very high in vitamin and protein content. It's the best feed supplement we can get to balance the rations we feed our dairy cows, livestock and poultry. Mixed with original grain, these distillers' dried grains have a much greater feeding value than the original grain has."

OLD JUDGE: "Have any trouble getting all you need?"

HARRY: "Yes, at times, even though the distillers produced 1,200,000,000 pounds of it for the year endin' last June. I hope they'll be in a position to produce a lot more next year."

OLD JUDGE: "Then I guess nobody can tell you grain is wasted in distilling."

HARRY: "Not me, Judge . . . I know."

Paul H. Griffith, American Legion National Head, To Visit Frostburg

May 12 Scheduled As Tentative Date

Announcement was officially made Monday night at a regular meeting of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, that Paul H. Griffith, national commander of the American Legion, has accepted an invitation to pay the post an official visit the latter part of May, the tentative date being Monday, May 12.

Commander Griffith, who with Gen. George C. Marshall, is one of Uniontown's two famous sons, was elected national commander last year at San Francisco and was given a homecoming reception at Uniontown, November 15, by Lafayette Post No. 51, American Legion, of which he is a member. At that time the local Legionnaires decided to make an effort to have Commander Griffith visit Frostburg as the guest of Farrady Post and the citizens of the community.

Officials To Attend

Maryland Department officials who will assist Farrady Post in entertaining the national commander will include State Commander John F. Boschen and State Adjutant J. Nelson Tribby, Baltimore; Chief Judge George Henderson and Past State Commander Daniel McMullen, Cumberland, and department vice commanders and commanders of the various Legion posts of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Present plans are to have all the events in connection with the visit of the national commander open to the public, excepting the banquet, which will be held at the new Beall High School. Because of lack of facilities, admission will be limited to 500 guests. Arrangements have already been made with the County School board for the use of the school gymnasium and cafeteria.

Parade Is Planned

Being honored for the first time in its history with a visit of a national commander of the Legion, Farrady Post will seek the aid of other posts of the county and prominent drum corps and bands of this section in staging an impressive street parade and also a drum corps contest on the new athletic field of Beall High School, which is expected to be ready for use by that time. The Ladies Auxiliary of Farrady Post is making plans to hold a dance at the Clary Club as the concluding event of the day's activities.

Commander Griffith, who will be accompanied here by his son, Paul H. Griffith, Jr., has been active in the American Legion from its inception and has served in practically every capacity in Lafayette Post of Uniontown, the Department of Pennsylvania and the national organization.

Gas Turbines Planned For Ships

GLASGOW, Scotland — (AP) — Britain's number one shipbuilder says the day may not be far off when gas turbines will propel trans-atlantic ships.

Lord Aberconway, chairman of the John Brown and Co., which built the Queen Elizabeth and other luxury liners, said at the launching of the 14,500-ton Cunard White-Star passenger and cargo ship "Media":

"Shipbuilders have almost reached the end of their development in connection with the Diesel and turbine engine. But the gas turbine is in the forefront of marine plans. We look forward to the time, maybe some years hence, when the gas turbine will drive a ship across the Atlantic."

Berlin's School Enrollment Booms

BERLIN. (AP)—Despite a decrease of one million in the city's population, Berlin has a higher school enrollment than it had in 1938 and is attempting to handle it with less than half its pre-war trained teaching staff.

The school enrollment in this city of three million now totals 450,617 children and youths. The 1938 enrollment was 431,836. The breakdown shows 305,452 in the public primary schools; 80,236 in vocational schools; 42,901 in high schools; 15,699 in intermediate schools and 6,329 in special schools.

The regular teaching staff has declined from approximately 14,000 to 6,162. One of the biggest factors in this decline has been denazification, which threw many teachers out of their jobs.

She Had A Wreck At Her Finger Tip

NEWBERRY, S. C. (AP) — Mrs. George N. Martin noticed her car was rolling down the inclined driveway at her home. She rushed to stop it, managed to get the door open, but it slammed on her finger. She ran alongside as the car gained momentum, jerked her hand free just as the car crashed between two trees. One of the trees had to be cut down before the car could be extricated.

Cash Sales Grow In Farm Transfers

NEW YORK. (AP)—Farm buying today is at an all-time peak, far exceeding the speculative farm buying boom of the early 1920's.

According to the Strout Realty Agency, farm sales organization, 85 percent of today's buyers are paying 50 percent to 100 percent cash for their properties. This indicates, V. A. Miehls, vice-president of the firm states, that the overwhelming majority of present day buyers wish and will be able to hold their farms.

Approximately 50 percent of all present day buyers are urban dwellers.

Money Goes Far

DECATUR, Ill. — (AP) — Guy Ashley's wallet, containing $26, went to Sioux Falls, S. D., by rail and came back by mail. He lost the wallet while helping to load a car of feed at a Decatur mill. It was found, and returned, by a feed dealer on the receiving end.

Paul H. Griffith, American Legion National Head, To Visit Frostburg

May 12 Scheduled As Tentative Date

Announcement was officially made Monday night at a regular meeting of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, that Paul H. Griffith, national commander of the American Legion, has accepted an invitation to pay the post an official visit the latter part of May, the tentative date being Monday, May 12.

Commander Griffith, who with Gen. George C. Marshall, is one of Uniontown's two famous sons, was elected national commander last year at San Francisco and was given a homecoming reception at Uniontown, November 15, by Lafayette Post No. 51, American Legion, of which he is a member. At that time the local Legionnaires decided to make an effort to have Commander Griffith visit Frostburg as the guest of Farrady Post and the citizens of the community.

Officials To Attend

Maryland Department officials who will assist Farrady Post in entertaining the national commander will include State Commander John F. Boschen and State Adjutant J. Nelson Tribby, Baltimore; Chief Judge George Henderson and Past State Commander Daniel McMullen, Cumberland, and department vice commanders and commanders of the various Legion posts of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Present plans are to have all the events in connection with the visit of the national commander open to the public, excepting the banquet, which will be held at the new Beall High School. Because of lack of facilities, admission will be limited to 500 guests. Arrangements have already been made with the County School board for the use of the school gymnasium and cafeteria.

Parade Is Planned

Being honored for the first time in its history with a visit of a national commander of the Legion, Farrady Post will seek the aid of other posts of the county and prominent drum corps and bands of this section in staging an impressive street parade and also a drum corps contest on the new athletic field of Beall High School, which is expected to be ready for use by that time. The Ladies Auxiliary of Farrady Post is making plans to hold a dance at the Clary Club as the concluding event of the day's activities.

Geis Posts $1,000 Bond In Embezzlement Case

Bond of $1,000 was posted before Deputy U. S. Clerk C. Edgar Keller yesterday morning by Charles E Geis, 45, Frostburg, former window clerk in the Cumberland branch office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, who was indicted by the federal grand jury in Baltimore on seven charges of embezzlement.

Geis, a former miner, was brought to Cumberland Wednesday by his attorney Edward J. Ryan, from Kingwood, W. Va., where he had been working recently for the Jenkins Coal Company, according to Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal.

Anthony Purcell, assistant U. S. district attorney, said Geis is charged with seven embezzlements of income tax payments, and that a total of $1,606.86 was misappropriated.

Irish Castle Begs For A Tenant

DUBLIN, Ireland — (AP) — An ancient Irish castle is going begging for an occupant.

Gormanston castle, for generations the home of the Gormanston family in County Meath, was offered at public auction. There were no bidders.

Lord Gormanston, the premier Irish viscount, was reported missing in action during the war. The Eire courts have presumed his death. His family says it no longer needs the castle.

It's the cautious, careful candidate, though, who tosses his hat into the ring but hangs onto his earmuffs.

Where Plotters Met To Kill Charles I

GREAT YARMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—A rebels' rendezvous has passed to Britain.

An Elizabethan house at South Quay here, in which the death of King Charles I was said to have been plotted, went to the National Trust on the death of its owner, Miss Mary Aldred, whose family inherited it a century ago.

The story is that in 1648, when it was owned by a Yarmouth bailiff, John Carter, Lord Fairfax and his followers held secret meetings in the house, at one of which they decided the King must die.

British Like Own Films Best

LONDON—(AP)—British films are now firmly established as the most popular pictures in Britain, according to the yearly survey, based on box office reactions of the Kinematograph Weekly.

James Mason remained the most popular British film star and his picture "The Wicked Lady" was the biggest box-office attraction of 1946. Second box office success was "The Bells of St. Mary's" with another British film, "Piccadilly Incident," third.

Mason is followed in popularity by Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Alan Ladd, Ray Milland, Bette Davis, Anna Neagle and Stewart Granger.

The sudden decline of American technicolor musicals was one of the surprises of the survey.

Rude Awakening For Beulah

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP)—The alarm clock jangled and Beulah Benson tumbled briskly from bed to shut it off. A bruised side and head cuts were her reward for alacrity because she forgot that she was sleeping in an upper bunk, six feet above the floor.

Fossil Trees Made Of Iron

LONDON (AP) — "Iron trees" have been discovered near Stalingrad by a Russian geological expedition.

The trees, according to a Moscow radio broadcast, gradually sank two hundred million years ago into Jurassic marshes where water carrying iron sediment flowed over them. After the trees soaked up the iron, new streams in later eras washed away prehistoric rock layers and bared the scientific phenomena.

Salt, iodine, bromine, magnesium chloride, and magnesium hydroxide are now being taken from the ocean in commercial quantities.

Geis Posts $1,000 Bond In Embezzlement Case

Bond of $1,000 was posted before Deputy U. S. Clerk C. Edgar Keller yesterday morning by Charles E. Geis, 45, Frostburg, former window clerk in the Cumberland branch office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, who was indicted by the federal grand jury in Baltimore on seven charges of embezzlement.

Geis, a former miner, was brought to Cumberland Wednesday by his attorney Edward J. Ryan, from Kingwood, W. Va., where he had been working recently for the Jenkins Coal Company, according to Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal.

Anthony Purcell, assistant U. S. district attorney, said Geis is charged with seven embezzlements of income tax payments, and that a total of $1,606.86 was misappropriated.

Irish Castle Begs For A Tenant

DUBLIN, Ireland — (AP) — An ancient Irish castle is going begging for an occupant.

Gormanston castle, for generations the home of the Gormanston family in County Meath, was offered at public auction. There were no bidders.

Lord Gormanston, the premier Irish viscount, was reported missing in action during the war. The Eire courts have presumed his death. His family says it no longer needs the castle.

It's the cautious, careful candidate, though, who tosses his hat into the ring but hangs onto his earmuffs.

The following marriage licenses were issued yesterday by the Clerk of Court at Allegany County Court House.

Kenneth Edward Meyers, Garrett, Pa., and Patty Odette Miller, Meyersdale.

Russell Charles Morgan, Mt. Savage and Louise Lee Lapp, Corriganville.

Richard Francis Boyle, 212 Polk street and Margaret Elizabeth Geats, 177 North Mechanic street.

Robert Paul Ott, Piedmont, W. Va., and Jean Elaine Day, Keyser, W. Va.

Real Bad Check Artist

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 9 (AP) — James Burton Smith was charged with issuing a forged check from his cell in the state prison, where he is serving seven to 14 years for writing bogus checks.

Where Plotters Met To Kill Charles I

GREAT YARMOUTH, Eng. (AP)— A rebels' rendezvous has passed to Britain.

An Elizabethan house at South Quay here, in which the death of King Charles I was said to have been plotted, went to the National Trust on the death of its owner, Miss Mary Aldred, whose family inherited it a century ago.

The story is that in 1648, when it was owned by a Yarmouth bailiff, John Carter, Lord Fairfax and his followers held secret meetings in the house, at one of which they decided the King must die.

Alaska, with an area only twice that of Texas, has 15,132 miles of shore line, while the United States has only 12,877.

British Like Own Films Best

LONDON—(AP)—British films are now firmly established as the most popular pictures in Britain, according to the yearly survey, based on box office reactions of the Kinematograph Weekly.

James Mason remained the most popular British film star and his picture "The Wicked Lady" was the biggest box-office attraction of 1946. Second box office success was "The Bells of St. Mary's" with another British film, "Piccadilly Incident," third.

Mason is followed in popularity by Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Alan Ladd, Ray Milland, Bette Davis, Anna Neagle and Stewart Granger.

The sudden decline of American technicolor musicals was one of the surprises of the survey.

Rude Awakening For Beulah

GILLETTE, Wyo. (AP)—The alarm clock jangled and Beulah Benson tumbled brisky from bed to shut it off. A bruised side and head cuts were her reward for alacrity because she forgot that she was sleeping in an upper bunk, six feet above the floor.

Fossil Trees Made Of Iron

LONDON (AP) — "Iron trees" have been discovered near Stalingrad by a Russian geological expedition.

The trees, according to a Moscow radio broadcast, gradually sank two hundred million years ago into Jurassic marshes where water carrying iron sediment flowed over them. After the trees soaked up the iron, new streams in later eras washed away prehistoric rock layers and bared the scientific phenomena.

Salt, iodine, bromine, magnesium chloride, and magnesium hydroxide are now being taken from the ocean in commercial quantities.

Assorted Stock Market Leaders Edge Upward; Dealings Are Slow

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Assorted stock market favorites edged upward today although many leaders failed to make the grade and dealings were the slowest of the past six months.

The ticker tape went to sleep after a fairly active start. Steel, individual industrials and utilities managed to get ahead fractions to a point or so without quickening the pace. Extreme gains were trimmed in the majority of cases at the close and the minus column was well filled. Transfers to 710,000 shares compared with 790,000 Wednesday and were a low for a full session since August 20 last.

Among a handful of stocks to add a point or so were Bethlehem, up 1⅝ at 93¾; Youngstown Sheet 1¼ at 67¾, American Can 1¼ at 95, Philip Morris 1¼ at 41⅝ and Goodyear one at 56¾.

Advancers included United States Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Woolworth, American Telephone, Engineers Public Service, Kennecott, International Nickel, General Electric, United States Gypsum, Santa Fe, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Northern Pacific and Great Northern.

H. L. Green was off two at 73½ on 200 shares. Lesser recessions were posted for Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, North American, Columbia Gas (despite a lifted disbursement), Schenley, Hiram Walker, Warner Bros., Paramount Pictures, R-K-O, Johns-Manville, Texas Company, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio.

In the Curb, A. S. Beck was up 1½ at 22½ on 100 shares following a lifted quarterly. Forward movers were Northern States Power "A", Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service and United Light. Volume here was 280,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

The bond market generally moved into higher price levels today as demand for selected rails spread to other sections of the list.

Total transactions of $4,750,000 compared with $4,250,000 on Wednesday.

United States Governments were up one to 2/32 in the over-the-counter market. The Victory Loans 2½s of December '67-'72 were up 1/32 at 102 28/32 bid.

Assorted Stock Market Leaders Edge Upward; Dealings Are Slow

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Assorted stock market favorites edged upward today although many leaders failed to make the grade and dealings were the slowest of the past six months.

The ticker tape went to sleep after a fairly active start. Steel, individual industrials and utilities managed to get ahead fractions to a point or so without quickening the pace. Extreme gains were trimmed in the majority of cases at the close and the minus column was well filled. Transfers to 710,000 shares compared with 790,000 Wednesday and were a low for a full session since August 20 last.

Among a handful of stocks to add a point or so were Bethlehem, up 1⅞ at 93¾; Youngstown Sheet 1¼ at 67¾, American Can 1¼ at 95, Philip Morris 1¼ at 41⅝ and Goodyear one at 56¾.

Advancers included United States Steel, General Motors, Goodrich, Woolworth, American Telephone, Engineers Public Service, Kennecott, International Nickel, General Electric, United States Gypsum, Santa Fe, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Northern Pacific and Great Northern.

H. L. Green was off two at 73½ on 200 shares. Lesser recessions were posted for Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, North American, Columbia Gas (despite a lifted disbursement), Schenley, Hiram Walker, Warner Bros., Paramount Pictures, R-K-O, Johns-Manville, Texas Company, Pennsylvania Railroad, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio.

In the Curb, A. S. Beck was up 1½ at 22½ on 100 shares following a lifted quarterly. Forward movers were Northern States Power "A", Electric Bond and Share, Cities Service and United Light. Volume here was 280,000 shares versus 230,000 yesterday.

The bond market generally moved into higher price levels today as demand for selected rails spread to other sections of the list.

Total transactions of $4,750,000 compared with $4,250,000 on Wednesday.

United States Governments were up one to 2/32 in the over-the-counter market. The Victory Loans 2½s of December '67-72 were up 1/32 at 102 28/32 bid.

Keyser-McCoole Bridge Work To Start In Summer

Bids To Be Asked Sometime In April

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 9 — The proposed new fire station for Keyser moved a step nearer realization Wednesday night when the city council and the firemen's building committee met in conference with B. D. Johnson of the Federal Public Roads Commission and a representative of the West Virginia State Road Commission. The Federal and State Road Commissions are primarily interested in the erection of the proposed inter-state bridge between Keyser and McCoole. The local interest, however, that of the city government, the volunteer firemen of the city and the general public, not only considers the bridge but the fire station as well.

The interest in the fire station is enhanced in connection with the building of the bridge because the Keyser terminal of the bridge will descend to the street level on Mineral street on a few feet south of a city lot where the fire station is to be erected at the corner of Center and Mineral streets.

Changes Are Discussed

The purpose of the Wednesday night conference was to consider changes in the plans of the fire station building in relation to the erection of the bridge. The original plan of the bridge was to use most of Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets in bringing the overhead bridge construction down to the street level close the end of Center street. Plans were tentatively agreed upon to widen Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets so as to provide a two lane traffic space.

Another proposed change will be that of facing the fire station on Center street instead of on Mineral as was originally intended. To do this it will be necessary to widen Center street to a width of 35 feet to accommodate the fire fighting equipment that will have to use Center street for ingress and egress to the station. To make this change it may become necessary to institute condemnation proceedings to secure the required ground between Mineral and Davis streets. And likewise such proceeding may be necessary to get the required land along Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets.

The change in making the fire station to face Center street instead of Mineral will make possible a more imposing structure in that the entrances will be deeply recessed and corners well rounded.

The bridge will cross the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near the passenger depot, overhead, and will continue the overhead structure of steel and concrete, crossing the Potomac river and the Western Maryland tracks, emerging at a grade level on U. S. 220, in McCoole. The bridge will accommodate two traffic lanes skirted on the out-side with a four-foot walk ways for pedestrians. There will be one pedestrian approach to the bridge in the section north of the Baltimore and Ohio tracks somewhere near Maple avenue.

May Close Crossings

It has been recommended to the Baltimore and Ohio Company that the crossings at East and West streets be closed and suggested that if passage from North Water street to Argyle street can be provided that the Water street crossing be closed. If these three crossings are eliminated all local traffic would be routed over the Main street crossing, and since a watchman is stationed at that crossing, the hazard of crossing accidents will be greatly reduced.

Changes in the plan of the bridge and the fire station will be made and revised plans submitted within three or four weeks. The West Virginia State Road Commission has indicated the early part of April as the time for contracting for the bridge.

In discussing the fire station Mayor John C. Freeland stated today that since the removal of restrictions on building materials, it is likely that the building will be contracted for in the near future.

Mayor Praises Train

In discussing his trip to Grafton on the "Cincinnatian," yesterday, Mayor Freeland stated "The train is the last thing in railway passenger transportation", and went on to say that the service on the train is all that any one might ask. Other Keyser citizens who made the trip were Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State School; Dr. Thomas Bess, Potomac Valley Hospital, and John W. Barger, editor of the Mineral Daily News-Tribune. They were equally pleased with their experience in having the privilege of traveling over the West Virginia mountains on so magnificent a piece of passenger equipment.

Personals

Twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hott in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Rev. Lionel Cromwell, pastor Janes Methodist church, is a patient in the local hospital.

Others admitted to the hospital are Mrs. Helen Alt and Mrs. Fannie Nutter, Keyser; Mrs. Dennis Bryant, Piedmont; Mrs. Norma Funderburg, Burlington; Miss Delores Wiltison, Westernport, and John Willia, Elk Garden.

Mrs. Walter Dennicker, Broadway street, has announmed the marriage of her daughter, Miss Rita Jean Holler, to George F. Darr, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Darr, of Berlin. The double-ring ceremony was performed in the First Mechodist Church, Meyersdale, by the pastor, Rev. Floyd Gotjen, December 20.

Keyser-McCoole Bridge Work To Start In Summer

Bids To Be Asked Sometime In April

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 9 — The proposed new fire station for Keyser moved a step nearer realization Wednesday night when the city council and the firemen's building committee met in conference with B. D. Johnson of the Federal Public Roads Commission and a representative of the West Virginia State Road Commission. The Federal and State Road Commissions are primarily interested in the erection of the proposed inter-state bridge between Keyser and McCoole. The local interest, however, that of the city government, the volunteer firemen of the city and the general public, not only considers the bridge but the fire station as well.

The interest in the fire station is enhanced in connection with the building of the bridge because the Keyser terminal of the bridge will descend to the street level on Mineral street on a few feet south of a city lot where the fire station is to be erected at the corner of Center and Mineral streets.

Changes Are Discussed

The purpose of the Wednesday night conference was to consider changes in the plans of the fire station building in relation to the erection of the bridge. The original plan of the bridge was to use most of Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets in bringing the overhead bridge construction down to the street level close the end of Center street. Plans were tentatively agreed upon to widen Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets so as to provide a two lane traffic space.

Another proposed change will be that of facing the fire station on Center street instead of on Mineral as was originally intended. To do this it will be necessary to widen Center street to a width of 35 feet to accommodate the fire fighting equipment that will have to use Center street for ingress and egress to the station. To make this change it may become necessary to institute condemnation proceedings to secure the required ground between Mineral and Davis streets. And likewise such proceeding may be necessary to get the required land along Mineral street between Center and Armstrong streets.

The change in making the fire station to face Center street instead of Mineral will make possible a more imposing structure in that the entrances will be deeply recessed and corners well rounded.

The bridge will cross the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near the passenger depot, overhead, and will continue the overhead structure of steel and concrete, crossing the Potomac river and the Western Maryland tracks, emerging at a grade level on U. S. 220, in McCoole. The bridge will accommodate two traffic lanes skirted on the out-side with a four-foot walk ways for pedestrians. There will be one pedestrian approach to the bridge in the section north of the Baltimore and Ohio tracks somewhere near Maple avenue.

May Close Crossings

It has been recommended to the Baltimore and Ohio Company that the crossings at East and West streets be closed and suggested that if passage from North Water street to Argyle street can be provided that the Water street crossing be closed. If these three crossings are eliminated all local traffic would be routed over the Main street crossing, and since a watchman is stationed at that crossing, the hazard of crossing accidents will be greatly reduced.

Changes in the plan of the bridge and the fire station will be made and revised plans submitted within three or four weeks. The West Virginia State Road Commission has indicated the early part of April as the time for contracting for the bridge.

In discussing the fire station Mayor John C. Freeland stated today that since the removal of restrictions on building materials, it is likely that the building will be contracted for in the near future.

Mayor Praises Train

In discussing his trip to Grafton on the "Cincinnatian," yesterday, Mayor Freeland stated "The train is the last thing in railway passenger transportation", and went on to say that the service on the train is all that any one might ask. Other Keyser citizens who made the trip were Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of Potomac State School; Dr. Thomas Bess, Potomac Valley Hospital, and John W. Barger, editor of the Mineral Daily News-Tribune. They were equally pleased with their experience in having the privilege of traveling over the West Virginia mountains on so magnificent a piece of passenger equipment.

Personals

Twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hott in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Rev. Lionel Cromwell, pastor Janes Methodist church, is a patient in the local hospital.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Fierce Orinoco Indians Photographed

NEW YORK. (AP)—Wartime explorations for quinine in South American jungles permitted Felix DeGiovani, an American engineer, to make friends with and photograph the little-known Guahibos Indians who have been hostile to white men since the 16th Century. His photographs have been placed on display at the American Museum of Natural History.

The tribesmen of the Orinoco jungles have frequently used poisoned arrows to discourage explorers, missionaries and others who have wandered into their territory.

Fierce Orinoco Indians Photographed

NEW YORK. (AP)—Wartime explorations for quinine in South American jungles permitted Felix DeGiovani, an American engineer, to make friends with and photograph the little-known Guahibos Indians who have been hostile to white men since the 16th Century. His photographs have been placed on display at the American Museum of Natural History.

The tribesmen of the Orinoco jungles have frequently used poisoned arrows to discourage explorers, missionaries and others who have wandered into their territory.

"Life With Father" Road Production Scores Hit Here

Once again "Father," "Vinnie" and their four red-haired sons lived through a hectic two months in the lives of the Day family for an appreciative audience of over 800 persons at Fort Hill Auditorium last night.

Brandon Peters and Alice Thomson (Mrs. Peters), the third husband-and-wife team to portray Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Day in the delightful comedy hit, "Life With Father," headed a company of Broadway actors and actresses who gave Cumberlanders a chance to see the play which has enjoyed phenomenal success in New York and on the road for the past seven years.

"Father's" harrassed attempts to teach his bewildered wife the fundamentals of mathematics so that she can keep the household accounts straight; "John's" first venture into the business world by selling a patent medicine which kills a neighbor's dog and almost kills his mother; and "Vinnie's" patient and eventually successful battle to have Mr. Day baptized are familiar to thousands of persons who have taken the Day family to their hearts.

Donald, Richard and David Frank were especially well cast as the three younger Day brothers. The boys, brothers in real life, showed the noise and stage presence of veteran actors.

Proceeds from the ticket sale will be used by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the local production, for carrying on the work of its Sunshine Camp, conducted annually for under privileged children.

W. Earle Cobey, president of the Kiwanis club, appearing on the stage during the second intermission, thanked the Board of Education, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, for their co-operation in making the road company's appearance here a success.

James W. Bishop headed the Kiwanis committee which arranged for the Cumberland presentation of the comedy.

The Greek section will be headed by Michael S. Valandas, president; George Giatras, vice president; Pete Dandrinos, secretary; Anthony D. Anthonakos, treasurer, and Peter Koumanis, publicity chairman.

Nick Spanos, Richard Diamond and John C. Liakos were named directors for the drive.

The campaign for funds among the Greek people here will open January 20 and general solicitation will begin February 15.

At the organization meeting, Peter J. Karakitsos, GRWA, field representative, pointed out the association has provided over $25,000,000,000 worth of relief supplies for the stricken people of Greece, since 1940.

Hyndman H.S. Band Seeks Financial Aid In Cumberland

The Hyndman, Pa., High School Band, observing its fifth anniversary, is making an appeal for funds to buy new uniforms and equipment, and a number of local individuals and organizations have received letters from the student organization.

In a letter from Miss Anna Lehman, president of the band, it is explained that the musical unit has traveled over 1,500 miles at a cost of about $1 a mile since last May until September, and has appeared in many public, civic and patriotic affairs. No charge has been made for any of these appearances and the band's only source of revenue has been from prizes in competition and the annual anniversary drive for funds.

The band has appeared on numerous occasions in this city and has always evoked praise and favorable comment for its excellent music, marching and general appearance and discipline.

The band uniforms were purchased originally by Hyndman citizens, and additions to the band have been made from time to time as funds have been available.

Persons interested in contributing to the band's anniversary fund may mail contributions to the Hyndman High School Band Hyndman, Pa., the letter indicates.

Lloyd G. Keller is school principal and J. Elwood Miller directs the band.

Income Tax Aid Offered Farmers

Farmers in this area may receive help in filing their income tax reports in the Allegany County agent's office, Ralph F. McHenry, county agent, said.

Letters informing the agriculture workers of the information necessary in preparing returns along with a blank report have been mailed to many of the interested persons, McHenry said, and others engaged in agriculture work will be given the same assistance if they call at the office.

Most of the work will involve listing of farm income and expenses which will determine the amount of tax the individual may have to pay. The assistance will be given until March 15, McHenry said.

New Keys Jingle

"This soaping of the court house locks is a good illustration of the type of meanness some people will stoop to vent their spite," Wilkinson declared.

Wilkinson bluntly said that certain practices have been in existence in the conduct of county affairs that he disapproves of and that in his opinion it is high time the county was conducted more like a business and less like a loosely-jointed affair lacking cohesion.

Citing an example of what he meant, Wilkinson said the fact that he and Lemmert, in investigating county property since the election, found a great quantity of supplies including valuable lead, shovels, paint and other equipment stored away in the basement of the court house. Supplies of this nature which are so difficult to obtain should have been put to use or sold, the commissioner said and not allowed to be idle in a time of scarcity. The commissioner also said that he failed to see why additional shovels should have been ordered, for example, when shovels were idle in the basement of the old Union street school building.

"Life With Father" Road Production Scores Hit Here

Once again "Father," "Vinnie" and their four red-haired sons lived through a hectic two months in the lives of the Day family for an appreciative audience of over 800 persons at Fort Hill Auditorium last night.

Brandon Peters and Alice Thomson (Mrs. Peters), the third husband-and-wife team to portray Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Day in the delightful comedy hit, "Life With Father," headed a company of Broadway actors and actresses who gave Cumberlanders a chance to see the play which has enjoyed phenomenal success in New York and on the road for the past seven years.

"Father's" harrassed attempts to teach his bewildered wife the fundamentals of mathematics so that she can keep the household accounts straight; "John's" first venture into the business world by selling a patent medicine which kills a neighbor's dog and almost kills his mother; and "Vinnie's" patient and eventually successful battle to have Mr. Day baptized are familiar to thousands of persons who have taken the Day family to their hearts.

Donald, Richard and David Frank were especially well cast as the three younger Day brothers. The boys, brothers in real life, showed the noise and stage presence of veteran actors.

Proceeds from the ticket sale will be used by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the local production, for carrying on the work of its Sunshine Camp, conducted annually for under privileged children.

W. Earle Cobey, president of the Kiwanis club, appearing on the stage during the second intermission, thanked the Board of Education, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, and Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, for their co-operation in making the road company's appearance here a success.

James W. Bishop headed the Kiwanis committee which arranged for the Cumberland presentation of the comedy.

Greek War Relief Drive Planned Here

Plans for Cumberland's participation in the 1947 Greek War Relief drive, which will open here January 20, were formulated yesterday at a meeting in Diamond's restaurant.

Harold R. Fletcher, president of the People's Bank, will be general chairman for the campaign and Joseph J. Ryland will be treasurer.

The Greek section will be headed by Michael S. Valandas, president; George Giatras, vice president; Pete Dandrinos, secretary; Anthony D. Anthonakos, treasurer, and Peter Koumanis, publicity chairman.

Nick Spanos, Richard Diamond and John C. Liakos were named directors for the drive.

The campaign for funds among the Greek people here will open January 20 and general solicitation will begin February 15.

At the organization meeting, Peter J. Karakitsos, GRWA, field representative, pointed out the association has provided over $25,000,000,000 worth of relief supplies for the stricken people of Greece, since 1940.

Hyndman H.S. Band Seeks Financial Aid In Cumberland

The Hyndman, Pa., High School Band, observing its fifth anniversary, is making an appeal for funds to buy new uniforms and equipment, and a number of local individuals and organizations have received letters from the student organization.

In a letter from Miss Anna Lehman, president of the band, it is explained that the musical unit has traveled over 1,500 miles at a cost of about $1 a mile since last May until September, and has appeared in many public, civic and patriotic affairs. No charge has been made for any of these appearances and the band's only source of revenue has been from prizes in competition and the annual anniversary drive for funds.

The band has appeared on numerous occasions in this city and has always evoked praise and favorable comment for its excellent music, marching and general appearance and discipline.

The band uniforms were purchased originally by Hyndman citizens, and additions to the band have been made from time to time as funds have been available.

Persons interested in contributing to the band's anniversary fund may mail contributions to the Hyndman High School Band Hyndman, Pa., the letter indicates.

Lloyd G. Keller is school principal and J. Elwood Miller directs the band.

Income Tax Aid Offered Farmers

Farmers in this area may receive help in filing their income tax reports in the Allegany County agent's office, Ralph F. McHenry, county agent, said.

Letters informing the agriculture workers of the information necessary in preparing returns along with a blank report have been mailed to many of the interested persons, McHenry said, and others engaged in agriculture work will be given the same assistance if they call at the office.

Most of the work will involve listing of farm income and expenses which will determine the amount of tax the individual may have to pay. The assistance will be given until March 15, McHenry said.

"This soaping of the court house locks is a good illustration of the type of meanness some people will stoop to vent their spite," Wilkinson declared.

Wilkinson bluntly said that certain practices have been in existence in the conduct of county affairs that he disapproves of and that in his opinion it is high time the county was conducted more like a business and less like a loosely-jointed affair lacking cohesion.

Citing an example of what he meant, Wilkinson said the fact that he and Lemmert, in investigating county property since the election, found a great quantity of supplies including valuable lead, shovels, paint and other equipment stored away in the basement of the court house. Supplies of this nature which are so difficult to obtain should have been put to use or sold, the commissioner said and not allowed to be idle in a time of scarcity. The commissioner also said that he failed to see why additional shovels should have been ordered, for example, when shovels were idle in the basement of the old Union street school building.

New Deluxe Train Makes Press Run On The B. And O.

Cumberland Men In Charge On The Trip

When "The Cincinnatian", the B. and O.'s colorful new streamlined passenger train, pulled out of Keyser, W. Va., Wednesday on the second lap of its invitation run from Washington, D. C., to Grafton, W. Va., railroad men from Cumberland were in charge of the train.

W. G. Crogan, LaVale, was the engineer; Lee Graham, 707 Elm street, conductor; J. H. Rafter, Westernport, was fireman and J. S. Horner, Keyser, was flagman. The crew that brought the train to Keyser was composed of Washington, Baltimore and Brunswick railroad men. These men will function as the permanent crew.

Principal feature of the silver, blue and gray de luxe train of five light weight coaches and Pacific-type steam locomotive is the lavish use of color, each coach having a different decorative motif. Bright and pastel colors are used in various combinations. The unusually wide windows have easily operated venetian blinds; there is a loudspeaker system in each car; telephone communication between cars and the locomotive; reclining adjustable chairs; fluorescent lighting; a lunch-bar-lounge car in front, and a dining car-lounge in the rear. This last car is nearly all glass, has a rounded bay window effect at the back and is colorfully decorated.

Meet At Grafton

Grafton was the meeting point of the two sections of the Cincinnatian Wednesday. One section, starting at Cincinnati, came that far and the west bound section met it there.

Cumberland will have direct connection with the new train. The Emery Cocah Line will leave the North George Street terminal here daily at 10:50 a. m., to carry Cincinnatian westbound passengers to the station at Keyser from which the train is scheduled to leave at 12:03 noon. There will be connection also for the eastbound Cincinnatian which leaves Keyser at 5:15 p. m. There is no extra charge beyond regular coach fare for seats on the new train, and all seats are reserved. Tickets for the Cincinnatian may be purchased at the Queen City Station here. First regular service begins January 19.

The object of the new de luxe train is to provide the fastest passenger service between Baltimore and Washington and Cincinnati. To do this, the train is routed over the cut-off between Martinsburg and Keyser eliminating Cumberland. Local people, however, will have direct access to the train at Keyser through the Emery Coach connection

Cumberland Guests

From Cumberland on the historic trip Wednesday were Mayor Thomas S. Post, Harold W. Smith, Tasker G. Lowndes, Charles A. Piper, Harry Pitzer, Thomas E. Gilchrist, W. E. Rinard, William C. Somerville, William J. Armbruster, Dr. E. E. Loar, Dr. W. Fred Williams, W. L. Emery and J. William Hunt, along with Harry F. Wyatt, Cumberland division superintendent; R. P. Bartlett, E. J. Clopton and M. W. Grove, local Baltimore and Ohio officials. Mayor W. H. Fredlock, Jr., of Piedmont, and Mayor John S. Freeland, Keyser, were also aboard. Other guests from this area were John Barger, Dr. E. E. Church and Dr. Thomas Bess, Keyser; and Harry L. Biggs, Westernport. Others were passengers from Martinsburg, Washington, Silver Spring, Rockville and Baltimore.

Jack Tribby, adjutant of the Maryland Department, American Legion, was one of the Baltimore guests, best known in Cumberland.

Robert M. Van Sant, director of public relations for the Baltimore and Ohio, and his assistant, William F. Becker, were in charge of the invitation program. Lunch and dinner were served.

Scores of people were at all towns along the B. & O. to see the beautiful new train, but no stops were made between Keyser and Grafton. The seventeen mile grade was made without a helper engine.

Macau, Portuguese settlement on the South China sea coast, was a popular pleasure resort before World War II.

LANE TAKES OATH—William Preston Lane, Jr. (right) with one hand raised and another on the Bible, is shown taking his oath as Maryland's 56th governor from Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Maryland Court of Appeals in colorful ceremonies at the State House in Annapolis Wednesday. The elaborate ceremonies contrasted with the perfunctory oath-taking by which Lane first became governor five days earlier to fill out the term of Herbert R. O'Conor, who resigned in order to take his seat in the United States Senate. (Associated Press photograph).

New Deluxe Train Makes Press Run On The B. And O.

Cumberland Men In Charge On The Trip

When "The Cincinnatian", the B. and O.'s colorful new streamlined passenger train, pulled out of Keyser, W. Va., Wednesday on the second lap of its invitation run from Washington, D. C., to Grafton, W. Va., railroad men from Cumberland were in charge of the train.

W. G. Crogan, LaVale, was the engineer; Lee Graham, 707 Elm street, conductor; J. H. Rafter, Westernport, was fireman and J. S. Horner, Keyser, was flagman. The crew that brought the train to Keyser was composed of Washington, Baltimore and Brunswick railroad men. These men will function as the permanent crew.

Principal feature of the silver, blue and gray de luxe train of five light weight coaches and Pacific-type steam locomotive is the lavish use of color, each coach having a different decorative motif. Bright and pastel colors are used in various combinations. The unusually wide windows have easily operated venetian blinds; there is a loudspeaker system in each car; telephone communication between cars and the locomotive; reclining adjustable chairs; fluorescent lighting; a lunch-bar-lounge car in front, and a dining car-lounge in the rear. This last car is nearly all glass, has a rounded bay window effect at the back and is colorfully decorated.

Meet At Grafton

Grafton was the meeting point of the two sections of the Cincinnatian Wednesday. One section, starting at Cincinnati, came that far and the west bound section met it there.

Cumberland will have direct connection with the new train. The Emery Cocah Line will leave the North George Street terminal here daily at 10:50 a. m., to carry Cincinnatian westbound passengers to the station at Keyser from which the train is scheduled to leave at 12:03 noon. There will be connection also for the eastbound Cincinnatian which leaves Keyser at 5:15 p. m. There is no extra charge beyond regular coach fare for seats on the new train, and all seats are reserved. Tickets for the Cincinnatian may be purchased at the Queen City Station here. First regular service begins January 19.

The object of the new de luxe train is to provide the fastest passenger service between Baltimore and Washington and Cincinnati. To do this, the train is routed over the cut-off between Martinsburg and Keyser eliminating Cumberland. Local people, however, will have direct access to the train at Keyser through the Emery Coach connection

From Cumberland on the historic trip Wednesday were Mayor Thomas S. Post, Harold W. Smith, Tasker G. Lowndes, Charles A. Piper, Harry Pitzer, Thomas E. Gilchrist, W. E. Rinard, William C. Somerville, William J. Armbruster, Dr. E. E. Loar, Dr. W. Fred Williams, W. L. Emery and J. William Hunt, along with Harry F. Wyatt, Cumberland division superintendent; R. P. Bartlett, E. J. Clopton and M. W. Grove, local Baltimore and Ohio officials. Mayor W. H. Fredlock, Jr., of Piedmont, and Mayor John S. Freeland, Keyser, were also aboard. Other guests from this area were John Barger, Dr. E. E. Church and Dr. Thomas Bess, Keyser; and Harry L. Biggs, Westernport. Others were passengers from Martinsburg, Washington, Silver Spring, Rockville and Baltimore.

Jack Tribby, adjutant of the Maryland Department, American Legion, was one of the Baltimore guests, best known in Cumberland.

Robert M. Van Sant, director of public relations for the Baltimore and Ohio, and his assistant, William F. Becker, were in charge of the invitation program. Lunch and dinner were served.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8—Shades of Richard Mansfield and Edwin Booth and all the other great Shakespearean artists! Abbott and Costello are going to do "Hamlet" in the movies.

Before you get a headache and cry into your coffee, let me tell you, of course, it will be a burlesque, and the idea behind it is really funny.

It's the story of two old Shakespearean actors who are so old they have to give up acting in the troupe which is run down at the heels, but their sons, Abbott and Costello, take over and have to do it their way. Need I tell you—they go over with a bang.

Bill Goetz has accepted the idea which is being written now and it will follow the comedy the boys are to make in England in June.

Hurrah and a couple of college cheers! Katina Paxinou gets the highly important role of Rosalind Russell's mother in "Mourning Becomes Electra," originated on the stage by Nazimova.

I have never talked to anyone as discouraged as Katina was when she left for England to accept J. Arthur Rank's offer to star in "Uncle Silas."

It wasn't that she didn't want to make the picture in London, but she was deeply hurt that following the Oscar awarded her for "Whom The Bell Tolls" she just couldn't get to first base on any good role. But now this swell part, and I'm so glad.

Never thought I'd live to print the news that Pete Smith is giving up his wonderful comedy and sports "shorts" to give movie messages to the world! But that's what I hear tell his plans are.

I've known Pete since the good old days when he was top publicity man for M-G-M and we used to go round and round when he thought I wasn't giving his stories enough of a splurge. But it was all in a days work and underneath it all I've always had the greatest respect and admiration for Pete.

His first serious effort is "Playing By Ear," showing how blind veterans have adapted themselves to all kinds of sports including such accuracy games as tennis, golf and badminton.

Just to give you a rough idea of what "Duel In The Sun" will do at the box office, Niven Busch, its author, has closed a deal with popular libraries to bring out 500,000 copies of his book at 25 cents a throw. Since David Selznick's picture has been shown, the run on the book in Los Angeles has been terrific.

No matter what you feel about "Duel In The Sun" as compared with the artistry of other Selznick pictures, I think that David will make the $7,000,000 invested plus many more millions.

I have lived in Hollywood a long time and I have never heard anything discussed as much as Jennifer Jones' torrid love scenes with Gregory Peck.

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon had much to say to Deborah Kerr's husband, Anthony Bartley, who was in the battle of Britain.

"Look at him," said Bebe, "he has the face of a baby, and yet he was one of Britain's top heroes."

Deborah told me that she met him at the close of the war, and she said, "I'm glad I didn't meet him sooner. I would have worried myself to death. He's such a daring flyer and flies now."

She was testing with children the next day, she told me, for "The Hucksters." They are trying to get two that look like her.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Keenan Wynn and Nan Bennett at the Danny Thomas opening. First date he has had since he and Evie parted. . .Bill Eythe is back in town and he didn't deny that he will wed Buff Cobb Chapman. His one time girl friend, Margaret Whiting, is completely happy with George Gruskin, who is marrying her this spring. . .The Tex Ritters are expecting their baby any minute now. . . .Ralph Wheelwright has been in Washington since New Year's eve, where he went to take "The Beginning or The End," the M-G-M atom bomb picture, for official approval. . . .The award of Red Book magazine to "The Yearling" was the occasion for gala festivities at the Bel Air hotel, Thornton Delahanty was a gracious host and it was an extremely nice party. . . Nadia Gardiner tried to make all of us jealous by showing her new Christmas jewelry, antique jade necklace with ring and earrings, worn on a red dress it was stunning. . Jane Wyman, of whom I am so proud I can't see, looked so lovely and has become such a gracious charming woman. She wore a backless black beaded dress. Clarence Brown said when she did Ma Baxter on the radio and the audience got a look at that bare back, he had to laugh. She looked nothing like poor Ma Baxter, who didn't have enough to eat. . . .Fred Sammis and his attractive Ruth, who are giving another of these award parties the 13th of January at the Beverly Hills hotel, were busy looking over this party and also having fun. . . .Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard are back from Sun Valley. The Darryl Zanucks had to delay their return because both Darrlyn and Susan, their daughters, came down with intestinal flu.

That's all today.

These Are Men Who Beat Horses

LONDON, (AP)—It was like adding an extra hour to a bygone century when 50 old horse cab drivers met in a room over a cafe in the center of London this week to dissolve their self-aid group, the Cab Drivers Benevolent Association.

For a brief time they forgot the rumble of motor traffic which churned through the streets of present day London and remembered the more leisurely days of horse carriages and gin for two and a half pennies (five cents) a portion.

The oldest present was Arthur Bennett, who at 91 remembers driving the Kaiser on a visit to England and members of the English Royal family.

And 79-year-old George John Stevens, nicknamed "Port Wine and Biscuits," spoke right out with the declaration that the taxi cab may please some but "nothing can beat horses."

About 58 per cent of farm sales in the United States during 1945 were for cash.

Kids Fail To Cheer Free Cod Liver Oil

LONDON — (AP) — Britain provides vitamins, orange juice and codliver oil for youngsters at practically no cost, but at least one medical officer realizes the kids don't know what's good for them.

Commenting on the decreased demand for these items, Dr. Astley Weston declared:

"People simply do not want to take these things. You can go outside any clinic and see a number of smashed bottles on the ground. A mother hands a bottle to her baby who throws it out of the pram."

Servicemen and women subscribed to more than $158,000,000,000 worth of national service life insurance during World War II.

U. S. Gives De Gasperi Check For $50,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder handed a check for $50,000,000 to Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi and expressed hope it will help Italy rebuild her war-shattered economy.

The money was in payment for services, supplies and facilities bought by American armed forces in Italy with lira advanced by the Italian government.

It brought to $255,000,000 the amount turned over to Italy on that account.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 8—Shades of Richard Mansfield and Edwin Booth and all the other great Shakespearean artists! Abbott and Costello are going to do "Hamlet" in the movies.

Before you get a headache and cry into your coffee, let me tell you, of course, it will be a burlesque, and the idea behind it is really funny.

It's the story of two old Shakespearean actors who are so old they have to give up acting in the troupe which [illegible] run down at the [illegible] heels, but their sons, Abbott and Costello, take over and have to do it their way. Need I tell you—they go over with a bang.

Bill Goetz has accepted the idea which is being written now and it will follow the comedy the boys are to make in England in June.

Hurrah and a couple of college cheers! Katina Paxinou gets the highly important role of Rosalind Russell's mother in "Mourning Becomes Electra," originated on the stage by Nazimova.

I have never talked to anyone as discouraged as Katina was when she left for England to accept J. Arthur Rank's offer to star in "Uncle Silas."

It wasn't that she didn't want to make the picture in London, but she was deeply hurt that following the Oscar awarded her for "Whom The Bell Tolls" she just couldn't get to first base on any good role. But now this swell part, and I'm so glad.

Never thought I'd live to print the news that Pete Smith is giving up his wonderful comedy and sports "shorts" to give movie messages to the world! But that's what I hear tell his plans are.

I've known Pete since the good old days when he was top publicity man for M-G-M and we used to go round and round when he thought I wasn't giving his stories enough of a splurge. But it was all in a days work and underneath it all I've always had the greatest respect and admiration for Pete.

His first serious effort is "Playing By Ear," showing how blind veterans have adapted themselves to all kinds of sports including such accuracy games as tennis, golf and badminton.

Just to give you a rough idea of what "Duel In The Sun" will do at the box office, Niven Busch, its author, has closed a deal with popular libraries to bring out 500,000 copies of his book at 25 cents a throw. Since David Selznick's picture has been shown, the run on the book in Los Angeles has been terrific.

No matter what you feel about "Duel In The Sun" as compared with the artistry of other Selznick pictures, I think that David will make the $7,000,000 invested plus many more millions.

I have lived in Hollywood a long time and I have never heard anything discussed as much as Jennifer Jones' torrid love scenes with Gregory Peck.

Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon had much to say to Deborah Kerr's husband, Anthony Bartley, who was in the battle of Britain.

"Look at him," said Bebe, "he has the face of a baby, and yet he was one of Britain's top heroes."

Deborah told me that she met him at the close of the war, and she said, "I'm glad I didn't meet him sooner. I would have worried myself to death. He's such a daring flyer and flies now."

She was testing with children the next day, she told me, for "The Hucksters." They are trying to get two that look like her.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Keenan Wynn and Nan Bennett at the Danny Thomas opening. First date he has had since he and Evie parted. . .Bill Eythe is back in town and he didn't deny that he will wed Buff Cobb Chapman. His one time girl friend, Margaret Whiting, is completely happy with George Gruskin, who is marrying her this spring. . .The Tex Ritters are expecting their baby any minute now. . . .Ralph Wheelwright has been in Washington since New Year's eve, where he went to take "The Beginning or The End," the M-G-M atom bomb picture, for official approval. . . .The award of Red Book magazine to "The Yearling" was the occasion for gala festivities at the Bel Air hotel, Thornton Delahanty was a gracious host and it was an extremely nice party. . .Nadia Gardiner tried to make all of us jealous by showing her new Christmas jewelry, antique jade necklace with ring and earrings, worn on a red dress it was stunning. . .Jane Wyman, of whom I am so proud I can't see, looked so lovely and has become such a gracious charming woman. She wore a backless black beaded dress. Clarence Brown said when she did Ma Baxter on the radio and the audience got a look at that bare back, he had to laugh. She looked nothing like poor Ma Baxter, who didn't have enough to eat. . . .Fred Sammis and his attractive Ruth, who are giving another of these award parties the 13th of January at the Beverly Hills hotel, were also looking over this party and also having fun. . . .Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard are back from Sun Valley. The Darryl Zanucks had to delay their return because both Darrlyn and Susan, their daughters, came down with intestinal flu.

That's all today.

These Are Men Who Beat Horses

LONDON, (AP)—It was like adding an extra hour to a bygone century when 50 old horse cab drivers met in a room over a cafe in the center of London this week to dissolve their self-aid group, the Cab Drivers Benevolent Association.

For a brief time they forgot the rumble of motor traffic which churned through the streets of present day London and remembered the more leisurely days of horse carriages and gin for two and a half pennies (five cents) a portion.

The oldest present was Arthur Bennett, who at 91 remembers driving the Kaiser on a visit to England and members of the English Royal family.

And 79-year-old George John Stevens, nicknamed "Port Wine and Biscuits," spoke right out with the declaration that the taxi cab may please some but "nothing can beat horses."

About 58 per cent of farm sales in the United States during 1945 were for cash.

Kids Fail To Cheer Free Cod Liver Oil

LONDON — (AP) — Britain provides vitamins, orange juice and codliver oil for youngsters at practically no cost, but at least one medical officer realizes the kids don't know what's good for them.

Commenting on the decreased demand for these items, Dr. Astley Weston declared:

"People simply do not want to take these things. You can go outside any clinic and see a number of smashed bottles on the ground. A mother hands a bottle to her baby who throws it out of the pram."

Servicemen and women subscribed to more than $158,000,000,000 worth of national service life insurance during World War II.

U. S. Gives De Gasperi Check For $50,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder handed a check for $50,000,000 to Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi and expressed hope it will help Italy rebuild her war-shattered economy.

The money was in payment for services, supplies and facilities bought by American armed forces in Italy with lira advanced by the Italian government.

It brought to $255,000,000 the amount turned over to Italy on that account.

Ridgeley High Defeats Allegany, 25-15

500 Persons See Campers Limited To Three Baskets

Abe, Moss Stand Out In Blackhawks' Win

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Ridgeley Blackhawks served notice to all opponents to be on the alert in coming games as they trimmed the Allegany Campers 25-15 in their first scholastic start of the 1946-47 campaign, in Ridgeley gymnasium last night before a packed house of 500 spectators.

Both teams were off on their shooting, Ridgeley hitting on only ten of seventy-eight shots and Allegany connecting on three of fifty-eight. The Blackhawks however, showed they had what it takes after a three weeks' lay-off as they unveiled set shot artists in the persons of big Joe Moss and little Alfred Abe, who kept the baskets hot.

Allegany opened the scoring after 1:40 had gone by when Russ "Stilts" Hilleary made good on a free toss to send Allegany into the lead. Two minutes later Ronnie Sterne converted the second of two gift tosses and Allegany led 2-0. Ridgeley came back thirty seconds later to tie the score as big Joe Moss hooped a one-handed fielder from the side. A minute later Roy Comer converted a charity toss to send Ridgeley ahead 3-2 and they remained there the rest of the game. Alfred Obe's one-handed goal from the corner ended the first period scoring as Ridgeley led 5-2.

Hawks Lead 9-3 At Half

Three minutes elapsed before a score was made in the second period. Sterne made a free throw for Allegany but Abe hit on a set shot from the side a minute later and Ridgeley led 7-3. Bill Brehany closed the first half scoring with a basket from near mid-court at 1:30 and Ridgeley left the court at half-time with a 9-3 advantage.

After missing thirty-one consecutive shots Allegany finally agreed to compromise with the law of averages and Gene Shaw scored a twin-pointer from the side to pull Allegany within four points of the Blackhawks (9-5). Ridgeley came back strong with Moss scoring a lay-up goal with 6:10 to go and ten seconds later Comer duplicated his shot to push the Hawks' score to 13-5. Russ Hilleary caged a charity throw and then Abe and Brehany hit the hoop for fielders from the opposite sides of the court to make the count 17-6, Ridgeley. Shaw cut the net from near mid-court but Abe came back for Ridgeley with a one-handed basket to keep the Hawks' eleven point lead (19-8). Shaw converted from the foul line to end the third period scoring with the Black and White ahead at 19-9.

Shaw closed the gap temporarily to eight points (19-11) with a set shot from the side but Abe's charity toss and basket gave Ridgeley an eleven point lead once more at 22-11. Allegany began to rally as foul shots began coming their way. Shaw made one, Cubbage two, and Powers one on free throws to move Allegany up within seven points of the Hawks (22-15.) With 2:20 to go Joe Moss was ejected on five personals and Clyde "Fats" Wilson was given the responsibility of controlling the rebound for the Hawks and stopping the Camper rally. He did just this. Wilson took a rebound off the backboard and shoved it back through the rim to make the score 24-15, Ridgeley, with 2:05 still to go. Both teams battled for the ball in the remaining seconds with Jim Flanagan converting the seconds of two charity tosses to close the scoring and give Ridgeley its second win of the season by a 25-15 count.

Abe Scores Eleven Points

Alfred Abe led the Hawks with eleven points on five baskets, two more than Allegany got, and one foul toss. Gene "Wilbur" Shaw paced the Blue and White quintet with eight points as he tallied all of Allegany's goals.

Only twenty-three fouls were called last night with Moss and Shaw leaving the game on five personals and Brehany being close with four fouls. The lineups:

Legion Hangs Up Record; Amvets, Lonaconing Win

K. Of C. Quint Tops Paw Paw Legion

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, hung up a new scoring record in the Interstate League last night by trouncing Fulton Myers Post, American Legion, 74 to 54 in the opening game of a doubleheader on SS. Peter and Paul court.

The previous high was 69 points made by Lonaconing on Wednesday night and equalled last night when the Cumberland Amvets defeated the Mt. Savage Veterans of Foreign Wars in Mt. Savage to the tune of 69 to 48.

In piling up the record score the Cumberland Legion collected 31 field goals and hooped 12 of 27 free throws. Howie Wilson and George Geatz led the assault with 16 and 15 tallies. Charley Yates and Ben Broome topped the Fulton Myers point getters with 20 and 14. The winners held a 31-13 lead at the intermission.

Oberhaus Gets 30 Points

Paul Oberhaus helped himself to 30 points as the Amvets romped to victory at Mullaney's hall, Mt. Savage. The Amvets' center gathered 10 field goals and converted 10 of 14 free throws. Howard Blank, of Mt. Savage, also garnered ten field goals and a total of 21 points. Mt. Savage held a 15-8 lead at the quarter but the Amvets were on top, 23-21 and 46-37 at half time and at the close of the third stanza.

Coney Wallops Moose

Norman Mason, the league's high point man, was held to a measly field goal and his team was limited to a total of seven baskets as the Cumberland Moose ran into an 18-goal barrage and went down to defeat at the hands of Coach Johnny Thomas' James P. Love Post, American Legion passers, at Central High School, Lonaconing. The score was 42 to 21.

It was the eleventh win in 12 starts for the league's pace setters.

Bob Johnson headed the Coney offensive with 18 markers while Dundas Orr was runner-up with 11. The league leaders led at the halfway mark 24-10. Gus Frizzell's floorwork was outstanding for Coney.

Caseys Down Paw Paw

The Cumberland Knights of Columbus took the measure of the Paw Paw American Legion in the second game of the dual bill on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 37-31.

Ted Rowan scored seven field goals and 15 points for the victors. Taylor racked up an even dozen points to head the Paw Paw scorers. The Caseys led throughout, quarter scores being 12-8, 22-16 and 28-24. Lineups:

Mountaineers Wallop St. Francis In Madison Square Garden, 72-42

West Virginia Scores 6th Straight Win

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Scoring almost at will, West Virginia's undefeated basketball team easily registered its sixth straight triumph tonight by drubbing St. Francis College of Brooklyn 72-42 in the opener of an intersectional college doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

St. Francis was never in the game as the Mountaineers, led by their freshman stars, Fred Schaus and Bill Zirkel, went into a 9-2 lead in the first three minutes and increased their advantage to 36-21 at the end of the first half.

St. Francis tried vainly to cut into the visitors' huge lead in the second half, but the West Virginians, anxious for a bid to the invitational tournament here next March, refused to let up.

With Schaus and Zirkel sitting out most of the second period, Bob Carroll and Leland Byrd took over the scoring burden. Carroll, a fine ball handler, scored 14 points, one less than Schaus' high mark of 15 while Byrd hooked in 12 markers with several fine left handed shots. Zirkel scored 10 points.

After opening up a 63-30 lead late in the final stanza, Coach Lee Patton threw in substitutes with abandon but the Terriers could make no appreciable gain.

Little Emil Mele, St. Francis outstanding performer, paced his mates with 14 points. In addition he fed several others to his teammates. Lineups:

Ridgeley High Defeats Allegany, 25-15

500 Persons See Campers Limited To Three Baskets

Abe, Moss Stand Out In Blackhawks' Win

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

The Ridgeley Blackhawks served notice to all opponents to be on the alert in coming games as they trimmed the Allegany Campers 25-15 in their first scholastic start of the 1946-47 campaign, in Ridgeley gymnasium last night before a packed house of 500 spectators.

Both teams were off on their shooting, Ridgeley hitting on only ten of seventy-eight shots and Allegany connecting on three of fifty-eight. The Blackhawks however, showed they had what it takes after a three weeks' lay-off as they unveiled set shot artists in the persons of big Joe Moss and little Alfred Abe, who kept the baskets hot.

Allegany opened the scoring after 1:40 had gone by when Russ "Stilts" Hilleary made good on a free toss to send Allegany into the lead. Two minutes later Ronnie Sterne converted the second of two gift tosses and Allegany led 2-0. Ridgeley came back thirty seconds later to tie the score as big Joe Moss hooped a one-handed fielder from the side. A minute later Roy Comer converted a charity toss to send Ridgeley ahead 3-2 and they remained there the rest of the game. Alfred Obe's one-handed goal from the corner ended the first period scoring as Ridgeley led 5-2.

Hawks Lead 9-3 At Half

Three minutes elapsed before a score was made in the second period. Sterne made a free throw for Allegany but Abe hit on a set shot from the side a minute later and Ridgeley led 7-3. Bill Brehany closed the first half scoring with a basket from near mid-court at 1:30 and Ridgeley left the court at half-time with a 9-3 advantage.

After missing thirty-one consecutive shots Allegany finally agreed to compromise with the law of averages and Gene Shaw scored a twin-pointer from the side to pull Allegany within four points of the Blackhawks (9-5). Ridgeley came back strong with Moss scoring a lay-up goal with 6:10 to go and ten seconds later Comer duplicated his shot to push the Hawks' score to 13-5. Russ Hilleary caged a charity throw and then Abe and Brehany hit the hoop for fielders from the opposite sides of the court to make the count 17-6, Ridgeley. Shaw cut the net from near mid-court but Abe came back for Ridgeley with a one-handed basket to keep the Hawks' eleven point lead (19-8). Shaw converted from the foul line to end the third period scoring with the Black and White ahead at 19-9.

Shaw closed the gap temporarily to eight points (19-11) with a set shot from the side but Abe's charity toss and basket gave Ridgeley an eleven point lead once more at 22-11. Allegany began to rally as foul shots began coming their way. Shaw made one, Cubbage two, and Powers one on free throws to move Allegany up within seven points of the Hawks (22-15.) With 2:20 to go Joe Moss was ejected on five personals and Clyde "Fats" Wilson was given the responsibility of controlling the rebound for the Hawks and stopping the Camper rally. He did just this. Wilson took a rebound off the backboard and shoved it back through the rim to make the score 24-15, Ridgeley, with 2:05 still to go. Both teams battled for the ball in the remaining seconds with Jim Flanagan converting the seconds of two charity tosses to close the scoring and give Ridgeley its second win of the season by a 25-15 count.

Abe Scores Eleven Points

Alfred Abe led the Hawks with eleven points on five baskets, two more than Allegany got, and one foul toss. Gene "Wilbur" Shaw paced the Blue and White quintet with eight points as he tallied all of Allegany's goals.

Only twenty-three fouls were called last night with Moss and Shaw leaving the game on five personals and Brehany being close with four fouls. The lineups:

Mountaineers Wallop St. Francis In Madison Square Garden, 72-42

West Virginia Scores 6th Straight Win

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Scoring almost at will, West Virginia's undefeated basketball team easily registered its sixth straight triumph tonight by drubbing St. Francis College of Brooklyn 72-42 in the opener of an intersectional college doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

St. Francis was never in the game as the Mountaineers, led by their freshman stars, Fred Schaus and Bill Zirkel, went into a 9-2 lead in the first three minutes and increased their advantage to 36-21 at the end of the first half.

St. Francis tried vainly to cut into the visitors' huge lead in the second half, but the West Virginians, anxious for a bid to the invitational tournament here next March, refused to let up.

With Schaus and Zirkel sitting out most of the second period, Bob Carroll and Leland Byrd took over the scoring burden. Carroll, a fine ball handler, scored 14 points, one less than Schaus' high mark of 15 while Byrd hooked in 12 markers with several fine left handed shots. Zirkel scored 10 points.

After opening up a 63-30 lead late in the final stanza, Coach Lee Patton threw in substitutes with abandon but the Terriers could make no appreciable gain.

Little Emil Mele, St. Francis outstanding performer, paced his mates with 14 points. In addition he fed several others to his teammates. Lineups:

DUQUESNE CANCELS ORANGE BOWL GAME WITH MIAMI QUINT

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 (AP)—Cancellation of next Wednesday's outdoor basketball game with Miami University in the Orange Bowl was announced tonight by the Very Rev. Francis P. Smith, president of Duquesne University.

The action followed receipt of notice from Athletic Director Jack Harting of the Florida University that the City of Miami Police Department has a rule against permitting white men and negroes to compete in athletic contests.

On Dec. 23, 1946, when Duquesne Coach Chick Davies insisted on playing Charles Cooper, freshman negro basketball star, a basketball team from the University of Tennessee refused play the undefeated Dukes after reaching to floor for a scheduled game.

High School Bowl Games Condemned

NFHSAA Blasts Yule Contest As "Outlaw"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations today renewed its attack on "widely publicized bowl games" and other post-season high school contests which require lengthy travel and "excessive loss of school time."

A report on policy for sanctioning contests and a statement of "Cardinal athletic principles" for the association both flayed this type of game. At the opening session yesterday the National H.S.A.A. lambasted a Christmas game at Miami as an "outlaw" arrangement.

The athletic principles, resulting from nationwide suggestions and presented by A. Willis of Chicago, executive secretary of the Illinois HSAA, recommended that high school athletics "be controlled in such a way as to avoid the elements of professionalism and commercialism which tend to grow up in connection with widely publicized bowl games, barnstorming trips and interstate or intersectional contests which require excessive travel expense or loss of school time, or which are claimed to be justified by educational travel values."

T. C. Ferguson, of Baltimore, reporting on sanctions, declared that most claimed justifications for these games were unjustified.

NCAA's So-Called "Purity Code" Branded "Ridiculous" Measure

Takes Us Back 20 Years SEC Secretary Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 9 (AP)—The NCAA's new so-called "purity code" prohibiting off-campus recruitment of athletes was branded by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Southeastern Conference secretary, today as a "ridiculous" measure that "takes us (S.E.C.) back to where we were 20 years ago."

The plain-speaking official of the open-dealing S.E.C. termed the rule an idea that never had been adhered to, never would be and one that could not be enforced.

Warming up to the subject, he scored the parent body's action as an effort to "make us out the goat because our conference has been open-handed in the matter of subsidization and other dealings with athletes."

School and athletic authorities throughout the Southeastern agree, he said, that the unhidden policies of their own loop concerning acquisition of athletic talent had been followed in a secret manner by members of other conferences "contrary to written regulations."

Nevertheless, the S.E.C. will humbly change its regulations to conform with the principles adopted by the national association, he said.

"If we didn't we would be blacklisted," he added, "and of course we couldn't let that happen. We would be unable to complete schedules for our teams, and our athletes would not be eligible to try for the Olympics and other affairs staged by the NCAA."

The S.E.C. committee which carried its views in a losing fight to the NCAA floor will convene soon to study the new code and determine what rules changes will be necessary, he said.

Recommendations of the committee will be placed before the conference at its annual meeting in May. Effective dates of the changes will be fixed at that time, Funkhouser indicated.

Alumni Wants Louisville To Play Notre Dame

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9 (AP)—Officials of the Notre Dame club here announced today that the club would urge Notre Dame to substitute the University of Louisville for the University of Kentucky on next year's basketball schedule.

Kentucky and Notre Dame have met here annually for several years in what has been one of the nation's outstanding basketball games of the season.

Tom Bulleit, president of the Notre Dame Club, said it was his hope to substitute the University of Louisville for the Kentucky Wildcats in order to save a major game for fans in this area.

He said when Kentucky's new field house is completed at Lexington, the Irish-Wildcat game probably would be shifted there, leaving Louisville without a Notre Dame game.

Other sources reported, however, that Notre Dame Alumni here are dissatisfied with the number of tickets which have been allotted to them for the game each year.

Hogan in New York as spokesmen said "higher-ups" still were sought in the attempt to bribe two New York Giant professional football players for which Alvin S. Paris was convicted. Miss McGuire was not called to the stand at Paris' trial. She was reported to be present at parties given by Paris and attended by Merle Hapes and Frank Filchock, Giant backfield players.

Football League Would Make Bribery Criminal Offense

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Football League is advocating federal, state and local legislation to make bribery of athletes a criminal offense, Commissioner Bert Bell declared today.

Bell, acting on Earl Yeomans' recommendations to the national collegiate athletic association, said he already has contacted authorities on the Detroit Lions club asking them to press for action in Detroit and the State of Michigan.

Similarly, Bell added, he will speak with officials of all other clubs in the loop to ask them to take action.

JANIRO AND PELLONE WILL CLASH TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio, has just passed his 19th birthday and thus will be able to box 10 rounds, if necessary, tomorow night when he meets Tony Pellone of New York in Madison Square Garden's main event.

In his previous appearances here the Ohio welterweight was restricted to bouts of eight rounds or less because of the state law which says that boxers under 19 can not box 10 rounds. He is the 8 to 5 favorite to whip the New Yorker.

The bout is one of a series which ultimately will produce an opponent for Ray Robinson, welterweight champion.

Filchock Feared Physical Harm

That's Why He Kept Mum On Bribe Offer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Frank Filchock, New York Giants' pro football star, said today he didn't tell his employers of attempts to bribe him because he was afraid to.

"My life wouldn't have been worth a nickel if I had," he told a reporter.

A jury yesterday found Alvin J. Paris of New York guilty of trying to bribe Filchock and Merle Hapes, Giant fullback.

Testimony showed that Paris wanted the Chicago Bears to win last month's championship game with the Giants by at least ten points.

Filchock said he feared physical harm from mobsters if he told anyone of Paris' attempt to fix the outcome of the game.

"So I just forgot all about it after saying 'no' to Paris' proposition," he said. "I wouldn't even think of doing anything dishonest in football."

He said Paris was a "swell fellow who was good to me and all the players."

Not until Paris approached him with an offer, said Filchock, did he realize there might be a reason for Paris' generosity.

Filchock has been suspended by the National League until Commissioner Bert Bell can review the case.

Baksi To Fight

LONDON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Promoter Jack Solomons said tonight that Joe Baksi, the Kulfmont, Pa., heavyweight, would arrive in Britain late this month and vacation here for a few weeks before training for his forthcoming battle with Bruce Woodcock. Baksi is bringing his wife.

No date has been set for the fight.

Potomac State Is Host To Fairmont Floormen

PACES SCORERS — Bill McProuty, of Grafton, will start at a guard position tonight for Potomac State when Fairmont State Teachers' College quint is met at Keyser. Bill is 21 and served with the Marines. He leads the Catamounts with 56 points in six games. He has collected 23 baskets and converted 10 of 26 foul shots. Bill averaged 12 points per game in road contests this week with Salem and Alderson-Broaddus.

Bob Pence To Referee Keyser Game At 8:30

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Potomac State Catamounts will attempt to shake off a three-game losing streak tonight when they face the Fairmont State Teachers College Falcons in the Catamount gymnasium at 8:30 p. m. A preliminary between the Potomac State "B's" and the undefeated South End Market quintet will precede the main affair.

The Cats' losing stretch started December 18 of 1946 when an inspired Glenville State team rallied in the final period to down the Loughmen 52-51. This week the backward streak continued as Potomac State dropped games to Salem College 56-52 and Alderson-Broaddus College 74-57. In the Salem affair a Tiger spurt broke a 46-46 tie and beat the Hilltoppers at Salem. Against A-B, Potomac State ran up an early 18-9 lead in the first period and then faded until the score stood 27-27 with two minutes to go in the first half. Here the Cats' luck gave out once more as A-B hit the basket for 12 points to go ahead and take the ball game.

Sims Suffers Injury

Tonight Lady Luck is already frowning upon Potomac State. Kenny Sims, Cats' second highest scorer, will be out of the contest with a sprained ankle. Big Ed Burns will move into Sims' center post and Bill McProuty, who leads Cat scorers with 56 points for sx games, will take over Burns' guard spot. The rest of the Hilltopper lineup will be: Mike Yewcic and Howard Cassidy at the forward posts and "Jack" Thomas at the other guard position. Assistant Coach Judson "Hodge" Hodges, who directed the Catamounts on their two day trip this week, says that the Blue and Gold looked at their best this season in the A-B game. The Cats will however, have to go a long way to beat Fairmont.

The Teachers have already hung up two decisive wins thus far this week. On Tuesday they walloped the California State Teachers of Pennsylvania 76-46. The California team beat Frostburg's Teachers 96-34 earlier this season. Wednesday night the Falcons met the powerful West Virginia Wesleyan five and beat them 63-51 using twelve players against Wesleyan. Four of the starting five Falcons broke into the scoring column. Forwards Sagath and Blosser, Center Defenbaugh, and Guard Nicola scored 12, 13, 17, and 16 points respectively. Trader, the other guard, failed to tally.

Pence Will Referee

Bob Pence, football mentor of Allegany high, will referee the contest. Pence graduated from Fairmont State. The umpire will be "Eck" Miers of Emory and Henry.

This game will be the last home contest for Potomac State until January 24 when the Cats return from their Southern trip to play West Liberty College here.

BREADON IS SILENT ON SIGNING PLAYERS

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9 (AP) — Sam Breadon has been maintaining his usual silence on the subject, but the general belief is that the St. Louis Cardinal owner faces a major problem in satisfying the 1947 salary expectations of his world champion Redbirds.

Breadon, veteran of many contract battles, said he expected no great amount of difficulty in signing his players but declined further comment.

Among the talking points for the Cards who intend to up their asking price are their pennant and World Series victories and the club's prosperous state resulting from a record-breaking home attendance of more than 1,000,000 last season.

No Cardinal contracts have been mailed out, the club's office announced. The deadline for mailing is Feb. 1.

Several key players undoubtedly will expect substantial increases. Chief among these are Stan Musial and Enos (Country) Slaughter, both of whom have been quoted at various times to the effect that they intended to bargain for more attractive contracts.

Among other Redbirds likely to ask for wage hikes are Whitey Kurowski the stellar third baseman who was a holdout last year until the season's start, and Howie Pollet, the southpaw ace who won 21 and lost 10 pitching in and out of turn to keep the Cards within grasp of the pennant during their mid-season struggle.

O'Malley Signs Contract

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the signing of an 18-year-old local first baseman, Tommy O'Malley, for their Salisbury Farm Club of the Class D North Carolina League.

DUQUESNE CANCELS ORANGE BOWL GAME WITH MIAMI QUINT

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9 (AP)—Cancellation of next Wednesday's outdoor basketball game with Miami University in the Orange Bowl was announced tonight by the Very Rev. Francis P. Smith, president of Duquesne University.

The action followed receipt of notice from Athletic Director Jack Harting of the Florida University that the City of Miami Police Department has a rule against permitting white men and negroes to compete in athletic contests.

On Dec. 23, 1946, when Duquesne Coach Chick Davies insisted on playing Charles Cooper, freshman negro basketball star, a basketball team from the University of Tennessee refused play the undefeated Dukes after reaching to floor for a scheduled game.

High School Bowl Games Condemned

NFHSAA Blasts Yule Contest As "Outlaw"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Federation of High School Athletic Associations today renewed its attack on "widely publicized bowl games" and other post-season high school contests which require lengthy travel and "excessive loss of school time."

A report on policy for sanctioning contests and a statement of "Cardinal athletic principles" for the association both flayed this type of game. At the opening session yesterday the National H.S.A.A. lambasted a Christmas game at Miami as an "outlaw" arrangement.

The athletic principles, resulting from nationwide suggestions and presented by A. Willis of Chicago, executive secretary of the Illinois HSAA, recommended that high school athletics "be controlled in such a way as to avoid the elements of professionalism and commercialism which tend to grow up in connection with widely publicized bowl games, barnstorming trips and interstate or intersectional contests which require excessive travel expense or loss of school time, or which are claimed to be justified by educational travel values."

T. C. Ferguson, of Baltimore, reporting on sanctions, declared that most claimed justifications for these games were unjustified.

NCAA's So-Called "Purity Code" Branded "Ridiculous" Measure

Takes Us Back 20 Years SEC Secretary Says

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 9 (AP)—The NCAA's new so-called "purity code" prohibiting off-campus recruitment of athletes was branded by Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Southeastern Conference secretary, today as a "ridiculous" measure that "takes us (S.E.C.) back to where we were 20 years ago."

The plain-speaking official of the open-dealing S.E.C. termed the rule an idea that never had been adhered to, never would be and one that could not be enforced.

Warming up to the subject, he scored the parent body's action as an effort to "make us out the goat because our conference has been open-handed in the matter of subsidization and other dealings with athletes."

School and athletic authorities throughout the Southeastern agree, he said, that the unhidden policies of their own loop concerning acquisition of athletic talent had been followed in a secret manner by members of other conferences "contrary to written regulations."

Nevertheless, the S.E.C. will humbly change its regulations to conform with the principles adopted by the national association, he said.

"If we didn't we would be blacklisted," he added, "and of course we couldn't let that happen. We would be unable to complete schedules for our teams, and our athletes would not be eligible to try for the Olympics and other affairs staged by the NCAA."

The S.E.C. committee which carried its views in a losing fight to the NCAA floor will convene soon to study the new code and determine what rules changes will be necessary, he said.

Recommendations of the committee will be placed before the conference at its annual meeting in May. Effective dates of the changes will be fixed at that time, Funkhouser indicated.

Alumni Wants Louisville To Play Notre Dame

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9 (AP)—Officials of the Notre Dame club here announced today that the club would urge Notre Dame to substitute the University of Louisville for the University of Kentucky on next year's basketball schedule.

Kentucky and Notre Dame have met here annually for several years in what has been one of the nation's outstanding basketball games of the season.

Tom Bulleit, president of the Notre Dame Club, said it was his hope to substitute the University of Louisville for the Kentucky Wildcats in order to save a major game for fans in this area.

He said when Kentucky's new field house is completed at Lexington, the Irish-Wildcat game probably would be shifted there, leaving Louisville without a Notre Dame game.

Other sources reported, however, that Notre Dame Alumni here are dissatisfied with the number of tickets which have been allotted to them for the game each year.

QUESTIONED BY DA — Ida McGuire, hollywood bit player, was among witnesses called yesterday to the office of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan in New York as spokesmen said "higher-ups" still were sought in the attempt to bribe two New York Giant professional football players for which Alvin S. Paris was convicted. Miss McGuire was not called to the stand at Paris' trial. She was reported to be present at parties given by Paris and attended by Merle Hapes and Frank Filchock, Giant backfield players.

Footbal League Would Make Bribery Criminal Offense

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Football League is advocating federal, state and local legislation to make bribery of athletes a criminal offense, Commissioner Bert Bell declared today.

Bell, acting on Earl Yeomans' recommendations to the national collegiate athletic association, said he already has contacted authorities on the Detroit Lions club asking them to press for action in Detroit and the State of Michigan.

Similarly, Bell added, he will speak with officials of all other clubs in the loop to ask them to take action.

JANIRO AND PELLONE WILL CLASH TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio, has just passed his 19th birthday and thus will be able to box 10 rounds, if necessary, tomorow night when he meets Tony Pellone of New York in Madison Square Garden's main event.

In his previous appearances here the Ohio welterweight was restricted to bouts of eight rounds or less because of the state law which says that boxers under 19 can not box 10 rounds. He is the 8 to 5 favorite to whip the New Yorker.

The bout is one of a series which ultimately will produce an opponent for Ray Robinson, welterweight champion.

Filchock Feared Physical Harm

That's Why He Kept Mum On Bribe Offer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — Frank Filchock, New York Giants' pro football star, said today he didn't tell his employers of attempts to bribe him because he was afraid to.

"My life wouldn't have been worth a nickel if I had," he told a reporter.

A jury yesterday found Alvin J. Paris of New York guilty of trying to bribe Filchock and Merle Hapes, Giant fullback.

Testimony showed that Paris wanted the Chicago Bears to win last month's championship game with the Giants by at least ten points.

Filchock said he feared physical harm from mobsters if he told anyone of Paris' attempt to fix the outcome of the game.

"So I just forgot all about it after saying 'no' to Paris' proposition," he said. "I wouldn't even think of doing anything dishonest in football."

He said Paris was a "swell fellow who was good to me and all the players."

Not until Paris approached him with an offer, said Filchock, did he realize there might be a reason for Paris' generosity.

Filchock has been suspended by the National League until Commissioner Bert Bell can review the case.

Nation's Hunters Pose "Serious" Wildlife Threat

Outnumber Military Forces During War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — America's peacetime army of hunters and fishermen now outnumbers the nation's military forces during the war and presents a "serious" threat to wildlife, Director Albert M. Day of the Fish and Wildlife Service reported today.

Citing a sharp upturn in hunting and fishing licenses, Day predicted that the number of sportsmen will soon double the pre-war figure.

The Fish and Wildlife Department said it estimated the present hunter-angler army at "well over 16,000,000" compared with a peak of just over 12,000,000 in the armed forces during the war.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, the department said, there were 8,280,232 anglers and 8,190,901 hunters. The upward trend today is shown by the fact that nearly 2,000,000 federal duck-hunting stamps have been sold in the season not yet ended, compared with 1,487,029 for the 1944-45 season and 1,725,505 for the 1945-46 season.

In a report to Secretary of Interior Krug, Day called for "the most unremitting effort" to prevent "serious and irremediable" damage to wildlife.

Already, he said, there has been an "alarming decline" in the population of waterfowl, resulting from the heavy bag of ducks and geese during the 1944-45 seasons and drought in nesting grounds.

Day said too much hunting had slashed the waterfowl population to only about 80,000,000 birds on the entire continent in 1946, compared with 125,000,000 two years earlier. All species of game ducks except the black duck and the blue-winged teal were on the decline in 1946, he said, and Canada geese were so seriously affected that on the entire Mississippi flyway the shooting of this species had to be suspended last year.

Day's report noted that predatory animals which prey on livestock increased during the war due to shortage of men and materials for controls. Nevertheless, 117,204 predatory beasts were taken during the year, including 108,311 coyotes, 1,557 wolves, 6,487 bobcats and lynxes, 730 bears and 119 mountain lions.

Hughes And Arnold Will Stage Match

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON, Jan. 9 — A 21-bird shooting match will be held Saturday, January 25, at 2 p. m. in the Midland ball park, between Francis Hughes, Midland, and Simon Arnold, Barton.

The match, which will be shot for a purse of $1,000, was arranged last evening at a meeting held in the firemen's armory, Barton, by fans of the two contestants.

The same two shot Christmas Day with Arnold winning with a score of 13 out of 20 birds, while Hughes killed 10 out of 19.

Hughes is from Midland and is well known for his shooting. He has shot a number of matches within the last several months.

Arnold is also well known in this section for his shooting for a number of years and was the winner of a shooting contest held recently with a number of good shooters taking part.

Tucker Is Awarded Sullivan Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — Arnold Tucker, quarterback on Army's unbeaten football team, today was awarded the James E. Sullivan Memorial trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1946.

Announcement of the 22-year-old Miami, Fla., Cadet's victory in the closest vote in the trophy's 17-year-history was made by the Amateur Athletic Union which conducts the nationwide poll.

It marked the second in a row that a member of the mighty three-year undefeated Army grid machine had been named as the amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship. Last year the award went to Felix (Doc) Blanchard, the Cadet fullback and three-time All-America.

Tucker received 597 points to nose out Bill Smith, record smashing free-style swimmer from Honolulu and Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback. It was noted that Lujack beat out Tucker for the quarterback spot on the 1946 All-America team.

NEW SPEED DEMON ON BASES MAY GET BIG LEAGUE CHANCE

Maynard DeWitt Stole 109 Bases In Minors

By CENTRAL PRESS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 9 — A new speed boy is about to break into the big leagues in the person of Maynard DeWitt, Jr., of Ambia, Ind.

DeWitt, who cracked all organized baseball records for stealing bases with playing the outfield for the Zanesville, O., club in the Ohio State league this year, is expected to go south with the Brooklyn Dodgers this spring and may wind up either with that club or the Dodger farm at Montreal.

It was little over a year ago that DeWitt was astounding the scholastic track world with his record-breaking feats in state-wide school-boy competition.

An outstanding broad jumper and sprinter, Maynard was the leading point scorer for Ambia High School in the 1945 Indiana track and field championships by virtue of winning the broad jump, 100-yard dash and placing second in the 200 sprint.

Today, not only Indiana but the entire baseball world has become aware of this phenomenal athlete. For DeWitt is being hailed as the greatest speedster on the basepaths in the past 20 years.

The 20-year-old athlete, of whom rivals say, "He doesn't run the bases, he simply flies over them," stole 109 bases in 1946 to break the record of 107 set by Lyle Judy of Springfield, a St. Louis Cardinal farm club, back in 1935 during Western Association competition.

Cracks All Marks

Back in 1913, Jimmy Johnston of San Francisco purloined 124 bases in the Pacific Coast league, but due to the fact that he played in 200 games while DeWitt saw action in 140, Johnston's record has been discounted and tossed out of the books. There's no doubt that if DeWitt played in 200 games his total of stolen bases would have been near the 150 mark.

Strangely enough, DeWitt showed little promise as a base stealer when he came up with Zanesville last year after graduation from school. He saw action in some 50 games, but stole little more than a dozen bases.

But this year under the tutelage of Clay Bryant, former southpaw hurler of the Chicago Cubs, DeWitt practically ran wild on all opposition. Rarely did a day pass when his name failed to hit the box score in the thefting department. This, despite the fact that opposing hurlers tried to keep him close to first base and the catchers had their arms cocked for the toss to second as soon as the ball hit their mitts.

Hit .370

DeWitt, who started his baseball career as a pitcher, led the league in hitting with an average of .370. Among his extra base hits were nine doubles and 13 triples, indicating his ability to stretch a long drive into three rather than the customary two bases.

In spite of the fact that the opposing infields practically play him on the grass in order to nip him at first base on an infield grounder, this new style of defense failed to lower his plate mark. A hefty hitter with a tremendously quick getaway, DeWitt has been compared to Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, acknowledged the most dangerous runner in the big time.

There seems to be little doubt that DeWitt is headed for stardom in the major leagues.

Mr. Case and Mr. Reiser, you better watch out!

During the 1946 season a Michigan man pleaded guilty of selling deer hunters "buck fever pills" containing phenobarbital.

Judges Uphold Two Racing Convictions

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Supreme Bench of Baltimore upheld today the Criminal Court convictions of two Washington horsemen on charges growing out of a ringer case at the Pimlico race track during the fall meeting in 1945.

The men—Roland Bennett Sanner and James S. O'Donnell—were ordered to appear in Criminal Court tomorrow for sentencing.

The Supreme Bench upheld the lower court's conviction of Sanner on charges of obtaining purses under false pretenses and on two counts of conspiring to substitute one horse for another.

In the case of O'Donnell, the Supreme Bench granted a new trial motion on the false pretense charge but denied his motion for a new trial on two conspiracy charges.

The court ruled that there was no evidence to show O'Donnell was in Maryland at the time the purses were collected.

Assistant State's Attorney Alan Murrell said O'Donnell would not be brought to trial again on the false pretense count.

Under the state law, the maximum penalty on conviction of conspiracy charges is 10 years' imprisonment on each count.

A Criminal Court jury had convicted the pair of substituting a horse known as Flying Kilts for a horse named Rounco in races run at Pimlico on November 12 and November 27, 1945.

Pennsylvania game officials estimate that at least 400 bears were taken in the state during the open season but note that many hunters neglected to file reports.

Nation's Hunters Pose "Serious" Wildlife Threat

Outnumber Military Forces During War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP) — America's peacetime army of hunters and fishermen now outnumbers the nation's military forces during the war and presents a "serious" threat to wildlife, Director Albert M. Day of the Fish and Wildlife Service reported today.

Citing a sharp upturn in hunting and fishing licenses, Day predicted that the number of sportsmen will soon double the pre-war figure.

The Fish and Wildlife Department said it estimated the present hunter-angler army at "well over 16,000,000" compared with a peak of just over 12,000,000 in the armed forces during the war.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, the department said, there were 8,280,232 anglers and 8,190,901 hunters. The upward trend today is shown by the fact that nearly 2,000,000 federal duck-hunting stamps have been sold ir the season not yet ended, compared with 1,487,029 for the 1944-45 season and 1,725,505 for the 1945-46 season.

In a report to Secretary of Interior Krug, Day called for "the most unremitting effort" to prevent "serious and irremediable" damage to wildlife.

Already, he said, there has been an "alarming decline" in the population of waterfowl, resulting from the heavy bag of ducks and geese during the 1944-45 seasons and drought in nesting grounds.

Day said too much hunting had slashed the waterfowl population to only about 80,000,000 birds on the entire continent in 1946, compared with 125,000,000 two years earlier. All species of game ducks except the black duck and the blue-winged teal were on the decline in 1946, he said, and Canada geese were so seriously affected that on the entire Mississippi flyway the shooting of this species had to be suspended last year.

Day's report noted that predatory animals which prey on livestock increased during the war due to shortage of men and materials for controls. Nevertheless, 117,204 predatory beasts were taken during the year, including 108,311 coyotes, 1,557 wolves, 6,487 bobcats and lynxes, 730 bears and 119 mountain lions.

Hughes And Arnold Will Stage Match

By DAVID E. KIRK

BARTON, Jan. 9 — A 21-bird shooting match will be held Saturday, January 25, at 2 p. m. in the Midland ball park, between Francis Hughes, Midland, and Simon Arnold, Barton.

The match, which will be shot for a purse of $1,000, was arranged last evening at a meeting held in the firemen's armory, Barton, by fans of the two contestants.

The same two shot Christmas Day with Arnold winning with a score of 13 out of 20 birds, while Hughes killed 10 out of 19.

Hughes is from Midland and is well known for his shooting. He has shot a number of matches within the last several months.

Arnold is also well known in this section for his shooting for a number of years and was the winner of a shooting contest held recently with a number of good shooters taking part.

Tucker Is Awarded Sullivan Trophy

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP) — Arnold Tucker, quarterback on Army's unbeaten football team, today was awarded the James E. Sullivan Memorial trophy as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1946.

Announcement of the 22-year-old Miami, Fla., Cadet's victory in the closest vote in the trophy's 17-year-history was made by the Amateur Athletic Union which conducts the nationwide poll.

It marked the second in a row that a member of the mighty three-year undefeated Army grid machine had been named as the amateur athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship. Last year the award went to Felix (Doc) Blanchard, the Cadet fullback and three-time All-America.

Tucker received 597 points to nose out Bill Smith, record smashing free-style swimmer from Honolulu and Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback. It was noted that Lujack beat out Tucker for the quarterback spot on the 1946 All-America team.

NEW SPEED DEMON ON BASES MAY GET BIG LEAGUE CHANCE

Maynard DeWitt Stole 109 Bases In Minors

By CENTRAL PRESS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Jan. 9 — A new speed boy is about to break into the big leagues in the person of Maynard DeWitt, Jr., of Ambia, Ind.

DeWitt, who cracked all organized baseball records for stealing bases with playing the outfield for the Zanesville, O., club in the Ohio State league this year, is expected to go south with the Brooklyn Dodgers this spring and may wind up either with that club or the Dodgers farm at Montreal.

It was little over a year ago that DeWitt was astounding the scholastic track world with his record-breaking feats in state-wide school-boy competition.

An outstanding broad jumper and sprinter, Maynard was the leading point scorer for Ambia High School in the 1945 Indiana track and field championships by virtue of winning the broad jump, 100-yard dash and placing second in the 200 sprint.

Today, not only Indiana but the entire baseball world has become aware of this phenomenal athlete. For DeWitt is being hailed as the greatest speedster on the basepaths in the past 20 years.

The 20-year-old athlete, of whom rivals say, "He doesn't run the bases, he simply flies over them," stole 109 bases in 1946 to break the record of 107 set by Lyle Judy of Springfield, a St. Louis Cardinal farm club, back in 1935 during Western Association competition.

Cracks All Marks

Back in 1913, Jimmy Johnston of San Francisco purloined 124 bases in the Pacific Coast league, but due to the fact that he played in 200 games while DeWitt saw action in 140, Johnston's record has been discounted and tossed out of the books. There's no doubt that if DeWitt played in 200 games his total of stolen bases would have been near the 150 mark.

Strangely enough, DeWitt showed little promise as a base stealer when he came up with Zanesville last year after graduation from school. He saw action in some 50 games, but stole little more than a dozen bases.

But this year under the tutelage of Clay Bryant, former southpaw hurler of the Chicago Cubs, DeWitt practically ran wild on all opposition. Rarely did a day pass when his name failed to hit the box score in the thefting department. This, despite the fact that opposing hurlers tried to keep him close to first base and the catchers had their arms cocked for the toss to second as soon as the ball hit their mitts.

Hit .370

DeWitt, who started his baseball career as a pitcher, led the league in hitting with an average of .370. Among his extra base hits were nine doubles and 13 triples, indicating his ability to stretch a long drive into three rather than the customary two bases.

In spite of the fact that the opposing infields practically play him on the grass in order to nip him at first base on an infield grounder, this new style of defense failed to lower his plate mark. A hefty hitter with a tremendously quick getaway, DeWitt has been compared to Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, acknowledged the most dangerous runner in the big time.

There seems to be little doubt that DeWitt is headed for stardom in the major leagues.

Mr. Case and Mr. Reiser, you better watch out!

Judges Uphold Two Racing Convictions

BALTIMORE, Jan. 9 (AP) — The Supreme Bench of Baltimore upheld today the Criminal Court convictions of two Washington horsemen on charges growing out of a ringer case at the Pimlico race track during the fall meeting in 1945.

The men—Roland Bennett Sanner and James S. O'Donnell—were ordered to appear in Criminal Court tomorrow for sentencing.

The Supreme Bench upheld the lower court's conviction of Sanner on charges of obtaining purses under false pretenses and on two counts of conspiring to substitute one horse for another.

In the case of O'Donnell, the Supreme Bench granted a new trial motion on the false pretense charge but denied his motion for a new trial on two conspiracy charges.

The court ruled that there was no evidence to show O'Donnell was in Maryland at the time the purses were collected.

Assistant State's Attorney Alan Murrell said O'Donnell would not be brought to trial again on the false pretense count.

Under the state law, the maximum penalty on conviction of conspiracy charges is 10 years' imprisonment on each count.

A Criminal Court jury had convicted the pair of substituting a horse known as Flying Kilts for a horse named Rounco in races run at Pimlico on November 12 and November 27, 1945.

Pennsylvania game officials estimate that at least 400 bears were taken in the state during the open season but note that many hunters neglected to file reports.

WHY NOT round up the items around the house that you no longer need,—that old stove, sewing machine, camera, furniture clock, radio, lawnmower, sweeper, and many other usable articles that are just dust catchers in your house. They can readily be sold for cash to those who need them.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR A SELECT GROUP OF YOUNG MEN

When the Japanese were on our very doorstep in the Aleutians, you read of the bitter fight put up by the famous 7th Infantry Division, and how these gallant fighters were first to drive the enemy from our own soil. Then on to Kwajalein, Leyte and Okinawa, the 7th blazed a trail of heroism that will long be remembered.

Today this same U. S. Army unit is stationed in Korea, famed scenic spot of the Far East. It is performing the very vital job of occupation. But the men of the 7th are having a far different time of it now than they did on Attu. They have swimming facilities, tennis courts, recreational clubs and many other opportunities for sports. They are living more comfortably than ever before. They are sightseeing and having high adventure in a strange land.

A select group of picked young men are now offered the opportunity of rpoudly joining the "Bourgass Division." You may be one of the eligible ones. If so, after initial training in the U. S., you may join right up with the 7th if you enlist now in the Regular Army for a 3-year period.

Remember, overseas pay is 20% higher, so a Private starts at $90 a month in Korea, in addition to food, clothing, quarters, etc. Get full details today at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 111 Union St., Cumberland, Md.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR A SELECT GROUP OF YOUNG MEN

When the Japanese were on our very doorstep in the Aleutians, you read of the bitter fight put up by the famous 7th Infantry Division, and how these gallant fighters were first to drive the enemy from our own soil. Then on to Kwajalein, Leyte and Okinawa, the 7th blazed a trail of heroism that will long be remembered.

Today this same U. S. Army unit is stationed in Korea, famed scenic spot of the Far East. It is performing the very vital job of occupation. But the men of the 7th are having a far different time of it now than they did on Attu. They have swimming facilities, tennis courts, recreational clubs and many other opportunities for sports. They are living more comfortably than ever before. They are sightseeing and having high adventure in a strange land.

A select group of picked young men are now offered the opportunity of proudly joining the "Bourgrass Division." You may be one of the eligible ones. If so, after initial training in the U. S., you may join right up with the 7th if you enlist now in the Regular Army for a 3-year period.

Remember, overseas pay is 20% higher, so a Private starts at $90 a month in Korea, in addition to food, clothing, quarters, etc. Get full details today at U. S. Army Recruiting Station, 111 Union St., Cumberland, Md.

Two Networks Planning Change In Two Broadcasts

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Those program changes which ABC and MBS delve into more often than not continue to make their presence known. ABC particularly is in process of a lot of shifting, one in particular for Friday night.

This puts the Fat Man in at 8 o'clock after a transfer from Monday nights. It takes the time of the Court of Missing Heirs, which is to show up on Sunday nights after a couple weeks off the air. MBS also has a change, but only the program title of the Love Story theater at 8:30. Hereafter it is to be known as just plain Story theater.

Prize fight broadcasting of ABC 10 is to be in the welterweight division. Contestants are two Tony's — Janire and Pellone.

More broadcasts from the Forum on World Affairs at Cleveland will bring these programs to NBC; 10:45 Clare Booth Luce; 11:30 Three Latin-American diplomats; 11:45 Roundtable by newsmen.

The School of the Air period of Opinion Please on CBS at 5 is talk about "should we reduce taxes now?"

The Mystery Theater of NBC at 10 is to have George Coulouris in "The Leopold Lady."

Bill Stern, who took a night off last week, is to be back with his sports time on NBC at 10:30. Kay Kyser is slated to do the guesting.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Leisurely Class

Back in the days of Louis XIV and of his immediate successors, a courtier was a nice thing to be. Members of the court came from the nicest families, possessed imposing titles such as Keeper of the Royal Closets or Master of the Royal Silverware and, in consequence of these titles, drew outrageous salaries which permitted them to live luxuriously at Versailles. Their duties were nebulous, consisting largely of assisting the king to amuse himself. In fact, the differentiation among this class between work and play was so shadowy as to seem non-existent.

John Crosby

When the French Revolution happened along, it was discovered that the state could no longer afford these extravagant and useless appurtenances and they were dispensed with in a rather arbitrary way or, to put it in modern language, liquidated. Much, much later in the tide of human affairs—in the mid-1920s to be exact—there came into being another class of people whose duties were as shadowy and as pleasant as the Master of the Royal Silverware.

They inhabited Wall Street and were known as customers' men. Like the French courtiers, they came from the best families, went to the best schools, were very learned in the arts of eating and drinking but little else, and were welcomed in the best homes. Though well paid, their duties were not onerous. In fact, to the disinterested observer they didn't seem to do anything much except take wealthy potential or actual stock buyers to dinner at the most expensive restaurants. The only requirement for this job was an inexhaustible affability, a speaking acquaintance with headwaiters at the tonier spots, and nice manners. It was a lovely way to earn a living and, at one time, was the goal of all right-thinking Yale men.

Along came the depression, and again society discovered that it had a class of people on its hands that it could no longer afford. The customer's man didn't lose his head, though; only his job. However, when he vanished, he took with him a whole way of life with its pleasant customs and manners and legends. These days you have to work to earn a dollar in Wall Street and survivors of the ancient regime tell me wearily you have to work very hard.

However, whenever prosperity rears its pretty head, society appears to create another of these leisurely classes. (You can hardly call them leisure classes since the members work for a living even though it's hard to define just what they do.) Today, the leisurely class has sprouted, like a mushroom in wet weather, in the advertising and publicity industry. The gentlemen in this new leisurely class don't write advertising copy or photograph the pretty ladies in the ads or do layouts. They're above manual or creative labor of any sort.

They got under the name of account executive, contact man and half a dozen other titles as meaningless though not as romantic as Keeper of the Royal Closets. They take important people to dinner where the conversation is warm, relaxed and pointless. They play golf with radio stars and sponsors and later accompany them to expensive nightclubs where they assume the checks. They avoid office hours like the plague. So numerous has this advertising and publicity nobility become that a large part of the luxury night spots in New York are absolutely dependent on it. Take away the advertising expense account and ninety per cent of New York city's expensive restaurants would have difficulty in surviving. Today the young bloods at Yale dream, not of a partnership in Wall Street, but of a partnership in an advertising firm. Prerequisites for the job are for the most part the ability to hang on to a cocktail, hold up one's end in the realm of gossip, and look presentable. Any Ivy Leaguer can handle it with his eyes closed.

When taxes hit their war-time peak, the job became, it must be admitted, a little more strenuous. Expense accounts were so swollen it took concentrated effort to get them down. A theater critic told me wanly one night that he's awfully tired of eating at "21" but that he couldn't persuade press agents to feed him anywhere else. It's much easier to dispose of a bundle of money in "21" than anywhere else.

As the expense accounts grew to astronomical heights, the number of these contact men, account executive or whatever names they went under grew proportionately and the work, if you can call it that, consequently diminished. Instead of one contact man for six or seven important people you got one contact man for each columnist, radio star, sponsor or anyone else who had to be appeased, mollified or buttered up in some way. I'm told several contact men have been assigned to me whom I've never even met. I don't know how these gentlemen pass the time unless they've taken up solitary drinking.

You mustn't confuse these people with ordinary press agents who make an honest living chivvying their clients names into the newspapers, no easy task what with the paper shortage. The contact man doesn't demand anything and doesn't sell anything except that vague commodity known as good will. The ones I've met have been charming, easy to talk to and only too ready to pay for the drinks.

They also take up a lot of time which, as far as I'm concerned, might be more profitably employed in listening to the radio or writing about it.

In these opening days of the new year when prophecies of things to come are on everyone's lips, I have one small prophecy of my own. A Republican Congress has just taken over affairs in Washington with the avowed aim of cutting taxes. Disposal of surplus profits is not going to be the pressing problem it once was. I predict that the advertising expense account is going to be sharply reduced this year and the number of well-pressed young men anxious to take people to dinner is going to dwindle sharply. The contact man won't vanish altogether just yet. But if another depression strikes, I have a feeling that the contact man will join the customers' men and the French courtiers among history's outmoded and useless professions.

Two Networks Planning Change In Two Broadcasts

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—Those program changes which ABC and MBS delve into more often than not continue to make their presence known. ABC particularly is in process of a lot of shifting, one in particular for Friday night.

This puts the Fat Man in at 8 o'clock after a transfer from Monday nights. It takes the time of the Court of Missing Heirs, which is to show up on Sunday nights after a couple weeks off the air. MBS also has a change, but only the program title of the Love Story theater at 8:30. Hereafter it is to be known as just plain Story theater.

Prize fight broadcasting of ABC 10 is to be in the welterweight division. Contestants are two Tony's — Janire and Pellone.

More broadcasts from the Forum on World Affairs at Cleveland will bring these programs to NBC; 10:45 Clare Booth Luce; 11:30 Three Latin-American diplomats; 11:45 Roundtable by newsmen.

The School of the Air period of Opinion Please on CBS at 5 is talk about "should we reduce taxes now?"

The Mystery Theater of NBC at 10 is to have George Coulouris in "The Leopold Lady."

Bill Stern, who took a night off last week, is to be back with his sports time on NBC at 10:30. Kay Kyser is slated to do the guesting.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Leisurely Class

Back in the days of Louis XIV and of his immediate successors, a courtier was a nice thing to be. Members of the court came from the nicest families, possessed imposing titles such as Keeper of the Royal Closets or Master of the Royal Silverware and, in consequence of these titles, drew outrageous salaries which permitted them to live luxuriously at Versailles. Their duties were nebulous, consisting largely of assisting the king to amuse himself. In fact, the differentiation among this class between work and play was so shadowy as to seem nonexistent.

John Crosby

When the French Revolution happened along, it was discovered that the state could no longer afford these extravagant and useless appurtenances and they were dispensed with in a rather arbitrary way or, to put it in modern language, liquidated. Much, much later in the 1920s to be exact—there came into being another class of people whose duties were as shadowy and as pleasant as the Master of the Royal Silverware.

They inhabited Wall Street and were known as customers' men. Like the French courtiers, they came from the best families, went to the best schools, were very learned in the arts of eating and drinking but little else, and were welcomed in the best homes. Though well paid, their duties were not onerous. In fact, to the disinterested observer they didn't seem to do anything much except take wealthy potential or actual stock buyers to dinner at the most expensive restaurants. The only requirement for this job was an inexhaustible affability, a speaking acquaintance with headwaiters at the tonier spots, and nice manners. It was a lovely way to earn a living and, at one time, was the goal of all right-thinking Yale men.

Along came the depression, and again society discovered that it had a class of people on its hands that it could no longer afford. The customer's man didn't lose his head, though; only his job. However, when he vanished, he took with him a whole way of life with its pleasant customs and manners and legends. These days you have to work to earn a dollar in Wall Street and survivors of the ancient regime tell me wearily you have to work very hard.

However, whenever prosperity rears its pretty head, society appears to create another of these leisurely classes. (You can hardly call them leisure classes since the members work for a living even though it's hard to define just what they do.) Today, the leisurely class has sprouted, like a mushroom in wet weather, in the advertising and publicity industry. The gentlemen in this new leisurely class don't write advertising copy or photograph the pretty ladies in the ads or do layouts. They're above manual or creative labor of any sort.

They got under the name of account executive, contact man and half a dozen other titles as meaningless though not as romantic as Keeper of the Royal Closets. They take important people to dinner where the conversation is warm, relaxed and pointless. They play golf with radio stars and sponsors and later accompany them to expensive nightclubs where they assume the checks. They avoid office hours like the plague. So numerous has this advertising and publicity nobility become that a large part of the luxury night spots in New York are absolutely dependent on it. Take away the advertising expense account and ninety per cent of New York city's expensive restaurants would have difficulty in surviving. Today the young bloods at Yale dream, not of a partnership in Wall Street, but of a partnership in an advertising firm. Prerequisites for the job are for the most part the ability to hang on to a cocktail, hold up one's end in the realm of gossip, and look presentable. Any Ivy Leaguer can handle it with his eyes closed.

When taxes hit their war-time peak, the job became, it must be admitted, a little more strenuous. Expense accounts were so swollen it took concentrated effort to get them down. A theater critic told me wanly one night that he's awfully tired of eating at "21" but that he couldn't persuade press agents to feed him anywhere else. It's much easier to dispose of a bundle of money in "21" than anywhere else.

As the expense accounts grew to astronomical heights, the number of these contact men, account executive or whatever names they went under grew proportionately and the work, if you can call it that, consequently diminished. Instead of one contact man for six or seven important people you got one contact man for each columnist, radio star, sponsor or anyone else who had to be appeased, mollified or buttered up in some way. I'm told several contact men have been assigned to me whom I've never even met. I don't know how these gentlemen pass the time unless they've taken up solitary drinking.

You mustn't confuse these people with ordinary press agents who make an honest living chivvying their clients names into the newspapers, no easy task what with the paper shortage. The contact man doesn't demand anything and doesn't sell anything except that vague commodity known as good will. The ones I've met have been charming, easy to talk to and only too ready to pay for the drinks.

They also take up a lot of time which, as far as I'm concerned, might be more profitably employed in listening to the radio or writing about it.

In these opening days of the new year when prophecies of things to come are on everyone's lips, I have one small prophecy of my own. A Republican Congress has just taken over affairs in Washington with the avowed aim of cutting taxes. Disposal of surplus profits is not going to be the pressing problem it once was. I predict that the advertising expense account is going to be sharply reduced this year and the number of well-pressed young men anxious to take people to dinner is going to dwindle sharply. The contact man won't vanish altogether just yet. But if another depression strikes, I have a feeling that the contact man will join the customers' men and the French courtiers among history's outmoded and useless professions.

Search For Dope Thieves Turns To Washington

Capital City Taxi Seen Here Tuesday

The investigation of narcotic thefts early Tuesday morning at both local hospitals centered on Washington, D. C., last night after police were informed that several suspects, believed connected with a dope ring, are operating out of the Capital city.

Lt. Detective R. Emmet Flynn said he received word from the Richmond, Va., Police Department, informing him that the local robbery may be connected with cases now being investigated there. The Richmond police said they believed the "gang" was operating out of Washington.

Washington Cab Seen

A taxi bearing Washington, D. C., licenses was seen on Park and Williams streets between 9 and 10 o'clock on the eve of the theft of morphine from both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals, Lt. Flynn said.

The license number of the taxi was secured and Washington Police were asked to investigate, Flynn said, adding that he was advised that Tyler Scarborough, 902 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, was the driver of the cab.

The Washington police said that during an initial questioning the taxi driver, declared he was returning from Ohio and passed through Cumberland early in the evening on his way back to Washington. He denied that he picked up any passenger in Cumberland or that he even stopped in the city. Police quoted him as saying he arrived home about 12:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Lt. Flynn also denied current rumors that the narcotics stolen at both hospitals may exceed a quarter-million dollars in value. He said the 500 tablets of morphine taken at Allegany Hospital were worth about two cents each or a total of $10 while Memorial Hospital estimated a loss of about $100.

Explain Rumors

Police said many of the rumors may have been started by the fact that morphine tablets when given patients as injections cost about $5 per quarter of a tablet. This they explained includes medical assistance and is no estimate of the value of the drugs. Addicts usually pay about $1 per tablet, police declared.

Narcotic robberies have been occurring frequently throughout the east, police said last night, adding that they have been advised that five hospitals in Pittsburgh and several in Baltimore were recently victimized. They expressed belief that the Cumberland robberies may have been committed by the same persons, since methods used correspond to those employed here.

The thieves gained entrance to both hospitals by prying open windows leading to the pharmacies, and the fact they were able to pick out the drugs may indicate inside assistance was given, police said.

A federal narcotic agent, who came here following the report of the two robberies left yesterday, police explained, after he made a brief check of the scenes of both thefts. The agent commended the local police department for its thorough investigation.

The federal agent explained that the thefts appeared to have been committed by "experts," which was the opinion local police expressed shortly after the robbery, since only drugs used in "dope rings" were taken.

Both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals systems of keeping the drugs were approved by the federal investigator, police said. Memorial Hospital has a steel cabinet inserted in the wall and while Allegany has only a light metal cabinet most of the drugs are kept in a safe, drawing on it only as the smaller supply is used from the cabinet, police explained.

Police also said fingerprints were lifted at both hospitals during the investigation and have been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory in Washington for study.

3 Boys, 2 Girls Held At Parsons In Theft Case

Arraignment To Be Held On Saturday

A quintet of West Virginia boys and girls, ranging in age from 16 to 18, have been arrested in connection with a series of crimes ranging from auto larceny and breaking and entering to armed robbery, and will be arraigned in Parsons, W. Va., Saturday afternoon, State Trooper Charles Burke said last night.

Burke listed the quintet as Teddy James Murphy, 18, Dale Nestor, 17, a junior at Parsons High School, Troy Heckler, 18, Juanita June McDonald, 16, who attends Parsons High School, and Viola Owens, 18. All are residents of Parsons except the Owens girl who lives at Montrose.

The three boys, Trooper Burke said, will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb at 1 p. m. Saturday on charges of breaking and entering and auto larceny, while the girls will be arraigned at the same time on breaking and entering charges. All five are expected to be held for action of the March term of grand jury since they have signed confessions, Burke stated.

The armed robbery occurred in Fairmont, Marion County, and officers there released the two youths involved, Murphy and Nestor, to Tucker County authorities, according to the trooper.

Planned Trip To Florida

He added that he believes the Owens girl was a victim of circumstances and said she has been released from jail in protective custody of her mother until the preliminary hearing. The other four still are in jail at Parsons.

Arrest of the youths, Murphy and Nestor in Fairmont Monday night, the girls in Parsons Wednesday morning, and Heckler, who gave himself up, broke up a planned trip to Florida by the group, the trooper said.

He added that the two girls came to the home of the McDonald girl's aunt in the 400 block Franklin street, Cumberland, Tuesday morning and were waiting there for the boys to pick them up to begin the trip to Florida.

According to the trooper, the quintet broke into the 14-room home of Elmer Ours, well known Parsons resident who is wintering in Florida, about midnight Saturday. The boys entered through a basement window and then let the girls in through a rear door, he said.

They looted the home of two pistols, one a hundred years old, valued at $1,000, that was carried by Ours' grandfather who was a Confederate officer in the Civil War, a .22 calibre rifle, a $400 fur coat, $100 worth of men's clothing, $100 worth of women's clothing and about $200 worth of jewelry, including a diamond ring, and three gold watches, and old coins, Trooper Burke said.

Wait For Automobile

After looting the home, the girls waited there for 30 minutes while the boys went for an automobile. Sheriff D. E. Crosten said the boys first appropriated the car owned by Cyril "Bud" Painter, Parsons, but finally decided it wouldn't do. After taking a flashlight and carton of gum from the dash compartment, they moved to another part of town and took a sedan owned by Devlin Wratchford, a state roads employe, he added.

Returning to the Ours home, the car was loaded with the loot and the group set out toward Red House on Route 219, Trooper Burke related. He added that the car broke down and that the quintet abandoned it, taking only jewelry and the weapons with them. Then they hitchhiked to Thomas where they took the morning bus to Parsons, arriving there about 8:30 a. m.

Nestor and Murphy left Parsons later that morning and went to Fairmont, where they got into a car operated by a Fairmont resident. The sheriff said Murphy stuck a .32 revolver in the driver's ribs and told him they were taking him out in the car to rob him of his money. The owner drove as directed until another car approached, when he flung open the door on his side, jumped out of the car and shouted for help.

The youths fled but were picked up a short time later on the Fairmont bridge by two plain clothesmen.

Aunt Notified Sheriff

After the two girls came to Cumberland Tuesday morning, the McDonald girl's aunt notified Sheriff Crosten Tuesday night, the trooper reported, and Maryland State Police were notified of their presence here, Trooper Walter Wilt watching the house throughout the night. It was not known at the time that Nestor and Murphy had been arrested in Fairmont, according to Burke, who said it was believed the pair might come to Cumberland, pull another armed robbery in stealing a car and then pick up the girls and head for Baltimore.

On Wednesday morning, the girls boarded the train back to Parsons and were taken into custody when they arrived there.

Trooper Burke said the 100-year-old cap and ball pistol taken from the Ours home was fired by the group on one occasion and some how did not explode.

He said the pistol was primed with primers from 12-gauge shotgun shells and that powder from the shells also was used to fire it. A .45 caliber bullet was removed from its case and used as a ball.

Now On Probation

The three youths, Trooper Burke said, now are under three years' probation for motor vehicle theft on a federal charge. He said they were paroled last September by Federal Judge Watkins for stealing an automobile and taking it over the state line to Virginia.

All of the loot was recovered, either in the abandoned automobile or on the defendants' persons.

GREATER SANITATION—Approximately 80 persons who deal with food consumed in public eating places, including hospitals, gathered at the afternoon session yesterday to hear a lecture on the proper way to serve food and the benefits derived from doing so. The opening session was held Wednesday night, for owners and proprietors of the public eating houses, with sessions yesterday afternoon and night and the last scheduled this morning for employes. Yesterday afternoon, Dr. Richmond Anderson, United States Public Health Officer, addressed the meeting. Seen in the background are nuns from Allegany Hospital. Several nurses from Memorial Hospital left shortly before the picture was taken. Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, said 136 food handlers attended Wednesday night's session and heads of the program reported last night that the auditorium at City Hall was crowded beyond capacity.

Court Of Appeals Upholds Decision In Mining Case

Question Of Lease Ruled No Mistake

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld today a decision of the Allegany County Court refusing to amend a lease on strip mining coal lands in Western Maryland.

The court held that L. L. Hubble had failed to prove that a lease he held with Eutelka S. Somerville, receiver of the Moscow-Georges Creek Mining Company had been drawn in part by mistake.

In question was a tract of some 600 acres, mostly located in Allegany county, and a small part in Garrett.

Hubble's petition in the lower court did not allege fraud or misrepresentation, the court said, but asked for relief on the sole ground that a mistake had been made in the preparation of the lease executed by the receivers to him.

The dispute arose shortly before Hubble filed his petition as to whether the property included "that part of the Big Vein or Pittsburgh seam of coal that was beneath the surface of the tract known as 'Come By Chance.'"

The court declared, "In this case it is perfectly clear from the lease to Hubble that it was not the intention of the parties that Hubble was to have the right to strip-mine all of the Big Vein coal. On the contrary, the lease itself plainly provides that he was to have the 'right and privilege of strip-mining a part and portion of said big vein coal' and it further provides that the land leased to him was approximately 80 acres.

"It is apparent, therefore, that Hubble acquired the right to strip-mine only a part of said Big Vein that was located under the 80 acre-tract that was demised to him under the lease. x x x

"We think that the petitioner failed to show that at the time the lease in question was reduced to writing, a mutual mistake was made concerning its terms, conditions and provisions. x x x In this he has failed, and the decree of the learned chancellor below will be affirmed."

The case originated in equity in Allegany County Circuit Court here early last year and decision was handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter Capper. The appeal was filed July 16, 1946, and the case has been reviewed and studied by the Court of Appeals, with decision handed down Thursday, upholding the local court.

Attorneys for Mrs. Somerville in the case are W. Earle Cobey and William M. Somerville.

Detective Lilya Stresses Safety Education In Talk To Kiwanians

Pedestrians as well as automobile drivers must be educated and made "safety conscious", Detective Edwin Lilya, of the Cumberland Police Department, told members of the Kiwanis Club at its meeting in Central YMCA yesterday, "if we are to cut down the number of traffic accidents in Cumberland and Allegany county".

Speaking on the subject "Accident Prevention and Safety" Detective Lilya traced the growth of the automobile industry which he said in the last few years has created a terrific safety hazard. In 1941 there were over 40,000 persons killed in the United States in traffic accidents; one and a half million persons were injured and over 100,000 persons were permanently injured, Lilya said.

Enforcement of highway laws is not enough to prevent accidents, the detective, who for more than a year has been making a survey of accidents in Cumberland said, "we need appropriate education along safety lines", he added. Lilya declared "we must learn how to live in this congested age."

Three Elements Involved

Three elements are involved in all traffic accidents, the speaker told the Kiwanians — the driver, the car and the roadway. He explained that eight percent of all accidents are believed due to the car; five percent to roadways and 87 percent directly attributable to the driver—or human element.

Detective Lilya said there were 286 accidents in Cumberland last year and that 179 persons were injured severely enough to receive treatment in hospitals. He added that 10 persons were fatally injured from Dec. 1, 1945 until Jan. 1, 1947 and said that 75 to 80 percent of those injured in accidents here in that time were pedestrians.

The speaker asserted that every possible means must be taken to stress "safety" and urged use of the press, radio and other mediums. He said many persons are injured by crossing the streets at other places than intersections, and said the police are doing everything in their power to learn more about traffic safety and to cooperate with the public in cutting down the number of accidents.

School Children Cautious

Lilya declared that not many school children, particularly those in elementary schools, are involved in accidents because they are being taught safety and are becoming "safety conscious". Very few children here are struck in going to and from school, he added. The detective pointed out that three out of five high school graduates later become drivers and said if they can be taught safety in school they will be better drivers when they become adults.

The detective touched on the traffic problem in Cumberland and said the police were cooperating with the bus companies in an effort to speed up traffic and eliminate hazards where passengers board and leave buses. Asserting that parking meters have not corrected the traffic congestion here, Lilya told the Kiwanians that "you can't clog your streets with cars and move traffic speedily".

Following his talk a number of questions were asked from the floor which Lilya answered. The meeting was one of the most interesting of its kind ever held by the Kiwanis club and the attendance was unusually good. W. Earle Cobey, who took over as president last Thursday, presided.

Queen City Dairy Named Defendant In Equity Action

Stockholder Charges Misuse Of Tax Funds

A suit in equity against the Queen City Dairy, Inc., and four of the firm's five directors, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday charging fraud, improper use of funds, an effort to depreciate the value of the company's stock and deplete assets.

The bill of complaint was instituted by John H. Stiffler, plantiff, naming the corporation and James E. Miltenberger, W. H. Johnson, J. William Loar and S. A. Koontz, Sr. as defendants.

According to the suit, Stiffler claims he holds 78 shares of Queen City Dairy stock, purchased from various persons at various times for $300 per share. He also states that he purchased an additional 31 shares on January 2, 1947, for $300 per share, and has options to buy a majority of the stock of the company.

He further alleges in the bill of complaint that the company is indebted to the Federal government for about $40,000 in income taxes. He claims that the board of directors assessed to members, and earmarked for income tax payments, $20,771.15 for the year 1945, and that later an additional $17,429.25 was assessed to members for further tax payments.

On or about April 1946, the directors unanimously agreed to pay the $20,771.15 income taxes, but Stiffler charges the taxes were not paid and money ear-marked for this purpose was checked out to other individuals or other sources. He charges this disbursement of funds was unlawful and was without the consent of the fifth director, Clarence U. Llewellyn.

Stiffler claims the checks were signed by James E. Miltenberger, president, W. H Johnson, secretary and E. A. Dashiell, manager. He asks the court to give him whatever relief is proper and to have the directors give an accounting of the alleged action.

Two divorce actions were filed yesterday, as follows:

Ethel L. Wilson, represented by Morris Baron, attorney seeks divorce from George G. Wilson, represented by Clarence Shutter.

Robert T. McLaughlin, represented by E. J. Ryan, seeks divorce from Wilda M. McLaughlin.

New Keys Jingle In Court House Lock Situation

Custodian Passes Out Bright Ones For Old

The lock and key controversy at the County Court House looked a little brighter yesterday afternoon, as th court house janitor went jingling about the task of distributing nice new shiny keys to "departmental heads and others entitled to use them."

At a late hour last night, it had not been fully determined how many keys had been distributed, although the judges of the court, county clerk and some of his deputies, and other officials had received keys.

According to the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, James Stevenson, there were 52 old keys out among court house employes and attorneys entitled to access to the court house and its volumes of records. Stevenson said he had a record of most of these, but added that the janitor is making up the new record.

Some of the new bright and shiny keys are numbered, so they can be registered, it was indicated, but some of them were blank, so they of course can not be registered. The janitor, however, is having each recipient sign for his key, court house attaches said.

Install Door Bell

In addition to the new combination on the front door lock of the Court House and the new keys, an electric bell is being installed. An electrician was busy yesterday afternoon, drilling holes, stringing wire and installing a loud bell, so that persons locked out could ring for the custodian, janitor, watchman or some one else for admittance.

No formal action was taken by the Board of County Commissioners on the question of changing the locks or installing the new bell system. Commissioner James Holmes had no advance knowledge of the act, and termed the action of Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the board, "somewhat irregular."

Wilkinson declared that the change of the lock combination was not a spite move of any kind, but was made to provide greater protection for a half million dollar property. He said 52 keys out were too many. He also said that the combination was changed with the full knowledge of Commissioner William H. Lemmert.

Commissioner Lemmert told the News Wednesday night that he had no knowledge of the lock combination being changed, and then yesterday maintained he had "been misquoted."

Wilkinson explained that he and Lemmert have decided that three custodians will be on duty at the Court House providing full 24-hour service, so that each man will work an eight hour day and there will always be someone on hand to answer the bell and admit persons who have proper business in the building.

Encountered Trouble

The new locks had scarcely been installed before difficulty was encountered. When Alvin V. Snider the day janitor came to work yesterday morning, he found the locks soaped and that kerosene or some other substance had been poured into the locks, jamming the tumblers and making a mess. He entered the Court House through the basement door which the judges and other court house attaches had used the night before to leave the building.

The custodian asked office attaches for their keys as they checked in for work yesterday but missed a few individuals including Tax Collector Lucian C. Radcliffe and Assistant Collector Alban C. Thompson.

After conferring with his attorney Radcliffe, who has been ordered out of his office by the board, handed in his keys to the front door.

Radcliffe left the hospital this week against his doctor's advice but he said his office has 1000 service bills and 12,000 automobile reports to clear and that he was needed there.

Express Resentment

Radcliffe, who admitted he was in a highly nervous condition, said yesterday that if he experienced any difficulty in gaining access to his office he intended to write W. Lee Elgin, commissioner of Motor Vehicles, and tell him simply that he did not feel he could handle the work under existing conditions.

Wilkinson, who arrived at the court house yesterday when he was called by the custodian, took 30 minutes to explain the move to a reporter and in the course of his discussion remarked, "I am sure that people who supported me in this last election realize that anything I do will be misinterpreted and miscontrued in some quarters not far from where we are sitting. I know that many of these people in here are against me but I feel that I have a responsibility to the taxpayers of this county and I am going to do my best to live up to it. One responsibility is to see to it that this half million dollar building is adequately protected."

Strong Winds, Snow Flurries Reported

Low temperatures and strong winds prevailed in the tri-state area last night after up to an inch and a half of snow, falling in flurries throughout the day served to make Garrett County and western Allegany County roads slippery once more.

The State Roads Commission garage at Frostburg reported that "around an inch" of snow in that section and farther west in the vicinity of Garrett County made highways slick, but cinder crews went to work at 4 p. m. and roads were reported in good condition at 11 p. m. when they stopped.

State Police reported roads generally were in good condition in Allegany County.

Snow flurries also were reported in many sections of West Virginia yesterday and cinder crews were spreading cinders on mountain roads of Preston County.

Snow also was reported sticking to highways in the Elkins and Webster County areas.

At midnight, the temperature in Cumberland was recorded at 24 degrees. It stood at 14 at Deal, Pa., and 16 at Thomas, W. Va.

Search For Dope Thieves Turns To Washington

Capital City Taxi Seen Here Tuesday

The investigation of narcotic thefts early Tuesday morning at both local hospitals centered on Washington, D. C., last night after police were informed that several suspects, believed connected with a dope ring, are operating out of the Capital city.

Lt. Detective R. Emmet Flynn said he received word from the Richmond, Va., Police Department, informing him that the local robbery may be connected with cases now being investigated there. The Richmond police said they believed the "gang" was operating out of Washington.

Washington Cab Seen

A taxi bearing Washington, D. C., licenses was seen on Park and Williams streets between 9 and 10 o'clock on the eve of the theft of morphine from both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals, Lt. Flynn said.

The license number of the taxi was secured and Washington Police were asked to investigate, Flynn said, adding that he was advised that Tyler Scarborough, 902 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, was the driver of the cab.

The Washington police said that during an initial questioning the taxi driver, declared he was returning from Ohio and passed through Cumberland early in the evening on his way back to Washington. He denied that he picked up any passenger in Cumberland or that he even stopped in the city. Police quoted him as saying he arrived home about 12:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Lt. Flynn also denied current rumors that the narcotics stolen at both hospitals may exceed a quarter-million dollars in value. He said the 500 tablets of morphine taken at Allegany Hospital were worth about two cents each or a total of $10 while Memorial Hospital estimated a loss of about $100.

Explain Rumors

Police said many of the rumors may have been started by the fact that morphine tablets when given patients as injections cost about $5 per quarter of a tablet. This they explained includes medical assistance and is no estimate of the value of the drugs. Addicts usually pay about $1 per tablet, police declared.

Narcotic robberies have been occurring frequently throughout the east, police said last night, adding that they have been advised that five hospitals in Pittsburgh and several in Baltimore were recently victimized. They expressed belief that the Cumberland robberies may have been committed by the same persons, since methods used correspond to those employed here.

The thieves gained entrance to both hospitals by prying open windows leading to the pharmacies, and the fact they were able to pick out the drugs may indicate inside assistance was given, police said.

A federal narcotic agent, who came here following the report of the two robberies left yesterday, police explained, after he made a brief check of the scenes of both thefts. The agent commended the local police department for its thorough investigation.

The federal agent explained that the thefts appeared to have been committed by "experts," which was the opinion local police expressed shortly after the robbery, since only drugs used in "dope rings" were taken.

Both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals systems of keeping the drugs were approved by the federal investigator, police said. Memorial Hospital has a steel cabinet inserted in the wall and while Allegany has only a light metal cabinet most of the drugs are kept in a safe, drawing on it only as the smaller supply is used from the cabinet, police explained.

Police also said fingerprints were lifted at both hospitals during the investigation and have been sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory in Washington for study.

3 Boys, 2 Girls Held At Parsons In Theft Case

Arraignment To Be Held On Saturday

A quintet of West Virginia boys and girls, ranging in age from 16 to 18, have been arrested in connection with a series of crimes ranging from auto larceny and breaking and entering to armed robbery, and will be arraigned in Parsons, W. Va., Saturday afternoon, State Trooper Charles Burke said last night.

Burke listed the quintet as Teddy James Murphy, 18, Dale Nestor, 17, a junior at Parsons High School, Troy Heckler, 18, Juanita June McDonald, 16, who attends Parsons High School, and Viola Owens, 18. All are residents of Parsons except the Owens girl who lives at Montrose.

The three boys, Trooper Burke said, will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb at 1 p. m. Saturday on charges of breaking and entering and auto larceny, while the girls will be arraigned at the same time on breaking and entering charges. All five are expected to be held for action of the March term of grand jury since they have signed confessions, Burke stated.

The armed robbery occurred in Fairmont, Marion County, and officers there released the two youths involved, Murphy and Nestor, to Tucker County authorities, according to the trooper.

Planned Trip To Florida

He added that he believes the Owens girl was a victim of circumstances and said she has been released from jail in protective custody of her mother until the preliminary hearing. The other four still are in jail at Parsons.

Arrest of the youths, Murphy and Nestor in Fairmont Monday night, the girls in Parsons Wednesday morning, and Heckler, who gave himself up, broke up a planned trip to Florida by the group, the trooper said.

He added that the two girls came to the home of the McDonald girl's aunt in the 400 block Franklin street, Cumberland, Tuesday morning and were waiting there for the boys to pick them up to begin the trip to Florida.

According to the trooper, the quintet broke into the 14-room home of Elmer Ours, well known Parsons resident who is wintering in Florida, about midnight Saturday. The boys entered through a basement window and then let the girls in through a rear door, he said.

They looted the home of two pistols, one a hundred years old, valued at $1,000, that was carried by Ours' grandfather who was a Confederate officer in the Civil War, a .22 calibre rifle, a $400 fur coat, $100 worth of men's clothing, $100 worth of women's clothing and about $200 worth of jewelry, including a diamond ring, and three gold watches, and old coins, Trooper Burke said.

Wait For Automobile

After looting the home, the girls waited there for 30 minutes while the boys went for an automobile. Sheriff D. E. Crosten said the boys first appropriated the car owned by Cyril "Bud" Painter, Parsons, but finally decided it wouldn't do. After taking a flashlight and carton of gum from the dash compartment, they moved to another part of town and took a sedan owned by Devlin Wratchford, a state roads employe, he added.

Returning to the Ours home, the car was loaded with the loot and the group set out toward Red House on Route 219, Trooper Burke related. He added that the car broke down and that the quintet abandoned it, taking only jewelry and the weapons with them. Then they hitchhiked to Thomas where they took the morning bus to Parsons, arriving there about 8:30 a. m.

Nestor and Murphy left Parsons later that morning and went to Fairmont, where they got into a car operated by a Fairmont resident. The sheriff said Murphy stuck a .32 revolver in the driver's ribs and told him they were taking him out in the car to rob him of his money. The owner drove as directed until another car approached, when he flung open the door on his side, jumped out of the car and shouted for help.

The youths fled but were picked up a short time later on the Fairmont bridge by two plain clothesmen.

Aunt Notified Sheriff

After the two girls came to Cumberland Tuesday morning, the McDonald girl's aunt notified Sheriff Crosten Tuesday night, the trooper reported, and Maryland State Police were notified of their presence here, Trooper Walter Wilt watching the house throughout the night. It was not known at the time that Nestor and Murphy had been arrested in Fairmont, according to Burke, who said it was believed the pair might come to Cumberland, pull another armed robbery in stealing a car and then pick up the girls and head for Baltimore.

On Wednesday morning, the girls boarded the train back to Parsons and were taken into custody when they arrived there.

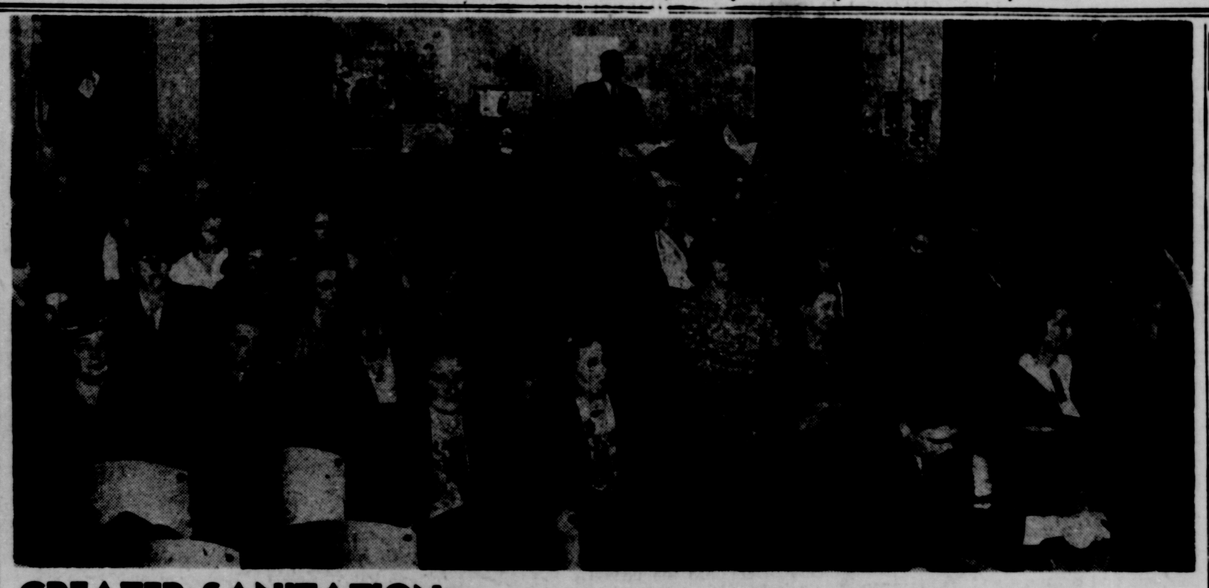
Trooper Burke said the 100-year-old cap and ball pistol taken from the Ours home was fired by the group on one occasion and some how did not explode.

He said the pistol was primed with primers from 12-gauge shotgun shells and that powder from the shells also was used to fire it. A .45 caliber bullet was removed from its case and used as a ball.

New On Probation

The three youths, Trooper Burke said, now are under three years' probation for motor vehicle theft on a federal charge. He said they were paroled last September by Federal Judge Watkins for stealing an automobile and taking it over the state line to Virginia.

All of the loot was recovered, either in the abandoned automobile or on the defendants' persons.



GREATER SANITATION—Approximately 80 persons who deal with food consumed in public eating places, including hospitals, gathered at the afternoon session yesterday to hear a lecture on the proper way to serve food and the benefits derived from doing so. Yesterday afternoon, Dr. Richmond Anderson, United States Public Health Officer, addressed the meeting. Seen in the background are nuns from Allegany Hospital. Several nurses from Memorial Hospital left shortly before the picture was taken. Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer, said 136 food handlers attended Wednesday night's session and heads of the program reported last night that the auditorium at City Hall was crowded beyond capacity.

Court Of Appeals Upholds Decision In Mining Case

Question Of Lease Ruled No Mistake

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9 (AP)—The Maryland Court of Appeals upheld today a decision of the Allegany County Court refusing to amend a lease on strip mining coal lands in Western Maryland.

The court held that L. L. Hubble had failed to prove that a lease he held with Eutelka S. Somerville, receiver of the Moscow-Georges Creek Mining Company had been drawn in part by mistake.

In question was a tract of some 600 acres, mostly located in Allegany county, and a small part in Garrett.

Hubble's petition in the lower court did not allege fraud or misrepresentation, the court said, but asked for relief on the sole ground that a mistake had been made in the preparation of the lease executed by the receivers to him.

The dispute arose shortly before Hubble filed his petition as to whether the property included "that part of the Big Vein or Pittsburgh seam of coal that was beneath the surface of the tract known as 'Come By Chance.'"

The court declared, "In this case it is perfectly clear from the lease to Hubble that it was not the intention of the parties that Hubble was to have the right to strip-mine all of the Big Vein coal. On the contrary, the lease itself plainly provides that he was to have the 'right and privilege of strip-mining a part and portion of said big vein coal' and it further provides that the land leased to him was approximately 80 acres.

"It is apparent, therefore, that Hubble acquired the right to strip-mine only a part of said Big Vein that was located under the 80 acre-tract that was demised to him under the lease. x x x

"We think that the petitioner failed to show that at the time the lease in question was reduced to writing, a mutual mistake was made concerning its terms, conditions and provisions. x x x In this he has failed, and the decree of the learned chancellor below will be affirmed."

The case originated in equity in Allegany County Circuit Court here early last year and decision was handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter Capper. The appeal was filed July 16, 1946, and the case has been reviewed and studied by the Court of Appeals, with decision handed down Thursday, upholding the local court.

Attorneys for Mrs. Somerville in the case are W. Earle Cobey and William M. Somerville.

Detective Lilya Stresses Safety Education In Talk To Kiwanians

Pedestrians as well as automobile drivers must be educated and made "safety conscious", Detective Edwin Lilya, of the Cumberland Police Department, told members of the Kiwanis Club at its meeting in Central YMCA yesterday, "if we are to cut down the number of traffic accidents in Cumberland and Allegany county".

Speaking on the subject "Accident Prevention and Safety" Detective Lilya traced the growth of the automobile industry which he said in the last few years has created a terrific safety hazard. In 1941 there were over 40,000 persons killed in the United States in traffic accidents; one and a half million persons were injured and over 100,000 persons were permanently injured, Lilya said.

Enforcement of highway laws is not enough to prevent accidents, the detective, who for more than a year has been making a survey of accidents in Cumberland said, "we need appropriate education along safety lines", he added. Lilya declared "we must learn how to live in this congested age."

Three Elements Involved

Three elements are involved in all traffic accidents, the speaker told the Kiwanians — the driver, the car and the roadway. He explained that eight percent of all accidents are believed due to the car; five percent to roadways and 87 percent directly attributable to the driver—or human element.

Detective Lilya said there were 296 accidents in Cumberland last year and that 179 persons were injured severely enough to receive treatment in hospitals. He added that 10 persons were fatally injured from Dec. 1, 1945 until Jan. 1, 1947 and said that 75 to 80 percent of those injured in accidents here in that time were pedestrians.

The speaker asserted that every possible means must be taken to stress "safety" and urged use of the press, radio and other mediums. He said many persons are injured by crossing the streets at other places than intersections, and said the police are doing everything in their power to learn more about traffic safety and to cooperate with the public in cutting down the number of accidents.

School Children Cautious

Lilya declared that not many school children, particularly those in elementary schools, are involved in accidents because they are being taught safety and are becoming "safety conscious". Very few children here are struck in going to and from school, he added. The detective pointed out that three out of five high school graduates later become drivers and said if they can be taught safety in school they will be better drivers when they become adults.

The detective touched on the traffic problem in Cumberland and said the police were cooperating with the bus companies in an effort to speed up traffic and eliminate hazards where passengers board and leave buses. Asserting that parking meters have not corrected the traffic congestion here, Lilya told the Kiwanians that "you can't clog your streets with cars and move traffic speedily".

Following his talk a number of questions were asked from the floor which Lilya answered. The meeting was one of the most interesting of its kind ever held by the Kiwanis club and the attendance was unusually good. W. Earle Cobey, who took over as president last Thursday, presided.

Queen City Dairy Named Defendant In Equity Action

Stockholder Charges Misuse Of Tax Funds

A suit in equity against the Queen City Dairy, Inc., and four of the firm's five directors, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday charging fraud, improper use of funds, an effort to depreciate the value of the company's stock and deplete assets.

The bill of complaint was instituted by John H. Stiffler, plantiff, naming the corporation and James E. Miltenberger, W. H. Johnson, J. William Loar and S. A. Koontz, Sr. as defendants.

According to the suit, Stiffler claims he holds 78 shares of Queen City Dairy stock, purchased from various persons at various times for $300 per share. He also states that he purchased an additional 31 shares on January 2, 1947, for $300 per share, and has options to buy a majority of the stock of the company.

He further alleges in the bill of complaint that the company is indebted to the Federal government for about $40,000 in income taxes. He claims that the board of directors assessed to members, and earmarked for income tax payments, $20,771.15 for the year 1945, and that later an additional $17,429.25 was assessed to members for further tax payments.

On or about April 1946, the directors unanimously agreed to pay the $20,771.15 income taxes, but Stiffler charges the taxes were not paid and money ear-marked for this purpose was checked out to other individuals or other sources. He charges this disbursement of funds was unlawful and was without the consent of the fifth director, Clarence U. Llewellyn.

Stiffler claims the checks were signed by James E. Miltenberger, president, W. H Johnson, secretary and E. A. Dashiell, manager. He asks the court to give him whatever relief is proper and to have the directors give an accounting of the alleged action.

Two divorce actions were filed yesterday, as follows:

Ethel L. Wilson, represented by Morris Baron, attorney seeks divorce from George G. Wilson, represented by Clarence Shutter.

Robert T. McLaughlin, represented by E. J. Ryan, seeks divorce from Wilda M. McLaughlin.

New Keys Jingle In Court House Lock Situation

Custodian Passes Out Bright Ones For Old

The lock and key controversy at the County Court House looked a little brighter yesterday afternoon as th court house janitor went jingling about the task of distributing nice new shiny keys to "departmental heads and others entitled to use them."

At a late hour last night, it had not been fully determined how many keys had been distributed, although the judges of the court, county clerk and some of his deputies, and other officials had received keys.

According to the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, James Stevenson, there were 52 old keys out among court house employes and attorneys entitled to access to the court house and its volumes of records. Stevenson said he had a record of most of these, but added that the janitor is making up the new record.

Some of the new bright and shiny keys are numbered, so they can be registered, it was indicated, but some of them were blank, so they of course can not be registered. The janitor, however, is having each recipient sign for his key, court house attaches said.

Install Door Bell

In addition to the new combination on the front door lock of the Court House and the new keys, an electric bell is being installed. An electrician was busy yesterday afternoon, drilling holes, stringing wire and installing a loud bell, so that persons locked out could ring for the custodian, janitor, watchman or some one else for admittance.

No formal action was taken by the Board of County Commissioners on the question of changing the locks or installing the new bell system. Commissioner James Holmes had no advance knowledge of the act, and termed the action of Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the board, "somewhat irregular."

Wilkinson declared that the change of the lock combination was not a spite move of any kind, but was made to provide greater protection for a half million dollar property. He said 52 keys out were too many. He also said that the combination was changed with the full knowledge of Commissioner William H. Lemmert.

Commissioner Lemmert told the News Wednesday night that he had no knowledge of the lock combination being changed, and then yesterday maintained he had "been misquoted."

Wilkinson explained that he and Lemmert have decided that three custodians will be on duty at the Court House providing full 24-hour service, so that each man will work an eight hour day and there will always be someone on hand to answer the bell and admit persons who have proper business in the building.

Encountered Trouble

The new locks had scarcely been installed before difficulty was encountered. When Alvin V. Snider the day janitor came to work yesterday morning, he found the locks soaped and that kerosene or some other substance had been poured into the locks, jamming the tumblers and making a mess. He entered the Court House through the basement door which the judges and other court house attaches had used the night before to leave the building.

The custodian asked office attaches for their keys as they checked in for work yesterday but missed a few individuals including Tax Collector Lucian C. Radcliffe and Assistant Collector Alban C. Thompson.

After conferring with his attorney Radcliffe, who has been ordered out of his office by the board, handed in his keys to the front door.

Radcliffe left the hospital this week against his doctor's advice but he said his office has 1000 service bills and 12,000 automobile reports to clear and that he was needed there.

Express Resentment

Radcliffe, who admitted he was in a highly nervous condition, said yesterday that if he experienced any difficulty in gaining access to his office he intended to write W. Lee Elgin, commissioner of Motor Vehicles, and tell him simply that he did not feel he could handle the work under existing conditions.

Wilkinson, who arrived at the court house yesterday when he was called by the custodian, took 30 minutes to explain the move to a reporter and in the course of his discussion remarked, "I am sure that people who supported me in this last election realize that anything I do will be misinterpreted and miscontrued in some quarters not far from where we are sitting. I know that many of these people in here are against me but I feel that I have a responsibility to the taxpayers of this county and I am going to do my best to live up to it. One responsibility is to see to it that this half million dollar building is adequately protected."

Strong Winds, Snow Flurries Reported

Low temperatures and strong winds prevailed in the tri-state area last night after up to an inch and a half of snow, falling in flurries throughout the day served to make Garrett County and western Allegany County roads slippery once more.

The State Roads Commission garage at Frostburg reported that "around an inch" of snow in that section and farther west in the vicinity of Garrett County made highways slick, but cinder crews went to work at 4 p. m. and roads were reported in good condition at 11 p. m. when they stopped.

State Police reported roads generally were in good condition in Allegany County.

Snow flurries also were reported in many sections of West Virginia yesterday and cinder crews were spreading cinders on mountain roads of Preston County.

Snow also was reported sticking to highways in the Elkins and Webster County areas.

At midnight, the temperature in Cumberland was recorded at 24 degrees. It stood at 14 at Deal, Pa., and 16 at Thomas, W. Va.
